Flying News.
18 Children in 9 Years.
Mussolini Won.
Why Telegraphers Struck.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

A SPANISH airplane, "Jesus del Grand Poder," is now on a 4,800-mile flight from Spain to Brazil.

The giant German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, carrying twenty-seven passengers, is on a 5,000-mile flight over the Mediterranean and Central Europe.

Accidents happen, but flying goes ahead.

LET ladies who feel they really "can't afford more than two children with everything so expensive" consider Frau Alfred Voellner, of Demmin, Germany. Twenty-eight years old, she has eighteen children, all under nine years of age. She had a boy in 1920, a girl in 1922 and four sets of quadruplets in 1923, 1925, 1927 and 1929, sixteen children in four births. All are alive, ten boys, eight girls.

IT WAS said here during the war that because conquerors no longer dragged women away into slavery, Germany would soon recover.

Frau Voellner confirms that.

MUSSOLINI, as you know, has built up a reliable organization with his Fascismo and iron will. Italy voted yesterday for members of Parliament, and the results were, for Mussolini, 8,506,576, and against him, 136,198.

UNDER Mussolini's plan, members are not elected to Parliament to represent different parts of the country's "geographical constituencies."

The Italians elected 400 candidates, representing organizations and industries, and the nation as a whole.

THE voter had to vote "Yes" for everybody on the ticket or "No." The ticket could not be split.

There may be a good idea there for the Republicans if they continue their progress.

IN connection with the strike of telegraph operators in brokers' offices, based on the introduction of a machine for sending messages, Mr. John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, would like it known that the operators object, not to use of machines, which they accept as part of progress, but to the reduction of $30 a week in their wages. Brokers' operators require special knowledge of prices, names of stocks and great accuracy. They were paid more than other telegraph operators. Those that install the new telegraphing machines say no special skill is required for their use, and demand that Wall street operators accept ordinary telegraphers' pay. That is the cause of the strike.

IF A machine changes skilled labor to unskilled labor, operators in the long run will have to accept the unskilled pay. But at this particular time, with brokers' profits and business unlimited, it does not seem necessary to reduce the pay of men that have devoted their lives to a special form of telegraphy, essential to the brokers' welfare.

GEN. CALLES, head of Mexico's national forces, sending 5,000 men to the south, says, "I am sending them to crush the Catholic revolution."

In repeated messages he refers to the present Mexican war as the "Catholic revolution."

REPRESENTATIVES of the Catholic Church in the United States say the church has nothing to do with the revolution, "which is carried on largely by Mexican revolutionary soldiers hostile to the church."

The Mexican government apparently wishes Catholics to bear responsibility for the revolution.

THOSE that own stock in General Motors alone number 104,202.

United States Steel has 168,000 stockholders, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company has 450,000 stockholders, largest list in the world. And so it goes with the big companies. They are actually NATIONALLY OWNED.

IT is said that 19,000,000 Americans are owners of stocks and interested in the values of stocks.

This will be remembered by President Hoover and by Secretary Mellon.

IT IS said that, if necessary, some great financial minds would not hesitate to produce a panic, and "shake out a lot of the little people."

That would not be popular with 19,000,000 stockholders and stock speculators.

LADY ASTOR, who went from Virginia to sit in the British House of Commons, invited Rhodes scholars from the United States to dinner and gave them champagne, in accordance with custom, although she is a total abstainer. Temperance associations in Britain will not allow her to speak from their platforms.

TO enjoy the favor of genuine drys, it is necessary to go all the way with them. No humoring of your guests, no pleading "custom."

4-CENT GAS TAX TO BE FORCED

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 26.—Administration and organization leaders apparently persist in their determination to raise the gasoline tax from three to four cents.

It was learned today that the necessary legislation has been prepared in the office of the attorney general and is ready for introduction. Whether it will be in the form of a new bill or an amendment to the Sterling measure now in the Ways and Means Committee, is not known.

If it is a new bill it must be introduced before Thursday, as tomorrow is the last day for the presentation of bills.

STERLING STANDS PAT

Representative Philip Sterling, Philadelphia, declared he would not permit his measure to be amended if he is convinced sufficient money for the highway program passed by the House last night can be secured from funds already in sight.

The Mellon-Grundy-Fisher combination seems to be in complete control of legislative affairs.

The manner in which the administration steamroller last night crushed opposition to a highway program that added $13,000,000 to the tax bills indicates that the leaders can push through a boost in the gasoline tax if they desire.

Guns Boom Here In Tribute to Marshal Foch

To the homage of the Allied world Pittsburgh added its voice today while France bore her greatest soldier of modern times, Marshal Ferdinand Foch, to his resting place in the chapel of the Invalides.

In the grey light of dawn, the guns of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery boomed out from Monument Hill 21 times—the national salute. At 30-minute intervals after that, they were to be fired until sunset.

In St. Annis Syrian Church, in Fullerton street, French expatriates attended solemn high requiem mass.

The pastor of St. Annis, the Rev. Dr. Elias Basil, who was a chaplain in the French army, was the celebrant.

Flags were at half-staff on buildings in the city in compliance with the proclamation of Mayor Charles H. Kline.

HIGHEST HONOR PAID TO FOCH IN DEATH

PARIS, March 26.—(AP.)—The last bugle call was sounded today over the body of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo of the mighty Allied armies, as France bowed in honor before his bier.

It was not only glory, but deep and abiding love that the marshal carried with him under the dome of the Invalides where he rests in company with Napoleon and other great figures of French military history.

PARIS' GREATEST EMOTION

For genuine and deep emotion nothing in the age-old history of Paris, not excepting the return of Napoleon from the Isle of Elba, the funeral of Victor Hugo, the Armistice celebration or the burial of the Unknown Soldier, could approach the ceremony which Paris witnessed today.

Through the impressive moments of the service at the Cathedral of Notre Dame and the national funeral ceremonies at the Invalides, Madame Foch and her daughters appeared bewildered at the magnitude of the manifestation of sympathy from the ends of the world.

ALL CLASSES PAY HOMAGE

From high and low this sympathy came, from royalty, presidents, ambassadors, marshals, generals and premiers, from the mass of the people, the midinettes, the workingmen, the clerks and the pollus whom Marshal Foch loved and admired so deeply.

The ceremony at the Cathedral of Notre Dame was performed according to the most solemn rites of the Catholic Church of which the marshal was a fervent disciple. Two cardinals, 11 bishops and the papal nuncio as personal representative of Pope Pius, attended.

It was in keeping with the great soldier's innate modesty that the CALL CASH SOARS TO 20 P. C.

Call money shot up to 20 per cent today, the highest in nine years, and stocks tumbled back in disorderly fashion after having enjoyed a moderate rally at the opening of the market.

Losses ranged from 5 to 35 points and all groups yielded under the selling pressure.

Early trading indicated that some optimism remained, but when the call money renewal rate was chalked up at 12 per cent, an opening figure not reached since the "money squeeze" at the end of the year, the market community abandoned all efforts to stem the wave and threw their stocks overboard practically without discrimination.

The big trading favorites broke back 5 to 10 points in short order and most of them established new lows for the year. The levels attained in the December break were still fairly well below the prices recorded today, but it was apparent that the important banking interests which usually provide the supporting cushion in breaks of this kind were not as yet satisfied that the corrective movement had proceeded far enough.

SELLING GENERAL

Shortly after midday traders from all parts of the country were selling stocks, both for long and short account. Brokerage houses called for additional margins and when this was not quickly forthcoming, holdings were liquidated "at the market." Later on there was a little repurchasing by professional bears who had put out their short lines earlier, but this covering was not sufficient to change the general color of the market.

In the outside market money loaned at 20 per cent with funds scarce.

800 MILES SHORT OF GOAL

RIO JANEIRO, March 26.—(AP.)—Two young Spanish aviators had realized at Bahia this morning a dream of years and achieved the seventh successful crossing of the South Atlantic Ocean.

Captains Francisco Jimenez and Iglesias failed to break the record long distance flight held by the Italians, Arturo Ferrarin and Carlo Del Prete, falling short of it by about 800 miles. But they did bring to the glory of Spain one of the greatest of long distance flights.

ILLNESS ENDS FLIGHT

The flight terminated by fever of Capt. Jimenez due to fatigue of the trip, La Nacion's correspondent at Bahia telegraphed. Jimenez was taken by automobile from the flying field to Camassy for medical treatment. He is under supervision of the Spanish consul.

Leaving Seville, Spain, at 5:42 p. m. (12:42 p. m. eastern standard time) Sunday, they winged their way to Bahia, 4,000 miles away across the deserts of Northern Africa and the South Atlantic Ocean.

FLEW COURSE UNSIGHTED

From the time they were sighted at Cape Blanco, in the African Spanish province of Rio Del Oro, at 4:30 p. m. Monday, until they landed at Bahia at 10:30 a. m. (8:30 a. m. eastern standard time) today, not a ship nor an observer seems to have reported them.

At Cape Blanco, the "Jesus Del Gran Poder," the Spanish made plane of the aviators, appears to have swung out over the Atlantic toward Fernando Noronha Island, over which it passed unnoticed shortly after midnight.

LANDING UNEXPECTED

The landing at Bahia was wholly unexpected. The plane flew over the city and then returned to the

ORIGINAL DRAFT OF CHARTER DEFENDED

HARRISBURG, March 26.—The charter prepared by the Metropolitan District Commission "is a document worthy of public confidence," declared Joseph T. Miller, chairman of that body, opening the public hearing this afternoon in the Senate Chamber.

The personnel of the commission, he declared, is such as to guarantee "entire freedom from consideration of personal politics," and the charter as presented by Senator M. G. Leslie was "drawn in the interests of the whole county of Allegheny."

TAX FEARS ALLAYED

Taxation would not be increased if the charter were put into effect, Miller said, adding that careful estimates showed that the tax rate in the county outside of Pittsburgh and that a possible increase in the county tax in Pittsburgh would be compensated by a probable reduction in city taxes.

Senator Leslie, opening the hearing, announced that the Senate

MERCURY DIPS 41 DEGREES

Cooling showers today brought a 41-degree drop in temperature from yesterday's record-smashing March heat.

Compared with yesterday's peak of 84 the official thermometer at the weather bureau showed 43 today, with prospect of falling to between 35 and 40 tonight, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said.

Rain will continue most of today, Brotzman said. Tomorrow will probably be fair with a slight rise in temperature. Tonight's cold will not harm vegetation, coaxed into rapid growth by recent balmy weather, the forecaster asserted.

Last night's rains extinguished hundreds of grass and brush fires in various sections of the county, which threatened damage. Engine companies in the outlying districts were called in many instances when the fires crept close to frame buildings. In the boroughs rubbish fires ignited in the spring cleanup work kept firemen on the jump.

Gasoline Burns Fatal to Man

When the maid in the Louis J. Nadler home at 6329 Burchfield street, saw smoke pouring from a cellar window in the house today she called the fire department.

Instead of flames the firemen found the burned body of Nadler, 47, in the cellar. Appearances indicated that gasoline with which he was washing his hands had exploded, possibly after fumes reached the nearby furnace or from a cigaret he was smoking.

Nadler leaves his wife and three children.

Wales Flies Home After Foch Funeral

CROYDON, England, March 26.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales arrived safely from Le Bourget, at 6 o'clock this evening, after attending the funeral of Marshal Foch as representative of King George. The fog over the English Channel was so thick that the airplane in which he made the homeward flight had to be guided by directional wireless.

Laundry Mark Only Clue to River Victim

A laundry mark "L. E." was the only clue to the identity of the body of a man, about 30, recovered from the Allegheny River today, opposite the foot of Twenty-first street. He was feet 6 inches tall and wore a white shirt, with brown stripe, a purple necktie, dark trousers and tan low-cuts. Coat and vest were missing. The body had been in the water several weeks, according to employes at the county morgue.

Falling Machinery Fractures Man's Leg

Frank Sanzio, 39, of 310 Twenty-sixth street, McKeesport, suffered a double fracture of his right leg when machinery fell on him while he was at work in the plant of the Columbiana Foundry Company last night. He was removed to the McKeesport Hospital.

DuPont Powder Plant Blast

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP.)—A terrific explosion occurred this afternoon at the plant of the DuPont Powder Company at Gibbstown, N. J. The explosion was felt at great distances. Gibbstown was cut off from telephone communication and it was impossible to quickly learn the extent of the blast.

EPPES HAWES

Miss Hawes, debutante daughter of Senator Hawes, Missouri, and Stephen J. "Laddie" Sanford, multi-millionaire polo player considered one of America's wealthiest young men, may soon announce their engagement, dispatches from London, where both are, say today.

GRAF ZEPPELIN NEARS GREECE

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, March 26.—(INS.)—The Graf Zeppelin, making a 5,000-mile, four-day, non-stop flight from Germany to the Holy Land, was believed to be off the Greek coast at noon today.

Radiograms from the great air liner shortly after midnight said she was out over the Ionian Sea, having crossed the Italian coast, and would probably reach Crete before noon today.

The 25 pasengers, including three women, were reported in excellent health and enjoying the trip immensely, especially the rugged scenery of South European coasts.

WEATHER IDEAL

Weather conditions have been good and Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the flight, has encountered no mechanical troubles. The big airship, Dr. Eckener reported, has behaved in the most satisfactory manner.

The Zeppelin has passed over parts of Switzerland, France and Italy and over the Island of Corsica, the birthplace of Napoleon.

PLOT BLAMED ON GOVERNOR

BATON ROUGE, La., March 26.—(AP.)—Gov. Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, was charged with attempting "to hire and induce one H. A. Bozeman to kill and murder one J. V. Sanders, Jr., a member of the Louisiana House of Representatives," in an impeachment resolution drafted for presentation today in the legislature.

The charge was made in the last of 19 counts contained in the resolution and was based on a sworn affidavit of H. A. (Battling) Bozeman, former personal attendant of Gov. Long and former employe of the Louisiana Highway Commission.

In his affidavit Bozeman swore that about five weeks ago Gov. Long, with the odor of liquor on his breath, called him into his office and said he was planning to call an extra session of the Legislature and that Representative J. Y. Sanders, Jr., would oppose all of his measures.

"I have chosen you to do away with this ——" Bozeman quoted the Governor as saying. "I mean for you to kill the ——, leave him in the ditch where nobody will know how or when he got there," the affidavit said.

"I'm Governor of this state and if you were to be found out, I would give you a full pardon and many gold dollars," the ex-prize-fighter further quoted the Governor.

FLAMES RAZING NEW BIG LINER

HAMBURG, Germany, March 26.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, swept the new North German liner Europa in the Blohm Voss shipyards today, and all indications were that it would be reduced to a complete loss. When the firemen were unable to make any headway against the conflagration, the liner was submerged in the Elbe River. Only her superstructure showed above the surface of the water this afternoon and it was still blazing fiercely.

At 9:20 several explosions were heard in the interior of the ship.

BANDIT SUSPECT IN JAIL, WIFE DIES IN PLANE CRASH

Young, dapper John G. Galloway was a lonesome figure in his cell in the county jail today. He was wondering, no doubt, what his wife's reaction would be when she learned that he had been arrested as a bandit.

His wife will never know. She went for an airplane ride at Charlotte, N. C.—their home town—Sunday and, 150 feet from the ground, the plane went into a spin and caught fire. Mrs. Dorothy Galloway and two men were killed.

This afternoon Galloway was taken from the jail to the county detective bureau. There he was handed a clipping from The Sun-Telegraph which told of his wife's death.

"You don't mean this," Galloway cried, "You're kidding me."

Assistant Detective Chief Harry Cochran assured him that the news was reliable.

For a minute Galloway was silent. Tears formed in his eyes. He said, "It's better that she's dead; now she doesn't know."

Galloway is under arrest as one of two bandits who tried to lift a $1,500 payroll from the Union Dye Works at 2527 Walnut street, McKeesport, yesterday. He also is wanted on bad check charges.

Galloway, a laundry manager at the same works, was discharged last week.

Yesterday he and one Jack Campbell, 24, of Charlotte, N. C., drove up to the plant. They had arranged with an employe of the plant to hang a towel in a second-floor window as a signal that the holdup might proceed, county detectives say.

But the two men had no sooner stopped their car than the sleuths, tipped off, surrounded the machine.

MAN GOT RING, SHOOK HER, GIRL AVERS; ASKS DAMAGE

Marie Hyer, 21, attractive brunette of Wilkinsburg, from a witness stand in Common Pleas Court today, told why she and her mother want damages from Thad W. Byrne, 45, a merchant of Glenville, W. Va., and Bantz Craddock, former prosecuting attorney of Gilmore County, W. Va.

Byrne often proposed marriage to her and just as often did she refuse, Marie testified. Furthermore, he gave her a $600 diamond ring, but later came to her home with Craddock and a warrant and when she refused to return the ring, he shook her violently, she related. Byrne denied shaking her.

The warrant charged Marie with larceny of the ring.

Numerous letters exchanged by the couple were read from the stand by Marie.

"Imagine spending Christmas in a bedroom almost starving to death," she wrote him in 1926. "Please send the money you promised. If you don't I may have to pawn the ring."

"You are the only girl in the world I love," Byrne wrote, according to Marie.

"Darling, if you care for me like I do for you, you won't take the ring off your finger for no one. . . . We will be married in Pittsburgh."

Marie laughed as she read this line from one of her letters: "Please send me a supply of chewing gum and fruit bars."

On that stormy visit which Byrne and Craddock made to the Wilkinsburg home, it was testified, Byrne ransacked the house and found a pawn check for the ring which Marie admitted having pawned for $225. Byrne forced her to accompany him to the pawnshop, where he recovered the ring, Marie told.

Marie testified that she was employed by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company in East Pittsburgh. Her mother, Mrs. Bertha A. Hyer, described as the manager of a beauty shop in Wilkinsburg, is a plaintiff, because Marie was a minor when the suit was filed.

MOTHER SLAIN IN DRY RAID, HER SON, 12, SHOOTS OFFICER

SHIP SINKING BACKED BY MELLON

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—The Treasury Department is standing squarely back of its coast guard service in defense of the sinking of the British schooner I'm Alone in the Gulf of Mexico Friday by the patrol boat Dexter.

Forwarding the first official report of the incident to the State Department, Secretary Mellon has taken the position that the Dexter was within its rights in firing upon the alleged rum runner when its master refused to heave to after a "continuous pursuit" of about 200 miles into the gulf from a point "within four leagues of our coast."

BRITISH PROTESTS LOOM

Meanwhile, it is becoming increasingly doubtful that the same view will be taken by the British and Canadian governments. Their diplomatic representatives here are awaiting an opportunity to examine the official reports from the coast guard and the British consulate at New Orleans, where the crew of the sunken vessel was landed.

During the last five years, Mr. Mellon said in a memorandum on the coast guard's position, the vessel "has made a very large number of false clearances from British ports." Before it was sunk by the Dexter, he declared, "the master of the I'm Alone had a pistol and had waved it in a threatening manner."

U. S. WARNINGS DEFIED

He cited evidence indicating rum-running operations by the ship out of Belize, British Honduras, in February and March, and asserted that "on March 20, the coast guard patrol boat Wolcott picked up the I'm Alone within 12 miles of the Louisiana coast," and "called upon the smugglers to heave to for boarding and examination, as authorized by the United States tariff act.

The I'm Alone "defied" the Wolcott, he said, and fled, "being continuously pursued by the Wolcott and by the coast guard patrol boat Dexter, which joined in the chase." When overhauled by the Dexter on the morning of March 22, "the Wolcott also being close up," he related, the master persisted in his refusal to stop despite warning that he would be sunk, and "finally the Dexter was compelled to fire a number of shots into the smuggler's hull, and the vessel sank."

PORTER STARTS PROBE

The incident has aroused considerable interest among members of Congress. Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who headed the American delegation to the League of Nations opium conferece, announced that he had ordered a special investibator to go to New Orleans to ascertain whether the I'm Alone's cargo included a narcotics shipment, which has been denied by its master.

COAL POLICE BILLS GET SECOND HEARING TODAY

HARRISBURG, March 26.—Additional demands for drastic changes in the coal and iron police system will be aired at a second hearing today before the House Judiciary General Committee.

That committee has in its possession the administration bill introduced by Representative M. A. Musmanno. Last week delegations of Pittsburgh clergymen and of the United Mine Workers urged that a number of amendments be made to make the bill more stringent.

In addition, the committee has another coal and iron police bill introduced last night by Representative Carl C. Baldridge, Allegheny. This bill would create "industrial police" who must be citizens of Pennsylvania and who would have to file bonds of $5,000 each, executed by the policeman, the company hiring him and a surety company.

The police powers of the men appointed would be limited to within 1,000 feet of company property and the corporation would be liable civilly for all illegal acts. All present commissions would be revoked within 30 days after the passage of the act.

The Mansfield bill, a replica of the administration bill introduced by Musmanno, is on second reading calendar in the Senate.

Insurance Cheaper To Careful Autoist

NEW YORK, March 26.—The careful autoist can obtain a reduction in insurance. A company announced a credit of 10 per cent to the policyholder who has not been involved in a serious accident for two years, whose license has not been suspended.

4-CENT TAX TO BE FORCED

cents found only two rays of hope today.

One is that the administration-organization alliance will decide to find the money needed to finance the program from some other source.

The other is that there will be a real uprising of the voters of the state that will exert more pressure upon the legislators than threats or promises of the leaders.

The Allegheny County delegation, which voted almost as a unit last against the administration motor code that boosted operator and vehicle fees an estimated total of $4,750,000 swung into line last night.

BALDRIDGE DEFIANT

Representative C. C. Baldridge was the sole exception, voting against every one of the nine bills in the program on the grounds that they would boost taxes. The largest number of votes cast against any of the bills was three out of a total of more than 200 members present.

Former State Chairman W. L. Mellon, just before the House considered the program, declared "there has been no discussion of the 4-cent tax that I know of except for a period of a year to 18 months."

The first word of revolt against the steamroller came from John Hermansen, Luzerne, who declared his intention of voting against the program because it required additional revenue.

"The people spoke at the last electon when they defeated the highway bond issue," he said. "If we enact legislation requiring more money we betray the faith the people have in us. Our people feel they are taxed too much already."

his island exile home, Elba; visited Rome, the eternal city, flying over the new Vatican city; down to Naples where three historic volcanoes were in sight from our cabins at one time, and at 9:10 last night we were crossing the "boot."

CROSS THE "BOOT"

At an altitude of 2,300 feet in the face of a stiff head wind, we battled across Italy's foot at its narrowest part from the Gulf of Eufemia to the Gulf of Suillace. The passengers shivered in penetrating cold. We are heading out into the Ionian Sea toward Crete.

An opaque, misty fog screened much of the beauty of Naples as we rounded into the famous gulf just before 8:30. Even Mount Vesuvius wrapped itself in a veil of white smoke as if hiding from this strange bird in the sky.

MOTORS WORK WELL

At dinner time we were boring again into the night, rendered black by the fog, with our splendid motors keeping up their droning symphony.

Commander Eckener, who has been on the bridge since Sunday midnight, just turned in for his first sleep.

At the order of Benito Mussolini the Italian Air Ministry sent an escort of airplanes to accompany the Graf Zeppelin yesterday afternoon as the giant German airliner with its 28 passengers flew over the Eternal City and the new papal nation—Vatican City.

WOMAN WRITER CLIMBS DOWN SIDE OF ZEPPELIN

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, March 25.—(Via Radio to Friederichshafen.)—Lashed by a beating wind and clinging with all my strength to the frail-looking ladder leading from the silver belly of the Graf Zeppelin to the fishlike fifth motor gondola suspended near the four tail fins, I once again pioneered "woman's cause."

This time, it was by being the first woman to descend into one of the five hanging motor gondolas of the giant German airship as it raced through space hundreds of feet above land and sea.

Lady Hay

It was by no means an easy task, and, as one of the Zeppelin officers remarked to me, "Not an undertaking for everybody."

THRILL RELATED

This unique experience not only rewarded me with a thrill unlike any other I've ever had, but it was an unprecedented privilege to share with the engineers their watch over the snorting, pounding, roaring 550-horsepower motors pulling with passionate energy their part of the mighty 120-ton Leviathan of the clouds.

Snugly ensconced in the little engine room, around which a terrific force of wind swirled and swept, I looked up to what seemed an infinite expanse of silvery fabric and down on gorgeous landscapes succeeding one another with kaleidoscopic rapidity.

Though the motor gondola propeller was revolving with a lightning-like rapidity that rendered the open air beyond it quite invisible, it did not obscure a full view of the four tail fins.

BROKEN FIN RECALLED

I recalled vividly the drama of the broken fin and the near-tragedy of the trans-Atlantic crossing last autumn.

The other four motor gondolas to the front looked so small and such a long distance away that it was difficult for me to realize that the two, perhaps three, men tending them were at their ease, walking erect about the engines, whose demands require attention—unceasing, unpitying, inexorable.

Meanwhile, the passengers' quarters offered a scene for a striking forecast of lighter-than-air travel improvements not so many years hence. Improvements are installed everywhere.

PASSENGERS IN COMFORT

One can see everywhere that since the autumn flight, wonders have been achieved in the comfort and working efficiency of the passenger arrangements in this flight, with the combined fact that the passenger list consists mainly of German officials and not an overwhelming majority of technical experts, artists, writers and photographers as before. Their activities then naturally created a feeling of experiment and restlessness; now, they tend to overspread a general sentiment of leisure and "joy-ride" in an airship which, in the face of bitter trial, has proved worthy and safe.

If a man from Mars could have dropped down on both the autumn flight over the Atlantic, and this flight, he would imagine that years, not months, had been the progress between the two.

PANIC AT FIGHT, SCORES HURT IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 26.—(AP.)—Panic broke out at the Coliseum last night during the Jackie Fields-Young Jack Thompson boxing match for the National Boxing Association welterweight title, and more than two score persons were injured in the resultant pandemonium. Two persons were injured so seriously that they may die.

Because of the fighting in the Coliseum last night a resolution barring mixed fights in Illinois will be considered by the Illinois Boxing Commission, it was learned today. Plans for detailing more police officers at boxing bouts will also be discussed by the commission.

There were 8,500 men and women in the building when a fight started in the east balcony. Cries of "fight" went up. By many the cry was understood as "fire," and the crowd became panic stricken.

FUROR SPREADS

The fight between the Chicagoan, Fields, and the California Negro, Thompson, was in the eighth round. The battle itself had roused the crowd to high excitement, and when the furor broke out in the balcony it spread quickly.

Shouts went up that boa constrictors and a lion had escaped from their cages and were loose on the main floor. The fact that the building was in darkness save for the brilliant light which was centered on the ring itself added to the uncertainty of what had happened.

WOMEN INJURED

Judge Francis Borelli was among those trampled, though his injuries were not serious. Teddy Hayes, trainer for Mickey Walker, was seated with Walker, the middleweight champion, in the fifth row and was reported to have been seriously hurt. Several women were hurt, Miss Patricia Feely suffering a fracture of the leg.

At the outbreak of alarm, the entire main floor crowd seemed to concentrate upon the elevated ring as the one place of safety. They rushed forward, trampling over chairs, leaping upon the reporters' press table, wrecking typewriters and telegraph instruments and sending microphones spinning to the floor.

To the thousands of radio listeners, the affair teemed with drama. For several minutes the microphones carried to listeners such a confusion of sound as to indicate that some disaster had taken place.

The best account of the actual start of the trouble was that two Negroes, one with a knife, the other with a pistol, started to fight. There was a general pushing away from the fighters and the cry of "fight," misunderstood as "fire," went up.

An usher in the trouble zone said one of the Negroes had offered to bet on Fields, the white boxer, and that this had angered the other Negro.

OCEAN FLIERS REACH BRAZIL

Latecoere Air Mail Company's landing field.

The fliers planned to continue to Rio Janeiro today, if Jiminez's condition permits.

Nonstop flight to Rio Janeiro, their original goal, would have made their journey about 4,800 miles, or 200 miles longer than that of Ferrarin and Del Prete.

TOUR PLANNED

MADRID, March 26. — (AP.) — Colonel Kindelan, chief of the Spanish Aviation service, today said that Captains Jimenez and Iglesias, after continuing on to Rio Janeiro, would make a tour of the Central American countries including Mexico and Cuba.

British Archbishops To Pay King Homage

LONDON, March 26.—(AP.)—Accompanied by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, the new archbishops of Canterbury and York will travel to Bognor Wednesday to pay homage to the King. This will be the first occasion on which his majesty has received any of his subjects in an official capacity since his illness and is indicative of the King's progress. The visit will enable the prelates to pay the customary homage to his majesty following their appointments.

BAR POSTPONES METRO PLAN ACTION

An expression by the Allegheny County Bar Association on the proposed Metropolitan district charter was deferred at a meeting of the association because of the indefinite form of the legislation.

The meeting, called to consider the charter plan, adopted a motion to table a report of a special committee, after a long discussion by members, much of which was favorable to the enactment of legislation in some form creating the metropolitan district.

DELAY URGED.

The report of the special committee, composed of George J. Campbell, Albert C. Hirsch, W. W. Stoner and J. B. Eichenauer, recommended that no charter legislation be enacted at the present session of the legislature, to give opportunity for study by citizens of the proposed plan.

The report concerned the charter as drafted by the Metropolitan district commission, and amendments proposed for its revision eliminate provisions found objectionable by the special committee, members of the association pointed out.

HIGHEST HONOR PAID FOCH

mass was said by a humble priest, his personal friend and parish priest for years.

Cardinal Lucon came from where the Kings of France were forerly crowned, but even the great Rhiems cathedral could scarcely have witnessed a more poignant and impressive scene than that which marked the entrance of this commoner into immortality.

CATHEDRAL SQUARE PACKED

Only 5,000 persons were permitted inside the portals of Notre Dame, but there were from 40,000 to 50,000, who filled the Cathedral Square, while the hearts of 40,000,000 Frenchmen were there in spirit as the service began at nine o'clock this morning.

Between two solid rows of humanity packing the sidewalks and streets, with the windows and roofs of every building along the route crowded, with spectators hanging from trees and telephones posts, the solemn cortege [illegible] the historic streets of Pa[illegible]Notre Dame to the Invalides

It was esti[illegible]at almost 2,-000,000 perso[illegible]ht one last glimpse of th[illegible] of the man whose courag[illegible]elligence and strategy they hold responsible for the final victory.

The real silence of death reigned along the course. Not a sound was heard beyond the rumbling of the wheels of the gun carriage upon which rested the coffin, the clatter of the hoofs of horses as the Republican Guards rode by, and the mournful funeral music of military bands.

POINCAIRE SPEAKS

Business was at a complete standstill all along the route of the cortege. Shutters were down and flags at half-mast entwined with the Allied colors. As the procession reached the head of the Avenue Gallieni, the casket was transferred from the gun carriage to a special catafalque in front of the Invalides.

There, drawn and pale, and appearing a little more fatigued than usual, stood Raymond Poincare, premier of France, and its war president.

He alone spoke, pronouncing a funeral oration in which he paid tribute to the marshal's courage both against death and his wartime enemies.

"The light that has just failed was one of the brightest and purest that ever sparkled in this world," the Premier said, with touching eloquence. "He had no other ambition than to serve and desired no reward but the feeling of duty accomplished."

Only intimate friends of the family and the late marshal's immediate staff were permitted to pass into the Invalides itself. The great crowd dispersed as if reluctantly and made its way home, discussing what might have been had not the great captain whose coffin they had looked upon for the last time stood between them and peril.

GATHERS PETITIONS

At the Roosevelt Hotel, Jessie Mayer collects petitions signed by guests asking Congress at its next session to take action in reducing the tax on earned income.

INCOME TAX CUT DRIVE EXTENDS OVER STATE

Cities and towns throughout Western Pennsylvania are joining Pittsburgh in the protest against the Federal tax on earned incomes.

Petitions signed by individuals in all the surrounding counties and filed with the Sun-Telegraph are followed by concerted action toward the indorsement of the movement by commercial organizations, fraternal groups, women's clubs and civic bodies in voicing the sentiment of their respective communities.

TOWNS JOIN DRIVE

Butler, Vandergrift, Jeannette, Greensburg, Connellsville, Uniontown, Charleroi, Washington, Waynesburg, the Beaver Valley district, Sharon, New Castle, Oil City, Franklin, Kittanning, Johnstown and Altoona are among the cities where business men's organizations and other trade bodies have taken up the subject for consideration at their April meetings.

In response to inquiries from readers in these cities as well as in many other communities in the Western part of the state, the Sun-Telegraph is sending petition forms for collective signatures. In many places, Sun-Telegraph readers interested their local organizations in steps toward formal indorsement of the proposal to Congress for a revision downward of the tax on earned incomes.

CAMPAIGN SPREADS

Other campaigns against the system of collecting the income tax from professional people and wage earners in districts outside of Pittsburgh were instituted by visitors to Pittsburgh hotels. After signing petitions on file here, the guests took home the idea with them and stirred up local interest among their friends, neighbors and business associates.

The Roosevelt Hotel reports an especially large number of petitions. L. Fred Klooz, president of the Roosevelt, has been a particularly active worker in the income tax appeal and has personally directed the circulation of petitions. Following the action of the Pittsburgh hotels, arrangements are being made to place petitions in the leading hostelries in surrounding cities. While this activity is going on there comes to the office of the Sun-Telegraph, a mass of petitions signed by its' readers.

Mine to Be Sold To Pay Judgment

BELLAIRE, O., March 26.—The Marcoll Coal Company's property in northern Monroe County will be sold April 20, to satisfy a judgment of creditors, Attorney E. L. Matz, of Bellaire, announced today. The property has been appraised at $150,000. It includes a mine below Powhatan.

day, but as has been the case in all subsequent meetings the last 10 days, no statement was issued.

CORRECTION SEEN

The tremendous liquidation yesterday and today, preceded by the scattered selling late last week, will undoubtedly work an important correction in the loan totals as shown in the Federal Reserve weekly report to be issued Thursday afternoon. Predictions were made that a reduction of $500,000,000 would be shown. Last week's statement disclosed a gain of $166,000,000, a factor thought to have been partly responsible for the current slump.

Money authorities were reported to have warned some of the big bull operators that further efforts to jack up stock prices would meet with drastic action, and as a result of this warning, so the Street hears, the big bulls sold out part of their accounts and have been standing aside while the correction is under way.

Grain prices at Chicago underwent a big tumble today as a result of heavy selling in connection with stock market weakness. Wheat fell 6¼c a bushel and corn 5¼c. A sharp rally followed the downward swing. No other reason for the upset of grain values was apparent than the depression of stocks and high money rate, except that conditions for the growing crop were reported as nearly perfect.

The volume of stock trading on the New York Stock Exchange broke all records today and the first 7,000,000-share session was recorded.

Trading up to 2:10 o'clock aggregated 6,686,500 shares, with the tape at that time 75 minutes behind the market. The old record for a five-hour session was established in November of last year, when total sales reached 6,942,500.

Connellsville Gets M. E. Conference

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 26.—The Rev. Dr. D. R. Graham, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, announced today that the commission on entertainment of the Pittsburgh Conference has accepted the invitation of the church to hold the one hundred and sixth annual session of the conference here on October 1 to 7. Forty-three years ago the conference last met here. There are 300 ministers, with Bishop Herbert Welch as presiding officer, in the conference. Several hundred laymen also will attend.

NO WARRANT FOR SEARCH, CHARGED

AURORA, Ill., March 26.—(INS.)—"No search warrant ever was issued for Joseph De King. I have no other recourse than to release him."

This statement came as a bombshell today in the investigation of the dry raid upon the De King home here in which Mrs. De King was shot and fatally wounded and her husband beaten.

Sheriff L. L. Urch made this statement at noon today.

The statement of Urch was in direct contradiction of the declarations of the raiders that they were armed with warrants when they burst into the De King home, clubbed De King and then, according to charges of a former federal prosecutor, shot Mrs. De King as she sat at a telephone trying to summon aid.

DENIES WARRANT

Robert A. Milroy, the former federal ace, threatened to get a writ of habeas corpus to remove the wounded De King from the custody of the county police. It was then that Sheriff Urch said he had no authority to hold De King, as there had been no warrant osught or given to the raiders.

Milroy announced he would immediately seek a murder warrant for the agents.

Both the state's attorney of Kane County, and the deputy sheriffs who did the shooting, have insisted today they had warrants.

That version of the killing was verified, Milroy stated, by Gerald De King, 12-year-old son of the slain woman.

BOY SHOOTS AGENT

The boy, who saw his mother dying on the floor and his father unconscious, grabbed a revolver from the father's outstretched hand and shot one of the raider in the leg. He verified the story of the former federal prosecutor.

Both versions of the raid were to be told today at an inquest.

The raiders, led by Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, are said to have gone to the De King home early last night, where De King met them with a gun and told them not to enter.

RETURNED WITH BOMBS

Smith and his aids then went back to the office of Sheriff Leslie Urch and obtained mustard gas bombs and a machine gun in addition to their regular armament of pistols and shotguns.

It was on this visit to the De King home that the shooting occurred.

Smith said he tossed in a gas bomb and waited for the occupants of the house to come out. Observers later pointed out that the door of the De King home had been smashed in and that the shooting actually took place in the dining room.

METRO PLAN DEFENDED

OPPOSES CHANGE

Miller, opening the defense of the charter, predicted the defeat of any measure providing for a merely nominal consolidation with a change of name only. Such a measure, he said, would not be supported by voters in the rural and suburban sections.

"The only hope for a greater Pittsburgh," he went on, "rests in submitting to the people of Allegheny County a bona fide measure of consolidation drawn upon lines that promise good and representative government to the whole area."

OTHER SPEAKERS HEARD

Representing the commission at the hearing were Miller and Charles K. Robinson, counsel. Others appearing to speak for the charter in its present form were: Dr. R. S. Boots and Maurice J. Scharf, of the Civic Club; George P. Kountz, head of the Allied Board of Trade; W. E. Armstrong, of the Association of First Class Township Commissioners; Mrs. Delia Hershey, of the League of Women Voters; John Ihlder, director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, and Dr. Edward M. Clopper, executive secretary of the Federation of Social Agencies.

COOLIDGE MAY BE SENATE CANDIDATE, CAPITAL HEARS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Senator Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts!

Political Washington heard with undisguised interest today that the former President is looking not unkindly upon a movement begun by some of his Massachusetts friends to send him to the United States Senate next year.

Should such a thing eventuate, Mr. Coolidge would be following the example set by another distinguished Bay State President, John Adams, who, 100 years ago, retired from the presidency and then returned to Washington as a member of Congress.

The political groundwork in Mr. Coolidge's case is already being prepared, according to word reaching political circles here. It is in the hands of Ex-Senator William M. Butler, who managed the Coolidge campaign in 1924, and Frank W. Stearns, Mr. Coolidge's personal friend and intimate.

The Senate seat in question is now occupied by Senator Frederick H. Gillett, who is approaching his seventy-eighth year and is not expected to be a candidate to succeed himself.

There is another candidate in the picture in the person of the militant ex-Governor of Massachusetts, Alvan T. Fuller, who has just laid down the governorship at the age of 51. He is independently wealthy and desires to engage in further public service. He was a luncheon guest of President Hoover's last week-end, and told friends here that he was inclined to run for the Senate next year.

Film Operator's Thrift Habit Rewarded

Sun-Telegraph Encourages Savings Bank Depositors

To stimulate thrift, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will deposit $10 to the credit of each of the bank books in the following list. If you hold one of these bank books, bring it to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph office, Gazette Square, and present it to Robert N. Laughlin, cashier.

Name of Bank.	Book No.
Keystone National Bank	4,226
Dollar Savings Bank	340,019
Carrick Bank	5,002
Dormont Savings & Trust Company	2,117
Peoples Savings & Trust Company	50,042
Hazelwood Savings & Trust Company	14,442
Duquesne National Bank	8,597
Brookline Savings & Trust Company	1,001
Iron & Glass Dollar Savings Bank of Birmingham	21,992
Union Trust Company	6,644

The books designated may be presented during business hours any time within a week, but not later than 5 p. m. Tuesday, April 2.

Watch tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph for more information of interest to savings bank depositors.

SHOWING what can be done by thrift, Frederick C. Iffert, of 1416 Columbus avenue, North Side, a motion picture operator at Loew's Penn Theater, has bought $19,000 worth of real estate with savings which he started with a 10-cent piece.

He has been rewarded, in addition, with a $10 thrift gift from the Sun-Telegraph, deposited to his credit as holder of bank book No. 25,113 in the Bank of Secured Savings.

"My wife and I started our married life, said Mr. Iffert, "with next to nothing. But we decided to save, and started our bank account with a 10-cent deposit in a Christmas savings club. When Christmas came and we received the year's savings we did not withdraw it, but let it stay in the bank, accumulating interest. I have steadily added to it with deposits out of my earnings as a motion picture projectionist and also out of the earnings brought me by my Boston bull terrier, Laddie Boy. I bought a $15,000 home out of my savings, and more recently a $4,000 piece of property in Mt. Lebanon. It was systematic saving—and that alone—which enabled me to make these investments."

To encourage saving the Sun-Telegraph is depositing checks ranging from $50 to $5 to the credit of bank books, the numbers of which are published daily. If you have a savings account, you may receive one of these thrift awards.

Among recent recipients of Sun-Telegraph thrift gifts are Dorothy L. Enghardt, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Enghardt, of 1517 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, who has received $10 as holder of pass book No. 16,021 of the McKees Rocks Trust Company; Morris Berkovitz, 1923 Beaver avenue, North Side, No. 10,588 in the Manchester Savings Bank, $10; Nancy Joan Irons, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Irons, Jr., 150 Monitor avenue, Ben Avon, No. 991, in the Third National Bank, $10; R. R. Cook, of 608 Union Bank Building, No. 814, in the Union National Bank, $10, and Mrs. Harriet C. Carmack, of 415 Morris street, Edgewood, No. 33,107, in the First National Bank of Wilkinsburg, $10.

FIRE HAMPERS KINLOCH MINE INQUIRY

Another fire in the Kinloch mine is hampering the activities of federal, state and county bodies investigating the fatal blast last Thursday which claimed 46 lives. Fire broke out early today in Room 73, about 2,000 feet from the base of the slope, and close to where yesterday's fire occurred.

Three men were busy all last night and today in an endeavor to recover the body of Arnold Breeding, the victim not recovered from the mine. His remains are believed to be under a mass of twisted steel, which once was the conveyor.

Compensation disbursements from the State Workmen's Insurance Fund to the families of the victims will start within a week, according to F. Norman Black, adjuster for the Pittsburgh district. Black and his assistants, J. F. McKenna, W. L. Walton and Frank Walton, yesterday compiled data for claim adjustments.

$150 FOR BURIAL COSTS

Widows without children will receive $10 a week for 300 weeks and those with children will get from $12.50 to $15, depending upon the number of children. Compensation for each child is to continue after the 300-week period until such child reaches the age of 16. A flat sum of $150 is allowed for burial expenses to all claimants.

Further steps to provide temporary relief for the families of the blast victims were taken by the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army yesterday. Social workers of the former organization made a complete survey of all miners' families to ascertain their needs.

CLOTHING NEEDED

Salvation Army relief activities will continue until all needs are met, according to Adjutant Victor C. Bryant. Articles of clothing are sorely needed.

Supt. Oliver F. Taylor, of Kinloch mine, stated that the Valley Camp Coal Company, in addition to doing relief work among its bereaved employes through the Red Cross and other organizations, extended credit at the company store to deserving miners and their families.

Crews of laborers were clearing debris from the mine today, and in Kinloch, Parnassus and Arnold funerals of the disaster victims were being held.

Effort to Restore Barber Shop to Men Fails

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 26.—(AP.)—A valiant attempt to save barber shops for men was made yesterday in the Minnesota Senate.

Senator L. P. Johnson told the Senate that a man hasn't a chance in a barber shop any more, now that women have invaded its once sacred precincts in such numbers, and he asked for legislation which would cause the women to get their hair cut in hair dressers' establishments.

But he went down to ignominious defeat. The senators decided they want the women to patronize barber shops, and passed a bill which would prohibit trimming of hair by hair dressers.

If the House accepts the bill, the women must get their locks cut at barber shops.

SEEK OWNERS OF SPEAKEASY

Two proprietors of a speakeasy at 518 Wylie avenue, directly in the rear of the Plaza building, which houses prohibition headquarters, were being sought today after yesterday's Federal raid on the place, in which moonshine, alcohol and home brew valued at $20,000 were seized. The men are known and warrants for their arrest will be issued today, agents said.

Three men, Hugh Donnelly, 55; Patrick Farrell, 26, and Patrick Hays, 35, all of 70 Chatham street, arrested in the raid, were released on $5,000 bail each, according to the raiders.

In a raid on the Acorn Hotel, 110 Fourth avenue, the agents reported seizing large quantities of moonshine and beer. Charles F. Callahan, 47, and Charles Bush, 34, who said they lived there, were arrested, it was reported.

Sharon Valuation, Taxes Increased

SHARON, March 26.—With a property valuation of $19,409,750, this year's municipal tax, including the per capita assessment, totals $310,556. This is a valuation increase of $413,025 and a tax increase of $6,608.40 over last year's figures.

"MARRIED LIFE TORTURE," ADMITS KILLING HUSBAND

HARTFORD, Conn., March 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Olive Adams, 31, who married Harry E. Adams the day after both were graduated from the Stoneham (Mass.) High School in 1917, today stood charged with having murdered him by chloroform while he slept last Saturday night. They had been childhood sweethearts.

Adams, 32, was meteorologist in charge of the United States Weather Bureau here.

Police said that Mrs. Adams had confessed after the discovery of the fact that her mother, Mrs. Joseph A. Storey, of Stoneham, had written to the chief of local police complaining that Adams had been abusive to her daughter.

Previous to this the case had been considered virtually closed by the medical examiner's verdict of accidental death. In her confession, Mrs. Adams described the greater part of her married life as one of torture and physical cruelty. She named a woman with whom she said her husband kept company and whom, she insisted, he had once brought to their home where she was forced, after preparing a meal, to leave the house for the night.

The woman told police that the meteorologist had frequently employed chloroform to induce sleep when he suffered insomnia.

Girl, 17, Kills Man With Butcher Knife

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., March 26.—(AP.)—Edward Smith, about 28, of Warren, Pa., was fatally stabbed in a downtown rooming house yesterday by Melphy Bastow, 17, of Limestone, N. Y., a village near Bradford, Pa. He died half an hour later in a hospital. The fatal wound was inflicted with a butcher knife.

The Bastow girl told police Smith had made advances which she resented. She was arrested on an open charge.

Allegheny Yields Unidentified Body

The body of an unidentified man, seen floating in the Allegheny River opposite the foot of Twenty-first street, today, was recovered by employes of Lock No. 1, who manned a skiff. The body apparently had been in the water a long time. It was removed to the morgue.

SCAN FIREMEN'S INSURANCE

The Workmen's Compensation Board has been asked to decide whether seven injured volunteer firemen, of Stowe township, and the families of three who were killed, are entitled to collect insurance, Referee L. E. Christley announced today.

The Zurich General Accident and Liability Insurance Company, which has insured employes of Stowe township, has refused to pay the claims, because the firemen were injured or killed outside of the township, Mr. Christley said.

A fire truck overturned on the men while they were enroute to Heidelberg last December 26. Joseph Delperro, Adolpf Sonnett and Carl Moyer were killed. The injured were Patrick Trappuzani, Gustave Galando, Romeo Leo, Nick DeAngelis, Michael DeAngelis, John Caputo and Attilio Battista.

Approximately $10,000 is involved by the claims, and counsel for all concerned have been notified to file briefs. Referee Christley expects to announce his decision next week.

Wild Parties Cited By Inman Witness

RENO, Nev., March 26.—(AP.)—Alleged clandestine meetings between Mrs. Helene Garnet Patton Inman and John Steele, vaudeville singer, were given further airing here yesterday in the divorce suit of Walker P. Inman, stepson of the late James B. Duke, tobacco magnate. Mrs. Fay E. Hancock testified concerning visits of Mrs. Inman and Steele to her New York apartment where she said several "wild parties" had taken place. The details were reserved for the jury and the court officials. Newspapermen withdrew at the insistence of Mrs. Hancock.

Vet, at Capitol, Finds Flag He Bore in Battle

HARRISBURG, March 26.—In the rotunda of the state capitol, John W. Williams, Civil War veteran of Etna, found the bullet-torn battle flag he carried as color sergeant of the Fifth Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery.

The father of Representative Albert B. Davidson, Tarentum, served in the same regiment. Sergt. Williams sat with Davidson and L. W. Hagmaier, the other member from the Thirteenth District, during last night's sessions of the house.

AID SENT MINE DESTITUTE

Those families that were left destitute when 46 miners were killed in the Kinloch mine found sincere sympathizers today. Two checks reached the Sun-Telegraph as forerunners of contributions to relieve the poverty-stricken survivors.

The plight of Mrs. Lillian Hunter and her six small children, who had but 30 cents, when the body of the husband and father was carried home, touched Mrs. Ottilie H. Rose, and she forwarded to the Sun-Telegraph a check for $10.

This contribution will be turned over to Mrs. Hunter, as the donor requested.

Mrs. Harry S. Zimmerman, of 14 Dunmoyle place, Squirrel Hill, has offered a check for $5 for relief work. The check will be turned over to the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Red Cross for relief work at the scene of the disaster.

CIRCUS ANIMALS EMERGE FROM HIBERNATION

Two little lion cubs experimented with newly discovered growls today in the winter quarters of the Excel Circus, at Fifth avenue extension and Penn avenue, as they were allowed the freedom of the big cage with Sheba, their mother.

Quarreling, romping, tumbling about the cage, they presented a little show of their own to the handful of visitors attracted to the spot by the scene of activity that came with the decisive change in weather yesterday.

AGED NINE WEEKS

Just nine weeks old, the cubs have been named Rodj Sun-Tele and Solon. But the cubs did not hold the interest they attracted early in the afternoon. Ginger a Cinnamon bear and White Eagle, a white mare, also newcomers on the lot, furnished cause for attention. The Cinnamon bear was recently bought to keep company with the two big black bears already with the animal show. The latter, as bears will, have been hibernating. Awake for the past week, they are the certain promises of spring.

William Schulz, owner of the circus, spent the day teaching Ginger and White Eagle the tricks they will be expected to do when the circus season is opened here during the third week of April.

OUTLAW NO LONGER

Two weeks ago, White Eagle was worth just $25. Schulz got her for a pony on a trade with a horse dealer. Though a thoroughbred, White Eagle earned the name of an outlaw for herself and seemed unbreakable. But now, Schulz said, she is too valuable to part with.

"Bobbie Hall," horsewoman, another newcomer, also took part in yesterday's program, getting acquainted with the horses and putting them through their tricks.

50-FOOT TAKE-OFF MADE IN SLOTTED WING TESTS

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP.)—What an airplane can do when equipped with slotted wings was demonstrated yesterday at the Philadelphia Navy yard.

In the first official tests here of the British invention a naval fighting plane took off at an angle of 45 degrees, demonstrated its ability to keep from stalling, turned around on its wheels and performed a number of regulation maneuvers. A Curtiss seahawk was used, with Lieut. Col. Carl Harper at the controls.

Slotted wooden wings projecting from the plane's main wings enabled the seahawk to take off in less than 50 feet, in contrast to the usual 300 feet and the ascent was comparable to that of an autogyro.

For the takeoff Harper put on the brakes, raised the plane's tail off the ground, and gave the engine the "gun." Several takeoffs were made, the plane starting on an almost vertical ascent. Landings, it was said, can be made at greatly reduced speed.

By manipulating the tail and throwing the slotted wings out it was possible to move on one wheel, the other remaining almost stationary.

Miss Earhart Lands Plane in Hail Storm

UTICA, N. Y., March 26.—(AP.)—Forced down by a thunder and hail storm, Miss Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, landed safely in a cornfield near here yesterday with her tiny biplane and surprised her sister, Miss Muriel Earhart, a teacher at a private school. After wading ankle-deep in the mud to turn her ship, an English Avro, to protect it from the gale, the aviatrix made her way to a nearby farm house and telephoned for aid. Later her plane was hauled by truck to the Utica airport, where she plans to take off for Buffalo.

'BULL IN RING' IS HOOVER'S BEFORE-BREAKFAST GAME

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—"Bull in the ring" is the navy parlance for the game in which President Hoover leads his unofficial medicine ball cabinet in pre-breakfast conditioning exercises in the seclusion of the rolling ground in the south half of the White House lot.

Its origin is somewhat obscure. One version is that it originated in the navy. Be that as it may, the Chief Executive got his introduction to it on the Battleship Utah while he was returning from his good-will tour of Latin-America.

The officers indulged in it rather extensively and as a strenuous exercise it could hardly be surpassed. As the naval men played it, five or six formed a ring with one man in the center who was "it" until he could touch the ball as it was thrown swiftly from one member of the circle to another.

There were no rules as to consecutive passing, with each player at liberty to throw to any member of the ring he might elect. His tosses might be on a straight line, or of the looping variety or even rolled on the deck.

Lieut. Com. Joel T. Boone, personal physician to the President, introduced it to the good-will party on the battleship and the then President-elect participated each morning. Some of those who visit the White House now before 7 a. m. were the President's companions in the play on the Utah.

Unlike the official cabinet, the medicine ball cabinet personnel changes with the days and may encompass a dozen or more men. Not all of the members fancy 6 a. m. rising as a regular practice.

Carpenters Ballot On Five-Day Week

Union carpenters of the Pittsburgh district today were balloting on the question of demanding a five-day week for their craft. Four of the 12 local unions have cast their ballots at the union headquarters, 241 Fourth avenue. Thomas C. Deemer, manager of the union's district council here, said other demands that might be made and the trend of the balloting would be kept secret until the vote was completed.

45 NEW CITY JOBS BEFORE COUNCIL

Two ordinances creating 45 new city jobs have been presented in Council.

One provides additional policemen and firemen to protect the territory of Hays Borough and Lincoln Place, recently annexed to the city. The positions to be created are those of two police lieutenants at $2,460 each; three sergeants at $2,160 each; 15 patrolmen at $1,800 each for first year men, $1,920 for second year men and $2,040 for third year men; two fire captains at $2,460 each; two pumpmen at $2,220 each, and two hosemen and laddermen graded the same as policemen.

The new positions would be an addition to the present force of six policemen for Hays Borough and four for Lincoln Place and two firemen for Hays and four for Lincoln Place.

The second ordinance provides these additional jobs in the Department of Public Works: 12 inspectors of concrete materials at salaries totaling $23,460; a senior chemist at $4,200; a clerk at $2,100, and five asphalt inspectors at a total of $8,000.

Holy Name Directors Meet Here April 18

Spiritual directors of the Holy Name Society of the United States and Canada will gather in Pittsburgh April 18 to make arrangements for the first annual convention of all the Holy Name Societies of this continent. The meetings here are scheduled to be held in Synod Hall, Craig street, and the Rev. James M. Delaney, of St. Agnes' Catholic Church, will be one of the hosts. Stephen P. Barry, of McKeesport, lay head of the society in western Pennsylvania, is making plans for the reception and care of the visitors.

Brakeman's Fall From Car Fatal

Believed to have fallen from the top of a freight car made slippery by rain, E. Morgan, 43, of 423 Stokes avenue, North Braddock, a brakeman for the Union Railroad, was found unconscious beside a draft of cars at the Carnegie Steel Company's Clairton works last night. He died a few hours later from a fracture of the skull, according to the morgue report.

SPEERS, Pa., March 26.—The State Highway Department soon will start work preparatory to improving the Speers-Charleroi road, which will be an extension of the Speers-California concrete river pike which was completed last summer. The highway will connect with the National pike near West Brownsville.

Lenten Sermonette

THE GATES OF NEW LIFE.

By THE REV. DR. W. I. WISHART.

"I am the resurrection, and the life."—John 11:25.

IN BROWNING'S expression of it, the assurance which David gave to the broken and disillusioned and despairing Saul was that the hand of a gracious and friendly Man "shall throw open the gates of new life to thee." That is what Jesus did by His teaching, by His sympathy, by His friendly guidance, by His rich and constant love, but most of all by His resurrection from the dead. When He arose, victorious over the power of death and hell, there was opened to all burdened and troubled and downcast souls a way to new life, the door to new inspirations, the gate to new and challenging ideals. What prospects for men were opened up on that memorable Easter morning! What new possibilities of spiritual adventure! What new and better ways of living!

And each recurring Easter should throw open to each one of us new and richer experiences. Faith in the Prince of Life, a fresh approach to the living Christ, more complete surrender to Him and diligence to know and do His will, that will make possible for each one of us a real Easter experience. In the light and joy of such faith "the winter of our discontent" will quickly pass into glorious summer.

Crowded Into Pole, Autoist Badly Hurt

John C. Howe, Jr., 23, of 1115 Greenfield avenue, suffered a fracture of the skull and internal injuries when his automobile crashed into a pole in Beechwood boulevard near the Murray Avenue bridge early today. His condition is regarded as critical at Mercy Hospital. Howe told police that another machine had crowded him into the pole. Howe's automobile was wrecked.

ARMY ENTERS 3 BALLOONS IN RACE HERE

Manufacture of 450,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas to fill the twelve balloons in the national elimination balloon races at Pitt stadium Saturday, May 4, has been started by the Burdett Oxygen and Hydrogen Company here. The gas will be taken into the stadium in 2,500 cylinders, loaned to the balloon race committee by the War Department. The cylinders were started, in five carloads, from Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., today.

3 ARMY ENTRIES.

Only one of the 12 entries in the race remains to be selected, it was said today in balloon race headquarters in the William Penn Hotel. Three balloons have been entered by the Army, two by the Navy, four by the Detroit Balloon Club and one by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, O. The other entry is Capt. Harry E. Honeywell, dean of American balloonists, of St. Louis, who will make his five hundred and eighty-first balloon flight from the stadium. Akron, O., Philadelphia, Wichita, Kas., and Denver, Col., are competing for the last entry.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce has granted its sanction to the aeronautical exhibition to be held in connection with the races on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 2, 3 and 4. This sanction has been granted only to the Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo and Pittsburgh shows.

START PREPARATIONS.

The Aeronautical Chamber's sanction carries with it the guarantee of participation by manufactures and not local dealers. The chamber itself will organize and bring to Pittsburgh an enormous display in the interest of aerial transportation. This will be under the supervision of Luther K. Bell, secretary of the chamber.

Preparation of the stadium for the exhibit and the balloon races will start next week with the arrival here of Lieut. Charles E. Bauch, of the U. S. S. Los Angeles, who will be operations officer for the balloon race committee. Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl, commander of the Los Angeles, will be race referee. Lieut. Commander H. T. Wiley has been assigned to command the Los Angeles during the period of the races and will fly the huge ship to Pittsburgh, weather permitting.

Veterans' Council Meets Next Monday

The Allegheny County Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet at the court house next Monday night to discuss arrangements for the Buddy poppy sale. On the following night, the regular meeting of Malate Post No. 12, will be held in Old City Hall, North Side.

QUIZ IN SAFETY OF MINE PITS PROPOSED

HARRISBURG, March 26.—A resolution authorizing the Governor to appoint a commission to investigate the safety devices used in bituminous mines and make any recommendations deemed necessary to the 1931 Legislature, was presented last night by M. A. Musmanno, Allegheny.

Three members of the commission would be recognized experts. The sum of $10,000 would be appropriated for expenses.

Orphan Inquiry Plan Opposed By Fisher

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—Gov. Fisher yesterday declined to approve the Davis joint resolution creating a special commission to make a study of the crowded conditions of the Soldiers' Orphans Industrial School at Scottdale. He said that an amendment will be made to the administrative code providing for an advisory commission, and that therefore it is unnecessary to set up a special commission. The advisory commission as planned in the amendment to the administrative code will be a permanent agency of the state government to supervise relief work for veterans' orphans and dependent children of disabled soldiers.

Bill Ruling Minors' Jobs Recommitted

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—On motion of Representative Dunn, Allegheny, his bill giving school boards of first, second and third class school districts the power to make regulations for the enforcement of the law prohibiting minors from engaging in various forms of employment was recommitted to the Committee on Education last night.

Committee Goes to Fight Fisher Bill

Representing the Constitutional Rights Committee, Attorney Ward Bonsall and Ralph S. Boots last night left for Harrisburg to protest Gov. Fisher's coal and iron police bill at a hearing before the House Judiciary Committee today. The committee believes the bill should be made more stringent. Maurice R. Scharff, president of the Allegheny County Civic Club, will also advocate changes in the bill at the hearing.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A PLEASING AND POPULAR FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL

Quite a sport's model is here pictured, with the short sleeve extensions the plaited skirt portion, and the kerchief collar. Pique and gingham are combined in this instance. The gingham is used for collar, pocket and belt. Pongee or tweed and silk is also suggested. White crepe de chine, with a favorite color for contrast will also be nice.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. To make the dress for a 12-year size will require 2¾ yards of 36 inch material. If collar, belt and pocket are made of contrast g material they will require ¾ yard 36 inches wide.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BILL PROPOSES STATE CREATE DOPE FARM

HARRISBURG, March 26.—A bill to create a state narcotic farm was introduced last night in the Assembly, by Representative Samuel J. Grenet. It appropriates $200,000 for the purchase of such an institution "for the confinement, detention and treatment of perosns addicted to the use of habit-forming narcotic drugs."

The site, to be of not less than 150 acres, would be selected by the secretaries of the Commonwealth and Welfare and the Attorney General.

A narcotics' division would be created in the Department of Welfare "in charge of a physican trained in the treat and care of narcotic addicts. Courts will have the power to transfer prisoners now in confinement in penal institutions or addicts who hereafter may appear for sentence to such an institution to the state narcotic farm.

An addict, as described by the Grenet bill, is "any person who habitually uses any habit-forming narcotic drug so as to endanger the public morals, health, safety or welfare" or whose addiction has caused him to lose his power of self-control as far as the use of drugs is concerned.

PORTER LAUDS MOVE

WASHINGTON, March 26. — As the father of legislation already passed by Congress authorizing the establishment of two great Federal narcotic farms, Representative Stephen G. Porter, of Pittsburgh, today expressed gratification over the bill introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature calling for a similar narcotic farm to be created by the state.

Representative Porter sent Assemblyman Grenet a message which reads:

"I trust that your bill which reached me today authorizing the proper officers of the State of Pennsylvania to purchase a site and construct a narcotic farm for the care and scientific treatment of citizens of Pennsylvania who are victims of these insidious drugs will become a law before the adjournment of the General Assembly.

Bill Proposes Court Command Detectives

HARRISBURG, March 26.—The appointment of county detectives in Allegheny County would be taken out of the district attorney's hands and placed in the hands of the presiding judge of quarter sessions court by a bill presented last night by Representative A. B. Davidson, Tarentum. They would be subject entirely to the orders of the judge. The number would be limited to 30.

HILL PARKING RESTRICTED IN 60-DAY TEST PERIOD

Effective today a 60-day trial period will be established for revised traffic rules in Logan, Congress, Elm, Fernando and Chatham streets and Washington place.

Logan and Congress streets, no parking will be allowed at any time on the west side and only one hour parking on the east side.

Elm street, no parking will be permitted at any time between Fifth avenue and Hazel street and no parking at any time on the west side between Hazel street and Bedford avenue. One hour parking will be allowed on the east side.

In Washington place, Fernando and Chatham streets, all parking is barred on the west side, but one hour parking is allowed on the east side.

Londoner Lectures On Christian Science

A lecture on Christian Science was given last night in Carnegie Music Hall by John W. Doorly, of London. The lecture was under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Pittsburgh.

Princess of Thurn and Taxis to appear in Pittsburgh April 4 to testify at a hearing before Referee in Bankruptcy Watson Adair in reference to alleged hidden assets of J. V. Thompson. Sheriff's office officials say the summons was returned unserved to the office of the U. S. Marshal in Pittsburgh. Fuller said he served the subpena last Wednesday.

Two Youths Accused Of Rum Sale Jailed

SHARON, March 26.—Andy Merch, 16, of Hickory street, and Peter Gulla, 19, of Shenango avenue, were arrested by County Detective Sam Leyshock on a charge of selling liquor to a 17-year-old youth. Both were held for court under $1,500 bail, which was furnished. They told police they had found a pint of liquor and sold it.

MORE GIFTS FOR M'LAUGHLINS

Pittsburgh continues to aid the McLaughlin family of 11 made fatherless and penniless by the death of William McLaughlin, fatally burned when a gasoline truck upset and caught fire.

During the past week the fund for the stricken family was increased to $137.06. With $97 previously reported, employes of the Fourth Avenue Garag sent a check for $20, members of the Simpson class, Bellevue Presbyterian Church, sent $14.06; M. J. $5, and a widow $1.

The fund, when complete, will be turned over to Mrs. McLaughlin, or an agency for her, by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Fire Destroys Country Home

BEAVER, Pa., March 26.—The country home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Groscost, South Beaver Township, was destroyed by fire with a loss estimated at $10,000.

Old-Age Pension Bill Presented in House

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—A resolution to permit the electorate to pass upon an amendment to the constitution to permit old age pensions was introduced in the House last night by Representative Dunn, Allegheny.

The measure would have to be passed again at the 1931 session before submission to the voters. Under the proposed amendment the general assembly might appropriate money for "assistance to the aged indigent and physically handicapped residents of the commonwealth."

Bickar Confirmed Baldwin Justice

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—Appointment of Frederick Bickar as justice of the peace for Baldwin Township, Allegheny County, was sent to the Senate last night by Governor Fisher, and confirmed.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

KITTS TROLLEY BILL PASSES

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 26.—(AP.)—After a spirited debate on the floor of the Senate, the Kitts bill to relieve street railway companies of the cost of paving stretches of streets between their tracks which are replaced by the municipalities was approved last night by a vote of 33 to 14.

Senators McClure of Delaware, Mansfield and Finstein, of Allegheny, spoke in opposition to the measure, Mansfield terming it "the most vicious piece of legislation to come before this body." He claimed it "would abrogate contracts made years ago between Pittsburgh and other cities and railway companies."

The sponsor, Senator Kitts, of Erie, pleaded for favorable consideration on the grounds that most transit companies are in straitened financial circumstances and must be given some relief if they are to continue to operate.

An echo of the "most vicious" tirade of Senator Mansfield was made by Senator Leslie.

Measure Would Ban Dry Law Ridicule

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—Representative Hartsock, Blair, introduced a bill making it unlawful to ridicule in any stage play the Eighteenth amendment.

The Hartsock bill would prohibit motion picture theaters from showing any movie tending to ridicule the dry laws. The penalty under the proposed law is a fine of $100.

State Senate Passes Firearms Measure

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—The Salus firearms bill was passed last night by the state Senate. The vote was 33 to 16.

Every holder of a pistol would be required to take out a license and renew it every five years. Possession of sawed-off shotguns and machine guns would be prohibited. A system of licensure of all pawn brokers and other dealers in firearms would be set up and no dealer would be permitted to sell a pistol until 24 hours after application was made and then the buyer would be registered. It is similar to a proposal submitted by the crimes commission.

New State Hunting Control Bill Loses

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—The special open season on doe dear last fall had an echo in the House last night when the Federer bill, giving the state game commission power to control and regulate seasons and setting up a definite machinery of procedure, was defeated by a vote of 105 to 63.

DR. COPELAND COMING HERE

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, United States senator and health writer for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be the principal speaker at the first annual dinner of the Jefferson Democratic Club in the Roosevelt Hotel April 13.

Dr. Copeland has wired his acceptance to Mrs. Anne E. Felix, recently nominated vice chairman at the Democratic State Federation convention in Lancaster. Mrs. Felix is vice president of the Pittsburgh organization, which numbers several hundred Democratic women.

Following a conference last Saturday with former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, Mrs. Felix obtained 150 books incorporating Gov. Smith's campaign speeches. They will be given the 150 charter members of the Jefferson Club here. Miss Frances Langfitt is president of the club.

Move Begun to Save Adventists' Shrine

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—A move to save the historic Ephrata Cloisters, shrine of the founding of the Seventh Day Adventists in America, from vandals, was started in the House of Representatives last night.

Representative Aaron B. Hess, Lancaster, speaker of the House, offered a bill under which the commonwealth might acquire the shrine by gift, lease, purchase or condemnation. The cloisters would be maintained by the Pennsylvania Historical Commission.

Four Women Protest Daylight Time

Four women living outside the city object to daylight saving time in Pittsburgh, according to their letters forwarded to Council.

Mrs. L. Chereson, Mrs. Mary Divornick and Miss Helen Divornick, all of Groveton, stated that under daylight saving time that they "have to go to bed with the chickens and get up with the birds and that daylight time "is convenient for the rich but not for the poor." The other objector was Mrs. Reese Evans, of Duquesne.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums... the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

ACCIDENT TOLL IN PA. GROWS

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—Industrial accidents in Pennsylvania continued on the up-grade during February.

From reports made to the Department of Labor and Industry, a compilation of statistics today showed nearly 2 per cent more accidents occurred in industries during last month than February of last year. With 26,090 accidents of all kinds, an increase for the first two months of 1929 of 7.8 per cent over January and February of last year was recorded.

The number of fatal accidents decreased by one, however, from the 307 reported for the two-month period of last year. Last month 138 persons employed in various occupations were killed and 12,140 were injured, representing a drop of eight in the fatal class and increase of 228 in the non-fatal classification.

Coal mining led the other two general groups in the number of fatal accidents for the two months with 143 men reported killed in mines.

Realty Bill Passed Amid Sharp Protest

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 26.—(AP.)—A Contest between Senators Salus, Philadelphia, and Schantz, Lehigh, broke out over the Schantz real estate license bill, which passed, 34 to 12.

Senator Salus called the measure a "pernicious bill" and asked for its defeat because he said it would deprive part-time realtors from work.

His opponent replied that the only "pernicious thing about the bill" was an amendment he placed in the bill at Salus' request to require an examination of agents applying for license. He said he would attempt to remove the amendment when the bill reached the House.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Just Rub Away Danger

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

She needs the car too . . .

SAID a woman who lives in a suburb: "I look forward to week-ends, just as much as my husband does. But when Saturday comes, I send him off in the car for golf or fishing or something else that he likes. He thinks that I've been enjoying the car the other days of the week—but have I?

"My weekday use of the car is just like the use of any other tool of home-keeping. It's all business. In the morning I take my husband to work and meet him at night. In between I have to take the children to school, bring them home, go to market, go on the endless errands that it takes to run a home efficiently.

"But the fun of sitting behind a wheel and saying to myself: 'Now I'm going to take a drive for the joy of driving—to rest my nerves and smell the country'...that's what I'd like to do on Saturday."

Though the automobile has become a necessity of modern life, it is still a luxury in the best sense of the word. There is a thrill in driving for pleasure alone—in going just where you want to go—that nothing else quite equals.

To all families who need a second car—we make this suggestion:

A used car is unused transportation

The cars which General Motors dealers are taking in trade offer real opportunities. These cars vary in type, style and size. In many the potential mileage has scarcely been touched. Purchase the used car of your choice and pay on the convenient GMAC Plan.

STAGE CELEBRITIES HEAD TONIGHT'S AIR PROGRAMS

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

AN IMPRESSIVE list of stage celebrities will be offered by the Keith-Orpheum hour at 11 o'clock tonight through WCAE.

Phil Cook and John Mitchell will cut capers with other headliners of the bill, including the Keller Sisters and Lynch; Charles Ray, movie star; Paul Specht and his orchestra; Benny Davis, song writer; the Happiness Boys and Gladys Rice.

Paul Whiteman will be back again, presenting a group of spirituals including "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "All God's Chillun Got Wings" and "Deep River." WJAS at 10 p. m.

Another good attraction at WJAS will be the United States Navy Band on Frederick W. Wile's "Political Situation" period at 8 o'clock.

The champion story-teller of the universe—the gentleman who makes up the Embarrassing Moments for the Little Theater, KDKA at 9 o'clock—has concocted a big fish story, "Jonah and the Whale," for tonight's diversion.

Paul J. Miller, "Sully's Captain of the Keyboard," will be heard over KQV at 8:30 o'clock in selections from "My Maryland," Dick Siebert's number, "A Bungalow, a Radio and You," an old favorite, "I'm Drifting Back to Dreamland" and Ethelbert Nevin's beautiful "Narcissus."

MARK TWAIN'S YANKEE PUTS KING ARTHUR'S COURT WISE TO ERSKINE

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

GADZOOKS, it doth appear that there was a hot time in the old town of Camelot last night. Verily, if any varlet doth inquire the reason thereof, be it known that an entertainment yclept "The Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," was performed at ye Alvin Theater, to the great joyaunce of many gallant knights, who did swear by their halidom it was a dainty show, with many beauteous damsels in ye chorus and many merry quips in ye booke.

It doth appear that a royal jester, Mark Twain, having with his fountain pen writ this fanciful tale, a scribe by name Herbert Fields hath put it into a book for the play, and a wight by the name of Richard Rodgers hath set it unto music that soundeth dulcet to the ear. In sooth Mark would not have recognized his tale, for it hath been abundantly transformed and brought up to date by Einstein and Erskine. When at the outset King Arthur announceth that he "doth not choose to speak," and when Sir Galahad danceth a Black Bottom with a limber-limbed demoiselle, we wot that the calendar hath gone awry and the Round Table hath been squared.

It is really a vastly amusing musical comedy that has been built on Mark Twain's vastly amusing fantasy. The centuries are shuffled like a pack of cards and dealt backward. No one would have been surprised if Queen Guinevere had gone to Reno, or if Sir Kay the Seneschal had hired Paul Whiteman to play at the royal reception. They do shake the rolling bones and Merlin wagers one buck.

DATED UP FURTHER

Mark Twain brought King Arthur up to date, but the authors of this libretto have brought Mark up to date. There is even a chorus of sandwich men who advertise the latest toilet soaps and breakfast coffees to the tune of "Onward, Christian Soldier." There's a radio used to rescue the imperiled wanderers, and there's a conviction under the new five-and-ten law of the gentle Jones, and when Queen Morgan the Fay raises aloft a brimming beaker, the Yankee tells her she "looks like the Statue of Liberty should look."

There is much fun in these impish anachronisms. We laugh consumedly when old Merlin busies himself with a crossword puzzle, and we chortle when a demure damozel ejaculates: "The hell thou sayest!"

And when the Yankee arrives at the Round Table and sees all the assembled Knights and Ladies in their glad rags, he gleefully exclaims: "Hollywood!"

It would have filled Mark Twain with satisfaction to see himself so efficiently brought up-to-date. The only thing lacking is an explanation of Einstein.

MARK MUST HAVE KNOWN

They say only 12 people understand Einstein, but Mark must have been one of the dozen. He has annihilated time and space, and if Einstein's theory is mathematical Mark knew his cube roots. In about 10 minutes we traverse 13 centuries and 3,000 miles—or even more, since the scenery around Camelot is obviously Moscow. Bakst is in the conspiracy too.

But it is such a merry conspiracy that who cares. William Gaxton as the Yankee and Mary Adams as Alisande are in the whirl all the time; both sing so well, and she dances so lithely that no one asks questions about dates or styles. The knights are becomingly encased in glittering tin, the eclipse of the sun is worked in terrifying manner by the White Rats in charge of Old Sol, and modern slang is so beautifully intertwined with the lingo of Chaucer that all is taken for granted.

Except Galahad's dancing. This young man, presented by Jack Thompson, displays such marvelous skill and agility that even Einstein couldn't explain it. Evidently he has frequented cabarets rather than glory barns. And he never learned such dancing in the Sixth Century. It wasn't done.

Merlin we are ready to believe in as he sprinkles salt over the stage, or lets George E. Mack do it. This Merlin is no Thurston, but he is a very mirth-provoking fellow. So are they all—so is the whole performance—and tuneful besides—and festive in color and movement. "The Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" would have delighted his grandfather, Mark Twain, so why shouldn't everybody else be pleased?

Comedy Film In Sheridan

Sue Carol

Football and comedy are jumbled in "Win That Girl," photoplay feature in the Sheridan Square bill for the first three days of this week. Sue Carol is the girl to be won and David Rollins is the boy who assumes the task. Also on the screen is a talkie version of "The Interview," with Clark and McCullough delivering the funnyisms they presented in the same skit on the vaudeville and musical comedy stage. On the stage Haven McQuarrie & Co. in "Laughology a la Talkology" offer a travesty on the talkies. Other stage actors are Emily Earle in songs and chatter, Dashington's Dogs and Cardo and Noll, in a travesty on opera. Fox movietone news and other attractions complete the bill.

Gambling Rose Is in Enright

Myrna Loy, on the Enright screen, leaves the shelter and aristocratic atmosphere of her Southern home and invades a gambling house across the river from New Orleans. She does this to seek $200,000 worth of stolen securities and to prove the innocence of her boy friend, who is in jail charged with the theft. And she does it so recklessly—gambling and loving—that she gets the name of "Hardboiled Rose." And that, too, is the name of the picture, in which all this takes place. The production has a number of dialogue sequences. The cast includes Gladys Brockwell and William Collier, Jr.

William Collier, Jr.

On the stage is that likeable and talented young fellow, Dick Powell, this week presenting "The First Enright Follies." It is all quite entertaining with all of the participants—from Mr. Powell to "Little Elsie" of the Enright Rockets—doing their utmost to put it over in great style. Featured entertainers include Sunshine Sammy, the singing Nancy Decker and Bobby Randall. An organlogue and short screen entertainment complete the bill.

RAID BY FOX NETS STARS OF STAGE

NEW YORK, March 25.—(INS.)—Winfield Sheehan, vice president of the Fox Films Corporation, has left for California to assume charge of the $10,000,000 studio at Fox Hills, known as Fox Movietone City, where the company's new talking picture policy will be inaugurated.

Announcement was made by Sheehan that henceforth only dialogue and musical pictures would be produced by the Fox Company. Incidentally, all of the Fox Company's silent picture studios in Hollywood have been wired and otherwise equipped for the making of "talkies," he added.

It is generally agreed that the new film policy will have far reaching consequences. The signing of 200 Broadway "show folk," including Will Rogers, William Collier, George Jessel and other stars, to long term contracts by Sheehan is believed to forecast the staging of "wholesale raids" on stage talent by the talking film magnates.

It may even go so far, some authorities believe as to make Broadway a mere subsidiary to Hollywood as a theatrical center.

The Fox Company's revolutionary action is expected to also result in speeding up plans for similar changes in output by other motion picture concerns.

Sheehan's announcement came as a surprise to the film industry in view of the widespread belief in Hollywood that the foreign demand for silent pictures might prove an insurmountable obstacles to the advocates of the sound film. It was decided by the Fox executives, however, that, with the production of silent films for foreign markets a year and a half ahead, the time was favorable for the change to the audible film.

Aldine Stars Vic M'Laglen

That talented big boy of the movies, Victor McLaglen, starts out as a baggage smasher and ends up as a railroad fireman on the Aldine screen this week. In the interim he finds himself custodian of the railroad's lost and found department. His picture is titled "Strong Boy" and it is all quite merry entertainment.

There's a girl in it, of course. She wants Victor to get along in the world—to get a white collar job. But he's content enough with overalls and when he does get an opportunity to be a traveling passenger agent he gets himself transferred to a locomotive cab. However, in spite of the overalls he wins the girl—Leatrice Joy.

JUST A MENAGERIE

But plenty happens before that. For one thing the lost and found department is turned into a menagerie—there are rabbits, goats, monkeys and children. So you can't blame Victor when he closes for the day as he sees two horses approaching. Then there's the climax—with Victor foiling a train robbery and saving a queen's jewels. Most of the action takes place in a big city railroad station and the best shot is the sequence that shows the visiting queen being presented with a bunch of flowers on behalf of the Baggage Handlers Union.

Three entertaining sound screen specialty acts and news pictures complete the bill.

FACES SEEN :-: ON STAGE AND SCREEN :-: THIS WEEK

Harry Langdon, movie comedian, is appearing in person in the Davis.

Mary Nolan is heroine in "Desert Nights," Penn photoplay.

Tom Mix is another movie player appearing in person. He is in the Stanley.

Leatrice Joy plays the feminine lead in "Strong Boy," film in the Aldine.

Mary Adams is prominent in "A Connecticut Yankee," musical version of the Mark Twain story, being shown in the Alvin.

JOHN GILBERT ON SCREEN IN PENN

"Desert Nights," starring John Gilbert on the Penn screen, is largely a depiction of importance of water as a beverage. One learns the advantage of having it around quite plentifully, especially if one happens to be a diamond thief, as Ernest Torrence is and Mary Nolan is in "Desert Nights," and becomes lost in the hot, sandy wastes. In that case one has to release the diamond mine superintendent made prisoner when the diamond robbery took place, so that one may be guided back to safety and—water. Seeing "Desert Nights," you learn that thirst is a terrible thing—but not so very thrilling to look at on the screen.

ROBBERY IS ADROIT

The diamond robbery is adroitly maneuvered in the midst of guards in what is practically a fortification. Gilbert, Miss Nolan and Ernest Torrence all make good characterizations of the parts assigned them, Torrence giving the film its only touch of comedy, that a slight one.

On the stage Teddy Joyce heads a band of merry-makers in an elaborate presentation called "Harvest Time," in which the dancing Gould Girls and the various specialists perform in a "down-on-the-farm" atmosphere. The whistling of Ted Marks makes a big hit with the audience and the comedy and tunes of Fauntelroy and Van, playing broom handle fiddles, bellows calliopes and the like, make them popular. There are several other specialties in this portion of the bill, which is very well liked as a whole.

EASTER OVERTURE

A special Easter overture is played by the orchestra, conducted by Elias Breeskin, illustrated with motion picture views of the Holy Land on a screen, through which a singer at a cathedral window is seen and heard. It concludes with a female quartet in a church scene on full stage, the entire effect being quite appropriate to the season.

Dick Liebert's organlogue illustrates a convention of organists.

FUNNY FIVE TOP BILL IN DAVIS

Spring is here—for tenors are beginning to warble about it and pianists are turning to Mendelssohn even in vaudeville. It happened at the Davis yesterday, as part of a bill that is overloaded with laughter, but well ballasted with melody. The funniest thing in the program in undoubtedly Joe Marks, whose witticisms and dancing entitle him to be regarded as a kosher earthquake. He has some merry ballads too—a parody of "Sonny Boy"—and if he has no such song as "There's a Ring 'round My Bathtub," he should get it written for himself.

Next to Marks the hit of the show was little Jay Ward, a tiny fellow who now plays lead for Ward and Dooley, telling some good stories with gusto and giving an imitation of Ann Pennington in the Black Bottom.

TOWN HALL HUMOR

Artistically the imitations of Al Abbott in his "Old Town Hall" entertainment take very high rank, particularly the yodeling a la Fritz Emmett and Dusenberry's highly moral song, "Remember, my boy, to say no!"

Russ Brown and Jean Whitaker present another sketch with many laughs and grins sprinkled through it.

The fifth of the funmakers was Harry Langdon, a clown of the screen, who proved mildly amusing on the boards. Two of his laughs need some eau de cologne.

AND REAL MUSIC

Melody has also a big place in this week's bill, for Nonette, who made a bit in "Countess Maritza" with her violin, furnishes some real music, both by her singing and playing. It was a snatch of symphonic beauty the audience appreciated warmly. Her accompanist, Julius Keehl, was the one who brought Mendelssohn into the menu, playing the G Minor Concert, admirably.

Graceful dancing was supplied by Grace Adelphi and her partners, while a balancing act by the Angel Brothers, who climb to the flies on brass ladders balanced on smooth balls, kept the audience in breathless suspense until they were again on terra firma. Then every one heaved a sigh of relief and went home to talk about the well-balanced bill, especially Joe Marks.

MIX, LYTELL IN STANLEY SHOW

Two prominent and more or less veteran movie players are in the Stanley this week. One is the talented Bert Lytell and the other is the gun-toting, fast-riding Tom Mix. Mr. Lytell is appearing on the screen in a picture, "The Lone Wolf's Daughter." Cowboy Mix is appearing on the stage in a vaudeville act.

In his performance Mix delivers comedy chatter and displays his skill with the rifle and revolver. He certainly hits the bulls eyes. He also introduces his horse, Tony, and presents two cowboy assistants, who are keen with the lariat. The grand finale is all very "climaxy" with Mix leaping atop of Tony and letting his six-shooters shoot.

LONE WOLF REFORMS

It is a new Lone Wolf that Mr. Lytell portrays in the feature photoplay—a reformed Lone Wolf, who wants to keep his past a secret from his adopted daughter. How he cleverly foils a daring jewelry theft by two other notorious crooks comprises much of the picture story. The picture is well done. It claims attention throughout. There are surprise moments and some bright comedy. There also is romance. The daughter becomes engaged to a nice young man—and the Lone Wolf ends up in the arms of a pretty young woman. The picture has sound and one or so dialogue sequences. The cast includes Gertrude Olmstead and Lillyan Tashman.

LOCAL BOY ON STAGE

The stage also presents a tango interpretation by Arthur Ferraro and Dolores Buttner, Pittsburghers. Ferraro, although only 17, has just returned from a six-months' engagement in New York night clubs.

An organlogue, an orchestral overture and short screen entertainment complete the bill.

Alice White Regent Star

Alice White and Jack Mulhall are in the Regent in "Naughty Baby." Alice is a check girl in the "Ritzy Hotel" and Jack is a man she finds can give her checks that bring more than hats. Jack is an heir to millions who is trying to spend a good part of it in advance. Alice works three of her humble neighborhood admirers, an Italian, Jewish and an Irish boy for everything she needs to catch Mulhall. One works in a modiste shop and can borrow gowns, the other in a pawnshop and he can borrow jewels and the third works in a garage and he can furnish cars. Short screen entertainment completes the bill.

Alice White

Ask Mayor Be Ousted On Bribery Charge

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 26.—Acting Deputy Prohibition Commissioner Sam K. Beetham, of Columbus, announced here that charges against Mayor P. J. Groh, of Dover, will be lodged today with Gov. M. Y. Cooper, by State Prohibition Director R. R. Beetham, asking for Groh's removal on a charge of accepting a $50 bribe.

Jolson Film, Acts in Harris

There is song on the screen as well as on the vaudeville stage in the Harris bill for the first three days of the week. Al Jolson's "The Singing Fool" is being presented as the photoplay feature. And we presume that every one knows that this is the picture that features the "Sonny Boy" song and that started the child actor, Davey Lee, on the way to movie fame. The photoplay was widely acclaimed on its premiere in Pittsburgh some weeks back so it is not necessary to go into detail. The cast includes Betty Bronson, Josephine Dunn, Ed Martindale, Arthur Housman, Reed Howes and Robert Emmett O'Connor.

Al Jolson

MELODY ON STAGE

Headlining the vaudeville show is Gus King and his Melodyland act. The presentation, offered by five performers, mixes classical music and jazz. Charles Senna and Helen Dean develop laughs in a comedy skit, "Charlie's Night Out." Vocal and piano harmony is offered by the flappers, McCaffrey and Malley. "Dance a la Graphonola" is offered by the Four Cassons.

The bill also includes an organlogue, sound screen specialty acts and news pictures.

KONJOLA ENDED FIFTEEN YEARS' STOMACH MISERY

"I Know of One Word That Describes Konjola, and That Word Is—Wonderful," She Says.

One of the outstanding reasons for the astounding success and vast renown of Konjola, the new and different medicine, is that those to whom it brings health and happiness in trade for pain and suffering, tell others of this wondrous medicine. Thus the fame of Konjola grows; no wonder it is known as the medicine with more than a million friends.

MRS. STEFENINE CERILLI

There is no secret about Konjola. All who suffer and who would know again the joy that comes with health restored, may learn all about this medicine of medicines from the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn avenue and Sixth street, this city, to explain just how this modern remedy works, and why it triumphs in the obstinate cases that have defied and resisted every other form of treatment tried. Cease to grope in darkness; believe those happy people who have declared: "Konjola was the only medicine that ever helped me; it is the medicine I should have had in the first place." Let the experience of others be your guide. Give though to the statement of Mrs. Stefenine Cerilli, 1347 Fifth avenue, Coraopolis, Pa., a short distance from Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"I know of just one word that describes Konjola, and that word is—wonderful. I never dreamed there could be such a medicine, and if all the world knew about Konjola what I know, it would have a billion friends instead of a million. For fifteen years I suffered from acute stomach trouble that defied all medicines and treatments. After every meal I suffered from sharp stabbing pains in the pit of my stomach. Gas formed, bloating me terribly. My appetite was poor and constipation added greatly to my suffering. I was disheartened and worried. Then Konjola was recommended to me so strongly that I decided to give this new medicine a trial.

"The result was marvelous. After the second bottle the stomach trouble eased up and disappeared as if by magic. In just those two weeks I found myself in better health than in fifteen years. Of course, I expected no such relief, at least not so quickly. But I didn't know Konjola. I have found that no matter how stubborn the case, or of how many years' duration, this medicine goes right to work. I could almost feel the surge of new and glorious health through my system. My appetite returned almost immediately and I can sleep soundly every night. No words of mine can describe the merits of Konjola; here is, indeed, a medicine that should be in every home."

The records of Konjola fairly overflow with such sincere and happy indorsements as this one. Here is just another proof of Konjola's worth. Here is just another reason why Konjola is the most talked-of medicine in America.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, . second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

DRY FOES HOLD ACT ILLUSION

Francis X. Hennessy, of Walsh and Hennessy, No. 342 Madison avenue, New York City, the lawyer on the contests of whose book, "Citizen or Subject?" the state of Rhode Island has attacked afresh the Eighteenth Amendment, replied yesterday to the comments of certain senators and lawyers.

He declared that neither various lawyers nor most citizens understood American citizenship and its power in the science of government.

His further views are of importance to every contestant and to every reader interested in the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest.

By FRANCIS X. HENNESSY.

The average American of this generation does not understand what it means to be a citizen of America. He does not know the relation of such a citizen to all governments in America. He does not know the relations of those governments to one another. If this ignorance should continue, the citizen of America would disappear.

These plain truths are naturally called to mind by the comments of our "constitutional" lawyers on the proposed new litigation by Rhode Island to establish that there is no Eighteenth Amendment.

Senators Borah and Jones say that the proposition is "absurd." Louis Marshall says, "As for the objection of the Rhode Island Legislature, that is a lot of tommyrot."

While this kind of comment is being made, it should serve a useful public purpose to state in a nutshell what is the proposition that Rhode Island urges and expects to establish.

AMENDMENT 'ILLUSION'

It starts with the fact that the fifth article of the Constitution of the United States never gave any power at all to the state legislatures to make any future law.

The very first article of the Constitution states positively that the entire document gives power to make law only to Congress—none whatever to any other legislature or legislatures. From this first fact Rhode Island proceeds to the inevitable conclusion that the 36 state legislatures—supposed to have made the law called the Eighteenth Amendment — could not possibly have been given the power to make that law in the fifth article of the Constitution which gave the state legislatures no power to make any law.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

To Neutralize Acidity and Fermentation. Prevents Indigestion, Sour, Gassy Stomach.

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and know these things will not cure their trouble—in some cases to not even give relief.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

"Don't COUGH Your Energy Away"

How a cough may jar your whole nervous system!

COUGHING wears you down. It disturbs your sleep—takes away your appetite—uses up the strength you need to fight off serious infections.

Each time you cough, it tears at the delicate membranes of your throat, and bronchial tubes. A harsh cough puts a terrific strain upon your chest, stomach and other vital organs.

At the first sign of a cough or throat irritation, take Pertussin. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. Pertussin has been prescribed more often for coughs than any other advertised remedy.

Pertussin is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for "coughs that hang on." It is free from dope—does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary. Ask any Doctor or Druggist.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 26.—Raymond Thomas, 14, son of Mrs. Dale Empfield, this city, was accidentally shot in the forearm with a revolver in the hands of a playmate at New Orleans, where he is visiting relatives.

Shoes of Victim Clue In "Torch" Murder

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 26.—Chief of Police Herman Kidder, has been requested by New Jersey officials to assist in solving a murder committed at Cranford, N. J., on February 23. He is asked to try and identify the purchaser of a pair of shoes, bought at a store here. The merchant identified the shoes as having been sold at his store.

The request is being made in an effort to identify the body of a woman found shot and beaten to death. The body was then saturated with gasoline and set on fire and left burning along a highway. It is believed the woman resided in the Ohio Valley district.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Spence School Alumnae To Hold Dinner Here On April 4

DO you suppose the weather man has forgotten that this is really early spring, and not mid-summer? Yesterday's sunshine made a fur coat a thing of horror and a woolen frock unbearable. If this keeps up, we can surely expect to see an array of Easter finery on Sunday.

Even though there aren't any parties, though, I can tell you about an affair planned for next week, which will be of interest to many members of the Federation of Girls' School Societies. This is a dinner, which the local alumnae of the Spence School are planning for Thursday night, April 4, in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. And presiding at the dinner will be none other than James Francis Burke, whose daughter, Mrs. Donald Scott Rodgers, is on the committee. Mrs. Clarence Stanley, of Beechwood boulevard, who was Augusta Leovy, you remember, is going to talk about the new era for the Spence School, I understand.

The committee is sure that the associate principal, Miss Helen Clarkson Miller, is going to be here for the dinner, and the members are hoping that, perhaps, the principal, Miss Charlotte Baker, will be able to get here, too. They want her to tell of the progress being made by the alumnae toward the securing of a $1,000,000 fund to defray the cost of the site and erection of a nine-story building now under way at East Ninety-first street, New York. Mrs. Walter S. Heron, of Solway street, is chairman of the Pittsburgh committee now being organized to help in the campaign, and Mrs. C. Dudley Armstrong, of Warwick terrace, is vice chairman. Mrs. Armstrong, by the way, is leaving soon to make her home in Lancaster, but she is, no doubt, going to lend her assistance in the campaign, nevertheless.

Mrs. Heron's committee includes Mrs. William W. Blair, Jr., Mrs. Harvey Child: III, Evelyn F. Evans, Mrs. Alfred G. Harlow, Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, Mary Louise Johnson, Mrs. George M. Laughlin III, Elizabeth and Helen Leovy, Mrs. Norman C. McLeod, Mrs. Reginald G. Quaile, Mrs. Thomas A. Robinson, Mrs. Arthur M. Scully and Mrs. Stanley.

With the recent transfer of the Spence School from private ownership to the alumnae as a public trust, the executive committee of the alumnae is undertaking the campaign. Roswell Miller is national chairman of the executive committee and Mrs. J. T. Johnson Mall, of New York, wife of the Belgian Consul to the United States, is chairman. Seward Presser is treasurer.

QUITE a few local folks are in Pinehurst just now for the golf. The Ryder cup team is there now, you know, for exhibition matches, and I hear that the village and the hotels are filled to overflowing with visitors from the North, there either to participate or to watch some of the well-known golfers in action.

And, speaking of Pinehurst, I understand that S. C. Fownes is attending the annual dinner of the board of directors of the Pinehurst Country Club tonight.

WHILE many folks have either returned from the South or are planning to come back very shortly, a few are thinking about leaving for short visits there. Among these latter are Mr. Edward William Gwinner and her daughter, Sara Louise, of Fifth and Amberson avenues. They will leave on the third of April to spend a few weeks in Pinehurst. Sara Louise, you remember, is the fiancee of Frederick Eaton Crispin, of New York.

THE marriage of Miss Jane Sperling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sperling, of Wilkinsburg, and Louis Warrita, of Madison, Wis., was solemnized last night at 6:30 o'clock in Trinity Reformed Church, Wilkinsburg, by the Rev. Dr. Harry Nelson Bassler. The bride wore a period gown of white satin and princess lace embroidered with pearls, and her veil of Belgian lace was trimmed with pearls. She carried Calla lilies and white lilacs. Mrs. Gale Garlow, of Morgantown, W. Va., as her sister's matron of honor, wore orchid taffeta with a side bow of salmon pink taffeta, and she carried orchid tulips. A frock of salmon pink taffeta with a side bow of orchid taffeta was worn by the maid of honor, Miss Jane Musick, of Ligonier, and she carried salmon pink tulips. Rose and apple green taffeta frocks were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Miller, of Rockwood, Pa., and Miss Marian Giehl, of this city, and their flowers were King Alfred daffodils, forget-me-nots and American Beauty roses. The flower girls, Marjorie Garlow and Mary Turner, wore pink georgette. John Arnold, of Harrisburg, was best man and the ushers included John Clelland, John Mechling, of Wilkinsburg; Allison Warrita, of Madison, and Dr. Harold Lacy. A reception in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Warrita left for New York to sail for a cruise to the West Indies and Panama. They will be at home late in the spring in Madison.

MRS. MANLEY AND CHILDREN

Mrs. Louis Kenneth Manley, of Pittsburgh, and her children, Sara Jane and David Manley, sledding in the snow at Villars sur Bex, Switzerland, where they have been spending the winter. Dr. Manley, who went abroad to spend Christmas with his family, expects to return to Switzerland early in the summer to remain for several months.

Drama Democratic Art, Lecturer Says

"DRAMA is the one great democratic art and the box office is the only democratic institution seen to work out. Every time you purchase a ticket you cast a ballot for the kind of play you like. You have the power of full democracy to terminate the run of an objectionable play within a week. If you patronize bad or vulgar art you create a demand for bad or vulgar art." So Dr. Louis K. Anspacher, distinguished critic, playwright, actor, philosopher and lecturer, told members of the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning in an address on "Drama As a Social Force in Democracy." If applause, prolonged and hearty, may be taken as a criterion, then the lecture delivered by this brilliant orator was the most popular in a season that has been filled with good things for the Twentieth Century.

Dr. Anspacher further pointed out that: Drama envisions humanity in terms of conflict; it deals with live issues in the minds and hearts of men; it speaks within a week to twenty times the number of people and for five times as long as any preacher; it is pre-eminently a social art, for no drama is great that does not make its audience co-operate and collaborate; history may present the facts concerning a country, but drama gives the inmost soul of that country. He showed what effect certain plays have had on their times and how others have directly reflected important contemporaneous events. Dr. Anspacher urged that "The Merchant of Venice" be taken out of all schools because it was written, he believes, to satisfy an anti-Semetic prejudice of its time.

THE programs to be presented next month at the Friday afternoon meetings of the College Club are interesting, not only in themselves, but for the variety of subjects which they will bring before the members. Dr. Will Earhart, director of music in the public schools, will start the month off with a talk on "My Philosophy of Music," this on April 5. The following week the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty will address the members on "The Fine Art of Thinking." "The Prevention of Delinquency in Girls," by Mrs. Mary Clark Barnett, of the social service department, Margaret Morrison College, will be heard on April 19, Miss Ruth Whisler giving readings on the same program. To complete the circle, Dr. Mollie Ray Carroll, head of the department of sociology and economics at Goucher College, will tell of the year she spent abroad as a fellow of the Guggenheim Foundation.

THE thrilling and gripping story of how millions of his illiterate countrymen have been taught to read by thousands of teachers who are working voluntarily and without pay was recounted before the Allegheny County League of Women Voters and their guests last night, by Dr. Y. C. James Yen at the League's annual dinner in McCreery's. It was in France during the War and shortly after his graduation from Yale that Dr. Yen began so modestly a work that has spread so amazingly. He was astounded, he said, at the hunger, the eagerness and the capacity of Chinese coolies (upon whom he, as a Confucian scholar, had been taught to look down) for education. First 40, then 100, then over 1,000 were taught in order that they might send word home of their welfare. Dr. Yen explained why illiteracy was so high in China—the two languages, either one of which takes more time and money to learn than the lower class Chinese can afford. These Dr. Yen reduced from their complicated 40,000 characters to 1,300 with a system made so simple that only one hour a day in a class room for four months is necessary for assimilation. He told of carrying this work into China and of the first graduating class of 967, upon whom the government conferred the degree of "literate citizen."

Dr. William Hung, of Harvard, spoke on "The Problems of the Pacific," which, he said, are the problems of the world today in which the star actors are military imperialism, radical Bolshevism and liberal republicanism as represented by Japan, Russia and America.

MRS. J. G. CHALFANT, speaking yesterday before the Homewood Women's Club on "Club Ethics," said club ethics meant not only good manners, but also kindliness, tact and consideration for others. Mrs. Chalfant, who is district club institute chairman in the State Federation, introduced the other speakers, Mrs. W. C. Hawley, who talked on "Relation of the Club to the Home;" Miss Zella Breckenridge, of Westinghouse High School, who urged co-operation with those engaged in educational work in the community; Mrs. R. B. Perry, who discussed "Points of Contact in Junior Work," and Mrs. John McKelvie, who had as her subject, "Essentials for a Good Club Meeting."

NEW officers elected by the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club at the meeting yesterday afternoon are: Mrs. C. C. Kochenderfer, president; Mrs. J. B. Nicklas, Jr., and Mrs. S. Y. Free, vice presidents; Mrs. R. C. Kramer, recording secretary; Mrs. C. A. Stout, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Sylvester Ulmar, treasurer. Mrs. I. G. Amsler was elected director for a term of two years. The program for the afternoon followed with Mrs. C. W. Kenney as chairman. Miss Theresa C. Yeager gave a talk on "Growth and Development of the Mt. Lebanon Schools;" L. E. Perry, principal of Mt. Lebanon High School, spoke on extra curriculur activities of secondary schools, and Mrs. Clifford C. Taylor gave a talk on "Sightless Seeing."

To the Rescue

Alice White

Saves dress and film goes on!

HOLLYWOOD, CAL.—Alice White's ingenuity recently saved a temporary suspension of production on her new film—and a loss of thousands of dollars an hour to First National studios.

In the midst of a ballroom scene, Miss White spilled punch down the front of her chiffon dancing frock. Consternation reigned—then Alice White herself saved the day.

Calling her maid, she instructed her to wash the dress in Lux. In 30 minutes the dress, dried quickly by electric fans, looked like new!

"Every girl knows how marvelous her frocks look cleansed in Lux," Miss White said—"and our own wardrobe department uses Lux regularly. Tests prove clothes can be kept gorgeously new looking ever so much longer with Lux. Today's incident merely illustrates dramatically the marvelous work Lux does in double-quick time."

JELLIES AND JAMS FROM THE STORE

Make the Whole Meal More Enjoyable

Jams, jellies and preserves are marvelous energy foods for children, athletes, and all physically active people. In addition to that, they make the whole meal more delicious. They are appetizing spreads for bread, accompaniments for meats, and tasteful additions to toast, muffins and hot breads.

Another good thing about jams, jellies and preserves, all grocers today carry them. These bought foods are delicious. Their purity can be depended on. They contain appetizing fruit acids, and beneficial minerals and vitamins.

Thousands of women and girls today are permanently injuring their health by dangerous weight reduction. All children should be a little overweight, if anything, as a protection against disease.

It is almost a rule of health that those foods that are made more delicious by sugar are the best for us to eat. Eat daily plenty of cereals, fruits, vegetables and milk, sweetened for perfect enjoyment, and you will go a long way toward health in diet. See that all growing children eat enough regularly. Eat for nutrition and enjoyment. The Sugar Institute.

BAN PHONOGRAPH RECORDS ON RADIO AFTER 7 P. M.

CHICAGO, March 26.—(INS.)—"No more phonograph records on the air after 7 p. m. No 'purely commercial' programs on the air between 7 and 11 p. m. No mention of price in connection with any article after 7 p. m."

These were the regulations adopted here yesterday at a meeting of the National Association of Broadcasters.

The only phonograph records on the air after 7 p. m., the assocation agreed, will be "pre-release" of new records not yet on sale but broadcast by the manufacturers for purposes of publicity.

The association also had before it a report of its legislative committee condemning the present zoning system and urging that the association go on record in favor of a new radio commission similar in organization to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The committee on ethics also reported with a proposed "code of ethics," the essentials being, that the "air shall be kept clean for the radio listener's family."

It also recommended that advertisers remain honest on the air.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

ULDINE UTLEY OPENS REVIVAL TONIGHT

Uldine Utley, 17-year-old girl evangelist, will open a series of revival meetings in Pittsburgh tonight with services in the Beechview Presbyterian Church.

On Wednesday night she will speak in the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church and on Thursday night in the First Primitive Methodist Church.

Friday night she will conduct services in the Greenfield Presbyterian Church.

Miss Utley will speak each night next week, in the North Side Carnegie Hall. She will then conduct her services in Soldiers' Memorial Hall, speaking each night until April 28, excepting Saturdays.

The meeting of Tuesday, April 9, will be held in the North Side hall.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that produced the showers and thunderstorms over this section last night and the high temperatures yesterday is now centered over the Far Northeast, and a narrow trough formation extends southwestward over the Middle Atlantic states, the Ohio valley and the lower Mississippi Valley states to another center south of Texas. It is causing cloudy weather at most places east of the Mississippi River and rain in the Ohio valley. Another low of marked intensity appeared in the far Northwest; lowest barometer reported is 29.38 inches, at Edmonton. It is not producing precipitation, but it is causing mild temperatures over that section.

High barometer is centered off the California coast, and extends eastward over the Central Rocky Mountain states to the central Mississippi valley. It is attended by clear skies generally, and cold weather over the Rocky Mountain states, and is causing a change to colder over the central valleys.

TRIPLE ACTION

Ends coughs the MEDICAL WAY!

No other Cough Syrup has it!

Peter coughed and sneezed, coughed and sneezed—till "Triple Action" gave him quick relief.

"PETER is a delicate boy—very apt to catch cold. This winter when he started coughing and sneezing, we gave him Smith Brothers Cough Syrup. It is almost unbelievable how quickly this syrup helped him. He stopped coughing, his fever went down, and in three days he had lost his cold completely. We are certainly grateful to Smith Brothers Cough Syrup—it worked wonders with our boy!" MRS. ROBERT L. HIGGINS

Husband and wife . . . both catch serious colds . . . . . .

Both well in two days. "Triple Action" did it!

"WE had to visit some friends on a bad rainy day. When we got home that night, we both were coughing in chorus. My husband had fever and complained of a pain in his chest. I gave him some Smith Brothers Cough Syrup and took a teaspoonful myself. Right away I felt better.

In the morning we continued taking Smith Brothers—and in two days we both were just as well as ever. My husband and I now both swear by Smith Brothers Cough Syrup!"—MRS. W. P. FROST

¶ Smith Brothers Cough Syrup works so surely and so quickly because of Triple Action. This scientific principle does the three things that you must do to get a cough out of your system: 1—it soothes, 2—is mildly laxative, 3—clears air passages. It has the famous cough drop flavor.

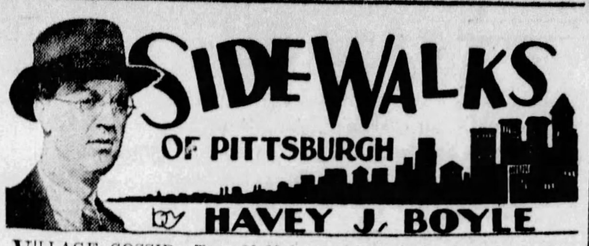
COUNCIL VOTES NORTH SIDE FLOOD ZONE AID

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



by HAVEY J. BOYLE

VILLAGE GOSSIP: Tom McMahon, chief of the board of city property assessors, is a stalwart among amateur protographers. . . . He can also make figures on taxation jump through the hoop and stand on their heads. . . . George Langfitt, of the district attorney's staff, is an expert fisherman and tells great fish stories. . . . Roy Clunk, of the same office, is an authority on guns. . . . His talent in this respect was used in the Army. . . . Senator James Coyne is a gentleman farmer, spending much spare time among the chickens and hay fields on his summer place. . . . Mayor Kline is a golf addict, but not a particularly low scorer. . . . At his summer home he amuses himself in the evenings by taking 20 or 25 kids to the cinema house and listening to the kids hissing the villian, cheering the hero. . . . His secretary, Ed Swaney, seldom leaves the outer sanctum of the Mayor's office. . . . And is the essence of politeness to all and sundry.

. . . Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, of the Federal Court, takes tea each afternoon at 4 o'clock. . . . That used to be a general practice in the offices of the Edward A. Woods Agency in the Frick Building. . . . Blinds were drawn at 4 and all hands were served tea and cakes. . . . E. V. Babcock is a duck hunter of note. . . . Senator Frank Harris' hobby is introducing Luke Barnett to a victim as Mr. Corocco, the Polish banker from Braddock. . . . Jim Malone, president of Council, attends more dinners, banquets and meetings than any man in town. Unlike a contemporary, Mayor James Walker, Mr. Malone is always on time. . . . He seldom eats at the affairs for the reason he slides home early and eats with the family. . . . They say he averages three public meetings a day, not counting the delegations he meets in City Council. . . . Councilman "Bob" Garland is the father of daylight savings in Pittsburgh, which is a boon to professional and amateur baseball people, but the councilman leans more to golf than to baseball. . . . Councilman Peter McArdle gets fun out of reading dry constitutional documents. . . . Thomas Piarr, fire marshal, is the lowest salaried public official. . . . He gets but $10 a year, less than $1 a month. . . . You can figure out how much he gets every second. . . . One of the town's best walkers is William A. Magee, former Mayor a couple of times. . . . When in office he scorned an official automobile, preferring to walk. . . . True, he didn't have a long walk to the office, as he lived, then, in the William Penn Hotel. . . . Besides a great walker the former Mayor is an omniverous reader. . . . It is fitting that Norman Brown, an engineer, should be the best bridge expert in town, unless a man named Ed Coyle can be said to be better. . . . John Shenkel, chief court clerk, likes horse-back riding, at which he may be caught any Sunday. . . . C. F. C. KISTLER QUITS AS SHERADEN U. P. PASTOR

The Rev. Harold C. Kistler, pastor of the Sheraden United Presbyterian Church, will preach his last sermon there next Sunday. The announcement, made Sunday, came as a complete surprise to the congregation. He has accepted a call to the First United Presbyterian Church, Steubenville, O., and will take up his new duties on April 7.

"Next Sunday, Mr. Kistler said, "I will preach an Easter sermon in the morning, and my farewell sermon in the evening."

PASTOR FIVE YEARS

Mr. Kistler has been pastor of the Sheraden church, his first charge, for five years. He has been active in denominational work and also in connection with the Council of Churches. He took part in the Kernahan visitation evangelism campaign last year.

His father, Dr. J. C. Kistler, is the associate secretary of the Board of American Missions in the United Presbyterian denomination. His brother is the Rev. Raymond N. Kistler, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church in Rochester, N. Y.

A congregational meeting was called for April 3, when his resignation will be acted upon.

MEMBERSHIP 1,000

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 26.—The First United Presbyterian Church here has about 1,000 members and is regarded as one of the strongest in this district. A new church edifice recently was completed at a cost of $250,000. Mr. Kistler preached here two weeks ago. He came here last week for a conference with officials of the church. He succeeds the Rev. James Best, who resigned two months ago to take a church in Wilkinsburg, Pa.

Fourth Pre-Easter Services Planned

The fourth of a series of pre-Easter evangelistic services in the First Christian Church, Montgomery avenue and Arch street, will be held tonight. The services opened Sunday morning and will conclude next Sunday, Easter. The Rev. Frederick S. Dowdy, pastor, preaches tonight on "The Choice of the Thoughtless." Sermon topics for the remainder of the week follow: Wednesday, "I Find No Fault in Him"; Thursday, "Bearing the Cross"; Friday, "The Crucifixion"; Saturday, "The Title on the Cross"; Sunday morning, "The Resurrection"; Sunday night, "The Future Life."

St. Joseph's Club Plan Card Benefit

A reception and card party for the benefit of the Eudes Institute, formerly the East End Home of the Good Shepherds, will be held April 10 at Bryn Mawr auditorium, Larimer avenue. The affair will be conducted under the auspices of the St. Joseph's club.

Plan Preparatory Service for Easter

Easter preparatory services will be held tomorrow, Thursday and Friday nights in Bellevue Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. R. F. Galbreath, pastor, with communion and reception of new members scheduled for Friday nights.

TYPICAL GIRL NOMINATIONS POUR IN

As the Sun-Telegraph-Smart Set Magazine Typical American Girl Contest draws to a close, the Quest Editor finds more and more interesting letters and nominations in his mail each day. A few of the nominees received today are mentioned in this column, while their pictures appear elsewhere on the page.

An enthusiastic friend, Mrs. O. J. Remy, 455 Spring street, Parnassus, nominates Hilda Myers, Seventh street road, Parnassus, as the young lady for whom the Hearst papers have been combing the country since March 1.

Mrs. Remy writes that "as I have read the different letters that have been published in the paper as to what the Typical American Girl is or should be, I have come to the conclusion that she should have beauty, popularity, ambitions to do greater things.

SUFFERED PRIVATIONS

"I believe that you will find that Hilda will qualify to all the above mentioned. Her life has not been full of pleasures, travel, ceaseless fun, for her mother could not afford it, but Hilda loves life as she has had to take it, and loves her mother for all the efforts she has made to make her life pleasant."

Of Pauline Swan, her sister, Helen, has this to say: "She is both a grammar and high school graduate and also took several teachers' extension courses from Indiana Normal School. Since her graduation, she has been in the employ of a Barnesboro drug store, and is considered a very dependable business woman.

"Miss Swan does clerical work and has charge of all the bookkeeping. Pauline is also an adviser to many patrons along the line of cosmetics."

QUEST ENDS SUNDAY

The Swan family lives in Barnesboro and is very much interested in the Typical American Girl contest.

The quest closes March 31 at midnight, and the Quest Editor will be unable to accept any nominations post-marked after that time. Nominations may not be made by the candidates and should be accompanied by pictures of the nominees. Shortly after April 1 the judges will meet to decide which girl is to be sent to New York to compete with 16 other young ladies from all over the country for the title of the Typical American Girl, and the cash prize of $5,000.

Who will be the Typical American Girl?

South Side Church Will Banquet Pastor

The congregation of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church will tender a banquet to the pastor, the Rev. Alexander Siwiec, in Lyceum Hall, Mission and Barry streets, on Sunday, April 7. Stanley K. Nowicki will be toastmaster. Invitations have been extended to a number of prominent politicians and business men. A. Ocetkiewicz, Polish consul, also will attend, with many local clergymen.

Izaak Waltons to Pick New Officers

Officers for the year will be elected at the monthly meeting of the Millvale Chapter, Izaak Walton League of America, Thursday at St. Anne's Hall, Lincoln avenue, Millvale.

IN TYPICAL AMERICAN GIRL QUEST

PAULINE SWAN — EVA SELMA DORHEIM — HILDA MYERS

This Barnesboro girl is 24 years old with dark brown, wavy hair, shoulder length. Miss Swan is said to be a good sport and to have a wonderful sense of humor.

This young lady is struggling to master the intricacies of fine music. Seventeen, an excellent swimmer, Miss Dorheim sews, cooks, plays over the radio.

Miss Myers hails from Parnassus, wears a boyish bob, has a naturally beautiful complexion, takes a prominent part in school activities, and always smiles.

Rules of the Quest

1. This is a selective search, not a motion picture popularity or beauty contest. It is an honest and sincere effort to find the Typical American Girl.

2. A National Committee of Judges appointed by Smart Set will make the final decision and make the $5,000 award in New York, at a date set by the publisher of Smart Set Magazine. This committee is composed of Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, Vina Dalmar, Jesse L. Lasky, John Golden, Guy Hopp, and Margaret Sangster, Editor of Smart Set, and a seventh member to be selected.

3. A local committee of judges appointed by each co-operating newspaper will select the regional winner.

4. A candidate cannot propose herself. She must be proposed by some individual or organization. This proposal must be sent to the Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

5. Each candidate's proposal must be accompanied by her photograph, biographical sketch, listing age, weight, height, coloring, education and her social, business and athletic activities. Her qualifications will be considered by the committee of judges appointed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

6. The minimum age is 17.

CITY WILL HELP FINANCE HOME RAISING

Home owners of limited means will receive financial aid from the city in raising their buildings to the new grades of North Side streets to be elevated above flood level as a result of a resolution passed by Council on motion of Harry A. Little. The area is bounded by Federal street, Manchester avenue, the P., Ft. W. & C. R. R. Co., and the Allegheny river.

The resolution provides for a special committee of council to co-operate with the department of works and the law department in financing the raising of homes pending settlement of damages by the board of viewers.

DOG BITES HAND OF BENEFACTOR

Acting the good samaritan, walking over to pet a dog that had been run over by a wagon, John Oslocki, 17, 2010 Sarah street, was bitten on the right hand by the dog while it was in agony and pain, witnesses said.

The dog, owned by a Mrs. Sweeney, of Carey way, was run over by an American Reduction garbage wagon, in charge of Robert Steele, Negro, Gassam street. The dog's back was broken.

Oslocki, an eye-witness to the accident, was bitten when he tried to touch the dog. He was treated at the South Side Hospital. The dog was killed by Mounted Patrolman Frank Crummer and the body sent to the West Penn Hospital for examination.

The West View School Board meets tonight to open bids on $80,000 bonds to meet the expense of a new addition recently completed to the Highland grade school and also to purchase additional property at the Oakwood school for a contemplated addition.

Boy Falls Over Cliff, Breaks Leg and Arms

Anthony Capaccione, 9, of Miller street, Rankin, was in Braddock General hospital today with both arms and one leg fractured from a fall yesterday over a 50-foot cliff in Mortimer avenue, Turtle Creek. Earth slid from under a protruding ledge on which the boy was standing during a game of "Indian," police said.

Bellevue Church to Name Three Elders

The annual congregational meeting of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church has been called for Wednesday, April 3, in the church rooms. Annual reports will be read and six elders and three trustees elected.

MILLVALE BANS NIGHT PARKING

Chief of Police Philip Mitzel, of Millvale, has placed a ban on all-night parking on streets of the borough. Many complaints have been received, he said, because of cars, without lights, left standing in streets and alleys, menacing autoists.

The chief has instructed his men to seize all unlighted cars after 11 p. m. and to have towed to a public garage cars found parking all night.

Bellevue Circle to Hold Bake Sale

The Ladies' Aid Society, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, will hold an Easter bake sale Saturday in the Allegheny Market House. Mrs. H. W. Elverson is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Wylie L. Jones, Mrs. J. H. Caughey, Mrs. G. W. Seaman and Mrs. E. L. Kidney.

Bellevue Firemen Arrange Carnival

James Greenough, Sr., president of the Columbia Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, the Bellevue volunteer firemen's organization, announced that their annual carnival will be held July 18 and 19.

GREEKS' POST-WAR WORK AIDED BY U. S. ENGINEERS

American relief aid and engineering resources fit prominently into Greece's period of post-war reconstruction and assistance to 1,500,000 Asia Minor refugees seeking new homes in that nation. Ambassador Charalambous Simopoulos, here from Washington to address the annual banquet of the Greek American Progressive Association in the William Penn Hotel last night, explained this part in relating the progress being made.

"Millions of dollars worth of American goods are purchased annually," he said.

"An American firm has the concession to build huge dams in establishing an agricultural water supply at Athens. Another engineering firm is draining the vast swamp wastes that will give much needed farm land. This land is needed to give means of livelihood to refugees.

"The Greek government is doing everything possible to share its nation with these homeless millions. The fruit of these efforts will not be borne for 10 years, but great agricultural strides have been made."

Busy Bee Club Plans Annual Ball

Mrs. Ellsworth Benton, Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. W. R. Howell, Mrs. Clyde Davis, Mrs. William House and Mrs. Joseph Conway constitute the committee for the annual square and modern dance of the Busy Bee Club of Wilkinsburg, to be held in the Swissvale Odd Fellows hall.

Club Arranges Invitational Swim

The Tempest Anima Club, of Oakland, is planning an invitational swimming party to be held at the Trees pool during the second week in April. The committee appointed to make the arrangements consists of Milton Goldstone, Al Paul and Milton Baseman.

Kelly will speak tonight; the Rev. A. J. R. Schumaker, Wednesday night; the Rev. Dr. Ira Freeman, Thursday night, and the Rev. J. A. T. Marsteller, Friday night. On Easter day there will be baptisimal services both morning and evening.

BOY INJURED, $25,000 ASKED

Injuries sustained by Harry Fareman, 7, of Homestead, are the basis of a $25,000 damage suit on file today in Common Pleas Court against Emanuel Feldman, Homestead. The action was brought for the boy by Granville Fareman, a relative with whom he lives. It is charged the boy was run down by the defendant's automobile at McClure avenue and Eleventh street, Homestead, November 26, 1927. He received many bruises and internal injuries which are claimed to have caused permanent ill effects upon his health.

Runs in Front of Auto, Child Injured

Joseph Trimbur, 5, 136 Pius street, received slight contusions of the forehead and body bruises yesterday when he ran from the sidewalk near his home, directly in front of an automobile driven by George Kauer, Jr., 69 South Main street. The boy was treated at the South Side Hospital. The driver was not arrested.

Millvale Seniors Rehearsing Play

Seniors of Millvale High School are rehearsing for their annual play, "Apple Blossom Time," to be given in the school auditorium, April 25 and 26. James McGinley is business manager and Margaret Wehrle, prompter.

Husband Avers Wife Was Cruel

Harry A. Fareman, 314 Federal street, charges cruelty in suit for divorce he had instituted in Common Pleas Court against Mrs. Mabel I. Fareman, 5613 Baytree street, North Side. They were married May 17, 1916, and separated March 17, 1928.

Plan Candle-Light Communion Service

A candle light communion service, in commemoration of the institution of the Lord's Supper, will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Bellevue Christian Church, the Rev. Frank G. Helme, pastor.

Court Asked to Change Church Name

A petition has been filed in Common Pleas Court to change the name of St. Mark's Church, Birmingham, to St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh. It is also asked that the amended charter allow 12 instead of nine vestrymen. The petition was presented by Harry W. Ross, senior warden, and Herbert I. Smith, secretary. Judge James H. Gray fixed April 18 for a hearing.

MINSTREL AT ST. MICHAEL'S

An annual minstrel play will be presented by the St. Michael's Lyceum in the St. Michael's auditorium tonight and tomorrow night.

The members of the dramatic club have offered their services, and with all indications, this year's production will prove superior to all others. The singing will be made up of the St. Michael's male and young ladies' choir. An assortment of novelty numbers and new features will be presented. It will be under the complete direction of Albine Friend, a veteran minstrel manager.

Postal Officials Open Mail, Arrest Sender

H. J. Gilda, of Wilkinsburg, a mechanical engineer, languished in jail today because he failed to put sufficient postage on a package which, Postoffice Inspector George V. Craighead, alleged, contained objectionable matter. The package was opened by a postal clerk, and contained, it is alleged, a letter in which there were penned indecent verses. Gilda was arrested yesterday by Deputy Marshal John Austin, and was unable to furnish $1,000 bail.

Show Planned to Aid Widow of Fireman

To assist Mrs. Helen Sonnett, whose husband, Adolph Sonnett, was killed Christmas night while answering a fire call, the West Park Independent Fire Company will hold a minstrel show April 11 and 12 in the auditorium of the Stowe Township High School. Sonnett, Joseph Deberro and Carl Moyer were killed when the fire truck plunged over an embankment on the way to a fire at the Carnegie Refining Company plant, Heidelberg. His family was left penniless, except for a small insurance policy.

HIT BY BALL, SUES BANK

Because of injuries sustained when a ball fell off the top of a flag pole on the building of the First National Bank at Pittsburgh November 12, 1928, Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, of Avalon, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against the bank for $50,000 damages.

Mrs. McCarthy says she was walking in Wood street in front of the bank building at the time. The ball struck her head, shoulder and breast, causing concussion of the brain and fracture of her collar bone, she avers. Her glasses were broken and her coat torn.

Ingram Firemen Arrange Minstrel

Rehearsals are under way for the minstrel show to be given by the Ingram Volunteer Firemen in the Ingram School auditorium, April 10 and 11. The production is under the complete direction of J. Egan. The soloists will be: Ruth Hess, Helen Taylor, G. Maloney and A. Warner. W. A. Siegfried will be the interlocutor. A sketch will be presented by the Woman's Club of Ingram. The entertainment committee is in charge of Harper Cain, chairman, and he will be assisted by F. G. Kendel, A. Jessup and A. Craig.

Shorter School Day Meeting to Be Held

To arouse public interest in its campaign for shorter school sessions, the Parents' Association of Pittsburgh will meet tonight in the H. C. Frick Training School for Teachers, Fifth avenue and Thackeray street. A bill reducing the present seven-hour day to five and one-half hours has been presented to the Legislature, and has been indorsed by the Pittsburgh Teachers' Association.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, March 26.

When they sunk that rum ship, they sunk the Mexican war, Secretary of State's arrival, Grundy's tariff and Babe Ruth, as far as public excitement was concerned. Interfering with the import of a national commodity is hitting at the very vitals of our existence.

One thing must be said in favor of our Coast Guard. They didn't sink it till after it unloaded, thereby giving the owners a chance to pay for the ship.

Some predict trouble with England over it. I don't think so, especially if we can keep it out of the hands of diplomats.

Yours, WILL.

Queenie Begs Zannie to Give Hank a Chance With the Show

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Eddie Kerns, song plugger, has written the music for "The Broadway Melody," a big revue to be produced by the famous Zanfield. For two years Eddie has been engaged to "Hank" Mahoney and now he sees his way clear to marry her. She and her younger sister, Queene, are playing in vaudeville and Eddie summons them to New York and tells them he has managed to place them in the revue. They are overjoyed, but Eddie suddenly discovers that he's lost his heart to Queenie who has developed into a startling beauty in the two years since he saw her last. He keeps his secret from "Hank" and the girls turn down a long vaudeville contract for a chance to make good in the revue.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

ZANNIE—Glorifier the Great—was seated at an improvised desk on the stage of his theater. The dim and shadow-casting incandescence of huge bulbs scattered about on piped standlights plugged into current boxes threw weird figures as 16 girls, clad in bloomers, bathing suits and other haphazard chorus practice clothes, slowly and studiously executed dance maneuvers yet in the process of being routined.

Before them, cane in hand, Eddie Kerns, composer of the theme song to which this dance was one of the encore numbers, was rendering his idea of interpreting with feet and forms the spirit of his syncope. The director, who had laid out the conception, stood critically by to visualize the effect. Zannie was eyeing it all, seeing in imagination the costumes he was planning. At a piano, to the side, in shirt sleeves, sat a youth, starting, stopping, accelerating, retarding, as orders were barked at him by Eddie or the director.

Eddie, facing the dark auditorium, turned to do a half whirl, and saw in the dim wings, entering in street attire, the Mahoney Sisters. They threaded their way through the labyrinthian mazes of stacked scenery, props and electrical miscellany. Hank's hands were cumbered with a music roll and a handbag, while Queenie, the younger, carried nothing but a worried and nervous expression. For the Mahoney Sisters, small-timers, were treading toward the threshold of Fate.

The jocund confidence and high elation they had shown in their room, when they cast behind them a vaudeville route to chance their future on the verdict of the mighty Zannie, evaporated as they entered the temple of revue's high priest. Eddie, compelled to finish the number motioned to them to wait, and as soon as the last bar tinkled off, he darted toward them.

The sixteen working on the apron of the stage were only a fourth or less of the hand-picked, assorted and chosen for the beauty crew of "Broadway Melody." The others, loafing and gossiping, giggling and horseplaying sotto voce toward the rear, were curiously looking the Mahoney Sisters over. Their clothes, obviously their best, broadcast to these sophisticated Broadway-broke babes the brand of the hick. The music roll was a giveaway—these rococo invaders had the brass to think they would make a Zannie show. One little blonde, in particular, was trying not to choke as she pointed them and the facts out to her sisters of the chorus.

"It's all right," whispered Eddie. "I just got to tell Zannie, that's all." The dance director loudly shouted to him—"Hey—Kerns — back in the number—what the—" And Eddie, with a gesture of "Wait a minute," scurried forward. Zannie arose and took a position facing the line. The blonde laughed aloud, and Hank gave her one of her best supper-show glares; she was no amateur to be razzed by chorines—she was to be a principal; those fresh frails would find out pretty quick, they would.

Zannie didn't even see Eddie as he fell into the movement. He was hotly disagreeing with Zannie, who pointing and pantomiming, was indicating exactly what he wanted changed.

This ended, Zannie strolled back toward his desk, Eddie jaywalking to intercept him. Zannie stopped, saw it was Eddie, kept on walking. Eddie followed timidly and stood looking at the back of the great producer's head.

Hank, meanwhile, had hopped on the pianist the moment his hand slid off the keyboard. She was handing him the Mahoney Sisters' music, explaining to him certain accents, cues and tempos written in. She nodded to Eddie that she was all set, and he, with a cough, leaned over Zannie's shoulder and asked him if he would now hear the Mahoney Sisters. "Mahoney Sisters? Who are they? Never heard of them," answered Zannie, without looking up from a scene design. Everyone heard. A snicker ran through the chorus cuties, now all huddled together and at ease. Hank looked up sharply. "Why—there they are," said Eddie. Zannie glanced up and asked, "Where?"

Queenie was just opening her dress, a one-piece affair. As the famous connoisseur of femininity turned his eyes, she dropped her frock and stood, unconscious of his scrutiny, in her revealing practice duds. Her girlish, ripe but charmingly adolescent figure held his gaze. He was the world's foremost specialist on that type of merchandise. He recognized immediately what Broadway calls "a good bet."

"All right," he said, "let's see what else they've got. Come on — Mahoney Sisters."

Eddie rushed to Hank, who with trembling fingers started opening snappers. "You're in," he said in her ear, "I told him all about you."

The blonde, as though by accident, tipped Hank's open bag off the shelf of the open grand piano and sent its contents down onto the taut wires. Eddie sneaked downstage, to stand near Zannie. The director called to the pianist—"Well, let's go. Time costs a lot o' dough here."

The piano-player struck a chord. It sounded like a cat with a tincan on his tail, crossing a brick yard. Everyone grinned. He tried again, then looked into his instrument and found Hank's compact and keys and other plunder tangled into his vibrators. A property man had to be called to get them out. Meanwhile Hank was fuming. Zannie was peeved, and Eddie was dying. At last—Zannie having lit a big cigar to sustain him—and the accompanist went into the "vamp."

The sound of their familiar music transformed the Mahoney Sisters. Almost mechanically they slid to their places, struck their set posture and the trick prop smile, the unsubtle swinging of shoulders to register pep, and on the last beat of the thirty-second bar, they "went into" their opening song—

"It's the new age, the new way—

Zannie's face changed from annoyance to pain. A tremendous hammering reverberated through the hollow house. Eddie looked up petulantly—up in the flies the stage carpenter was nailing some canvas on a frame. The girls were still singing away for dear life trying to top the clatter and still stay in their tried-and-trained range. To the relief of everyone, the vocal part ran out and they tore into their dance, their forte. With all the verve possible, they tripped and tapped. Zannie looked—tried one more glance—then actually put his hand over his eyes. With the other side he made the deadly downward gesture. The director whistled to the pianist, who stopped with the suddenness of a four-wheel-brake taxi. Eddie tried to voice a protest, but no sound came.

The director called to the girls:

"Mr. Zanfield's seen enough and thanks you very much. He'll let you know."

"He'll let you know" is good bye in the sweet lexicon of the stage. Even the Mahoney Sisters knew that. Hank started toward Zannie. But the director shouted "All right girls—everyone on." And some sixty scampered from all angles to find their places in formation, cutting Hank off and all but crushing the sisters in their stampede. Queenie was carried near to Zannie's desk. Eddie was talking now, pleading for the girls—they hadn't a break—Zannie took his cigar between his fingers, and, with a shrug of his shoulders, cut him off as he said:

"I could use the blonde. But the other cluck is—out!"

Queenie heard. She turned with a grieved expression, looking for Hank, who was taking it out on every girl within hearing. She elbowed her way to the piano and began gathering up her music. The pianist, hard-boiled and stage-sore as he was, shook his head in sympathy. "He should o' seen the finish," he observed, "even if the act was punk." Hank flared at him, "Who says it's punk?" And the blonde, with mischievous mock-charity, gurgled "We seen the finish, dear. It was swell." The words were scarcely out of her mouth before Hank was at her, music roll on high. The blonde, terrified, tried retreat, but as she dodged the roll Hank caught a handful of her bleached hair in the other hand. The pianist seized them both to separate them.

Eddie rushed over to help break the assault. He threw his arms around Hank's waist and pulled her back. She released her hold.

"Next time I'll give you a facial instead of a hair treatment, you dizzy tramp," snarled Hank at her tormentor.

Eddie tried to say soothing words to his fiancee, but the director screamed at him—"Kerns! What's all the delay? Eighty people killin' time an' runnin' up expense, an' you—let's go! Come on! Music!"

Queenie, in the excitement, slipped up to Zannie. He looked up, annoyed, but when he saw who it was he smiled.

"I heard you say, Mr. Zanfield," she said, in low tone, "that you could use me. Wouldn't you—I want to ask you if you'd take the two of us—at the same price."

Zannie's features first showed amusement. Then something within him seemed touched. Queenie was so sincere, so anxious, so worried.

"Oh—all right, youngster," he replied. "Guess I can slip her in some bit somewhere."

Radiance lighted her lovely young face.

"You—you won't let her know you—that it isn't the both of us you want, will you, please?"

"Of course not," he said. "You're a sweet kid. Run along now. Tell your sister to see me—later."

Hawaiian Interlude By H. L. RAYBOLD Daily Short Story

WHEN John Armstrong's employer dispatched him to Honolulu for a brief visit of inspection of their canning interests in the islands, he accepted the commission as a duty.

He did not particularly want to go. He was the sort of man who could pass a whole window full of colorful leaflets advertising this or that excursion to vacation lands without so much as slowing down his step for a casual glance at them. He was a solid citizen—was John—with his feet squarely planted on the high road to success via the Foreign Fruits Canning Company, his eyes fixed unwaveringly on two goals, Financial power through careful investment in local real estate and Gertrude Wayburn as his wife.

The latter was as good as attained, for on the evening before he left on the transcontinental flyer that would bear him within a few feet of the Matsonia's dock where he would embark for Hawaii, Gertrude promised solemnly to marry him on his return.

"You make me extremely happy," said John, in his careful, precise way, and produced a handsome diamond ring from his vest pocket.

Six weeks later, John was sitting on the beach at Waikiki watching the white crested combers curl and break on the reef off-shore. Beside him a pretty, yellow-frocked girl, her slender hands twined about her knees, looked out across the lazy seas with an unfathomable expression in her dark eyes.

Needless to say, the girl was not Gertrude who was a shade too plumb, whose eyes were blue and never unfathomable, and who at that very moment was probably industriously plying her needle.

"So you sail tomorrow," said the girl who was Mimi Thurston, daughter of the owner of one of the largest sugar plantations on the island of Oahu.

"John picked up a handful of sand and let it sift slowly through his fingers. "Yes," he said, nodding. "I sail tomorrow. Already, I have stayed a week longer than I should have."

"I'll miss you, John," said Mimi frankly, bravely. "We've had some wonderful times together."

John nodded. Wonderful, indeed. Not only had his letters of introduction made a place for him in the midst of charming people, but the beauty of the islands—their velvet nights, their riot of foliage and flower, their glory of emerald mountain peak and lush valley, of purple sea and pounding surf — had gripped him as perhaps they could only grip a man from a smoky city spread over a middle western plain.

He had extended his stay a week on the pretext that a trip on the little inter-island steamer would add to his knowledge of commercial conditions. As a matter of fact, it had served only to deepen the spell Hawaii had already cast upon him.

As for the girl at his side—what larks they had had together! Tea at a hibiscus-smothered bungalow on the road to Diamond Head, picnics on top of the Pali with city and ocean and checkerboard plantations spread beneath, horseback rides over vine-embowered trails—

If it hadn't been for Gertrude, John knew that he would ask nothing better of life than to marry Mimi and take up life right here in Honolulu. Such a change had come to him in six weeks.

He hadn't told Mimi of his engagement. At first, there seemed no particular reason for mentioning it to one who, at best, could never be more than a stranger. Later, when they had actually become friends, he had shied from introducing any subject which might shadow, however slightly, their good times together, particularly as those good times were so innocent of any harm to Gertrude.

Now, however, John felt that the moment had come to tell Mimi of his fiancee.

He cleared his throat. "Mimi," he began, "there's something I want to say." Then he could have choked himself for, at the lovely flush that swept her face, he realized only too well what she thought he was about to tell her.

"Mimi, I'm engaged to a girl back in the States!" There—he had blurted it out to get it over with.

Mimi went rather white. Then, gamely, she held out her hand. "Congratulations!" she said, "and thank you for telling me." A few minutes later she suggested returning to her car which was parked at the Outriggers' Club.

The following day she was at the dock with her father to see John sail. She even insisted on draping his neck with flowery leis. And, while the steamer slowly broke her gay paper chains to the music of the native band playing Aloha and showers of confetti from the upper decks, John stood at the rail and made a resolution.

He would come back to this happy land. He would put it up to Gertrude that he could do as well here in a financial way as he could back home and it wouldn't matter if he didn't! He would beg her to be married at once that there might be no delay about the return.

If a malicious imp whispered that Gertrude might not see eye to eye with him in the matter, he paid no heed, but little wisps of fancy did float through his brain. Suppose Gertrude refused to marry him with such a condition attached—suppose he made an issue of it—suppose he came back to Hawaii without her—

A heavy storm sent him to bed the second day out, and drove everything from his thoughts but a desire to plant his feet on solid earth once more.

He managed to crawl on deck the day they were due to dock and found a number of passengers eager to catch the first glimpse of Californian shore line. Their enthusiasm infected him. After all, home wasn't such a bad place. Even his smoky, level city.

Before going to Gertrude's, he visited the office where a surprise awaited him. "Armstrong," said his employer, "Cartwright, our general manager, is through. We want you to fill his place."

Apparently it did not occur to him that John would refuse—any more than it did to John.

Shortly afterwards, he was clasping in his arms a tenderly affectionate Gertrude. Mimi—Hawaii—already they were vanishing landmarks on yesterday's horizon.

Penn. Mother Was Right

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, bilious, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children! That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmlessly the bowels of babies and children are cleansed, regulated, given tone and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Pennsylvania mother, Mrs. J. H. Merry, 2 Foster Ave., Philadelphia, says: "Before my daughter, Lucy, was a year old she began having constipation. Sister got me to give her California Fig Syrup and in a few days she was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all her colds or little upset spells. It always stops her trouble quick, strengthens her, makes her eat."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name and see that the carton bears the word "California." Then you'll get the genuine.

TEN HERBS IS A WONDERFUL TONIC

Says Pittsburgh Lady; Promptly Relieved Her Chronic Ailments.

Probably no other medicine on the market today gives such far-reaching results as Ten Herbs, the famous new natural medicine, which has thousands of friends throughout this section. The remarkable success of Ten Herbs—its amazing power often to promptly end stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general weak, rundown condition—lies in its ten wonderful herbal ingredients. No matter how long you have suffered, or how many other medicines you have tried in vain, get a bottle of Ten Herbs today at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this medicine is being introduced. If you have read the local papers during the past year, you must know what astonishing results Ten Herbs has been giving your fellow citizens.

"Ten Herbs surely is a wonderful tonic and health builder," said Mrs. Anna Herman, 2706 Glasgow Street, Pittsburgh. "Even the first bottle made a great change in me. I used to be troubled with severe indigestion. Even the lightest food caused gas to form, and this gave me a terrible bloated feeling. My diet was very limited, for most food caused awful distress. Nothing I tried gave me relief from this condition. I had violent headaches that would last for days at a time. Terrible dizzy spells would cause me to faint. I was so nervous at night I could not sleep. There were pains across my back, and I had to arise several times during the night. I was also troubled with constipation, having to use physics several times a week. I felt tired and worn out most of the time. This condition existed for two years, and although I tried almost everything, I never got satisfactory results.

"I read of so many local people getting good results from Ten Herbs that I started using your medicine. It soon made a big change in me. Now I feel much better in every way and give all the credit to Ten Herbs. I am glad to endorse such a wonderful medicine to the public."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold at all May's Drug Stores.

DON'T LET STOMACH TROUBLE WRECK YOUR LIFE

People Reared In the Country Often Lose Their Health When They Move to Town.

The story told in the following letter from Mrs. Butkuos, of Duquesne, Pa., has happened to hundreds of other country folks on moving to town.

"I was raised to eat good plain country food," writes Mrs. Butkuos. "Back home we grew nearly everything that went on our table, right on our own place. When we moved to town I could not get used to living on things out of cans and packages. City life in this climate did not agree with me. By and by I developed stomach trouble. I was constipated most of the time and had terrible headaches as a result. Sour, burning gases formed in my stomach after eating, and my stomach would swell up and get hard like a rock. I grew weak and could scarcely do my work. When I was at my worst the neighborhood druggist told me about World's Tonic. I had spent a lot of money for ordinary medicines, and none had helped me. So, I was doubtful at first. But after I learned that World's Tonic was made from plants and herbs grown in their natural state in different parts of the world, I decided to give it a trial. After using the first bottle of World's Tonic I realized that it was different from all other medicines I had ever used. From the first dose I felt the benefit of the natural herbs. World's Tonic seemed to give my system exactly those necessary helpful elements which were missing in my body. Constipation left me, and the other painful symptoms disappeared within a short time. I now have a fine appetite, eat anything I want, and feel good all the time."

World's Tonic is on sale at all Dow Stores (formerly McCulloch), and other modern drug stores. (A-69)

Lightning-Change Love

HELEN ROWLAND

"AMONG MY SOUVENIRS" is a popular air, which will retain its popularity for a long time, because it awakens a host of memories in every man's breast.

In these days of rapid-fire love affairs and off-and-on marriages, you are among a man's "souvenirs" almost before you are aware that you are one of his current attractions.

If an attractive woman should ever stop to count the men, among whose souvenirs she is numbered, she would have to take a day off and study higher mathematics.

Love affairs, like women's skirts and companionate marriages, are becoming shorter and shorter. It is always a shock to a sensitive woman, to discover that that glamorous moment which she thought was "just the beginning" was in reality "the beginning of the end."

A man's "Eternal Love" seldom lasts beyond the third meeting, and almost never as far as the honeymoon. It lasts only until a newer or a prettier woman comes along and interrupts him.

The only brand of love in which a man appears to take any vital interest, these days, is brand new love. His heart is like a barber shop in which the cry is always "Next!"

If you can get into any man's imagination, sufficiently to keep him guessing and eager for more than a few weeks, you are a good worker.

A modern man regards any time spent in pursuing a woman or in actually "making love" to her, as just waste of time. Courtship, to him, is just a lot of old-fashioned red tape!

One good wife used to last a man a lifetime; but now he wants to trade her in for a new model almost before the wedding paint is off or her trousseau is worn out.

Never before, in the history of the world, was love such a lightning-change affair or marriage such a game of "now-you've-got-me-and-now-you-haven't." Even Bluebeard loved his wives for a little while, and was off with the old love before he was on with the new.

But, today, you are loved and forgotten so quickly that it positively makes your head swim!

Tonight you are somebody's darling and the only woman in his life—and tomorrow night you are just one of his "souvenirs." Tonight, you are the star of his existence—and tomorrow you are just a part of the ensemble! It is all SO sudden!

And yet—and yet, they call it "LOVE!"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Progress in Baby's Weight and Height.

DR. COPELAND

HOW much should a baby weigh and what should be done about it, if the weight isn't right?

In one form or another this question comes to me every day or two. What is the answer?

When you are told that at a certain age a baby should weigh so and so, you must bear in mind that this is the average weight. The child may weigh less than the average, or more than the average, and still be a normal infant.

Indeed, it is a normal infant if it has an active heart, proper breathing, satisfactory digestion, clear skin, bright eyes and good appetite. The difference of a pound or two or three either way is of small consequence.

As a matter of fact, well-nourished children are likely to develop in about the same way. There is remarkable uniformity in their growth in length and weight.

The average boy at birth weighs 7½ pounds and the average girl a few ounces less. There is quite rapid increase in weight during the first year. At the end of 12 months the average boy will weigh 21 pounds and the girl a half pound less.

These figures show a gain of 14 pounds during the first year. At the end of the second year another six or seven pounds will be added. In short, during the first year the gain is about a pound a month, but about half that during the next year. It is less in the third year.

The height or length, however you want to put it, runs along in a similar way. At birth the baby measures about twenty inches. There is an increase of nine inches the first year, five inches the second year and three or four inches the third year.

Once more, let me remind you, we are talking about averages. There may be quite material deviation from this scale with no reason for alarm. Babies differ as grown-ups do. Look at any group of full-grown men or women and see how they differ in height and weight.

The thing that really counts in the life of an infant, is its degree of nourishment. If it is well in every respect and measures up to those physical standards that we regard as normal, we need not worry about height and weight.

It is a pity that so many babies, even in the homes of the well-to-do, are undernourished. They have low vitality and are ready victims of disease, if it comes along.

It is a sad fact that an infant may start out as a fine specimen of babyhood. Within a few months the child starts to lose weight and may become "thin as a rail."

Almost invariably the weight declines. It may seem to melt away, so rapid is the wasting. Almost always improper feeding is at fault for this state of affairs.

Some infection or exposure to wrong hygienic conditions may be responsible. The digestion is disturbed and intestinal troubles follow.

The only way to bring up a child is by rule. Hit and miss methods won't do at all. Take my advice and talk with your doctor if the child gives evidence of ill-health. The young mother, with her first baby, needs advice and reassurance. Nine times out of ten, everything is all right, but don't worry over it—find out if all is as it should be.

THE WEAVERS

WEAVERS of dreams! Whether it was the little lady who sat at her spinning wheel busily spinning the thread which would eventually make cloth, or the little girl who sits all day at the sewing machine and dreams her own dreams of love and happiness.

And each, happy in her work, sees a vision of her Prince Charming. Weaving dreams about the garment which she is cleverly fashioning and wondering who it will be for and if it will bring to her a realization of her hopes.

Miss Romantic Sewing Girl sees a figure of a wigged and powdered dandy fighting a duel for her hand. And her heart thrills to the romance of those ages when such things did actually happen. And her dreams hide the figure of the boy who is longingly waiting for the day when he has enough saved to ask her the momentous question.

Little Miss Spinning lady saw the same picture and demurely waited for the outcome, and prayed that her own true love would win the duel.

And so it goes. Sometimes these weavers of dreams forget the realities in their dreaming, and then—sorrow and unhappiness! Dream your dreams, only never lose sight of the reality, for in this way is Love thwarted and Romance cheated.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Write a Note

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Would it be perfectly proper for me to write a letter of condolence to my employer—he has just lost a sister—or shall I speak to him?

2. If it is proper to write, will you please tell me how to write a few words of sympathy? I am very poor at writing such letters.

M.

IT is far better to write a letter of condolence rather than mention the death of his sister to your employer. You see, some people find it exceedingly difficult to talk of such losses, especially, I think, men, and so it is kinder to write our sympathy. We have not the right to force people in sorrow to talk of their sorrow.

2. Just a short note is enough to carry the expression of your friendliness and sympathy. Something like this:

Dear Mr. Arrowsmith:

Please let my say how sorry I am, and how deeply I sympathize with you in the passing of your sister, whom you loved so much. I know what this grief means, and how difficult it is to readjust one's life to the loss. Will you let me help in any way that I can? I should be so proud to be of service.

Most sincerely yours,

Cutting In

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When a young lady (A) is dancing with her escort (B) and another young lady should cut in, what should (A) do and say?

2. If a young man should cut in, what should (A) do and say?

3. If salad is served on lettuce leaves should one eat the lettuce, and how should it be cut, with a knife or fork? HAY-SEED.

IF this is a Leap Year party or something of the kind, this might be taken for granted. Otherwise, it would be atrocious form, and I should think that (A) would be too confused to do anything but retreat as gracefully as possible.

2. If (A) is dancing with a man and another man cuts in, the partner surrenders, and either leaves the floor or finds himself another partner.

3. Yes, the lettuce leaves should be eaten. They may be cut with a salad fork, or, as I prefer, with a salad knife and fork, or any kind of small knife and fork.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Harry and Dicky Start for the City

WHEN my husband and Lillian's returned from the telegraph office they brought with them a plausible explanation of the purported telegraph mixup which Harry had advanced in explanation of the telegram he had caused to be sent to himself.

"There hasn't been any answer to the telegram concerning government business which I sent this morning," Harry Underwood told Lillian and me, while Dicky stood by, evidently ready to impersonate a Greek chorus at any moment he should be needed. "So of course they figured that wire from Schwartzman was the answer I had told them to deliver before 1 or after 4, when I was sure to be at home. It was in a private code," he broke off apologetically to Lillian, "and I didn't want you puzzled and bothered with it."

"Thank you, that was very thoughtful of you," Lillian returned, and her husband shot a quick, furtive glance at her. "But what shall I do if it comes after you're gone?"

"It won't," Mr. Underwood returned promptly, and I saw in Dicky's eyes the mirthful reflection of my own conviction that the code answer indeed never would be delivered because it only existed in Harry Underwood's fertile imagination.

"The man I sent it to in Washington isn't there." Harry went on, "won't be back until tomorrow. So I left instructions for the answer to be delivered at the hotel."

"I'm glad you straightened it out," Lillian commented with just the right casualness of tone. "But tell me what you want to take with you to the city."

"You can give me that same information," I told Dicky, and the perilous topic of the missing telegram was soon smothered under sartorial details.

But at the first opportunity Harry Underwood put an anxious question to me. Dicky was with him, but no one else could hear him.

"Of course you know that telegram business was faked so I could get away without Lil's getting on to the real reason of my going," he began, "but—Lil's so devilish keen—do you think she suspects anything?"

I was thankful for the form of his question, for I could answer it without straining my conscience too far.

"No, I am sure she suspects nothing," I answered promptly, trying not to give the verb the stress in my utterance that I did in my thoughts.

"I'm glad of that," he said with a deep breath of relief. But when he had left us, my husband eyed me with a tantalizing grin.

"No, Missus Machiavelli," he said. "I, too, am sure old Lil suspects nothing because she knows everything. Never did I think I'd see the day when old Harry could have the fleece pulled over his eyes like that. But he's so anxious about Lil's health, he's got blinders on when he tries to see anything else. I'll be glad to get him away. He's getting altogether too domestic."

I repressed the impulse to tell him that he never would be accused of that particular fault. But the contrast between Harry Underwood's deep concern for his wife's happiness and the casualness of Dicky's attitude toward me, stayed with me tormentingly after they had departed for the city.

I was glad that I had no leisure for introspection, and indeed with the arrival of the sewing woman who was to finish Marion's school outfit, and with getting the house ready for the expected Brixton visit, my time and thoughts were fully occupied.

For it was but two days after the departure of Harry and Dicky that Jerry Ticer brought me a telegram for Lillian which I was sure was the one she expected—and dreaded—from Samuel Brixton.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, March 27

THIS day is favored by a strong combination of stellar forces for constructive effort in all avenues of human endeavor. The high stimulus to initiative and enterprise should be exercised in labor, industry, employment and in new undertakings of no mediocre importance. With well directed effort and with some precaution as to writings and contracts, all should prosper and be financially satisfactory.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of constructive effort and large initiative in important lines. Industry, labor, employment, finance, in fact old as well as new ventures should flourish. But be cautious in signing all papers and writings.

A child born on this day may be clever, aggressive, enterprising and successful in almost anything it may engage in. It may be resourceful, courageous and capable of large things as well as hard work.

Corns, Callouses Off in 3 Minutes

Painless, Easy, No Irritation

Three minutes ends the toughest, most painful corn or callous when you use Shur-Off. This amazing new remedy stops all pain the instant it is applied; positively will not irritate or affect healthy skin, but so quickly softens the corn or callous that in a few minutes you can easily take it out—root and all. Why use old-time preparations which so often irritate and require several days' treatment? Get Shur-Off of May Drug Co., or of any other good druggist, follow the simple directions and enjoy real foot comfort at once.

INSTEAD of exercise

Most headachy, bilious, constipated people are paying the penalty for lack of exercise! Avoid this! Learn the simple secret millions already know—the little exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Cascarets are keeping millions fit and sound. They give the bowels as much exercise as they get from an hour of hard play. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives do not act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action. You have to keep dosing with them. They actually weaken your bowels.

Each time you use Cascarets your bowels become stronger. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That's why Cascarets are being used at the rate of 20 million boxes a year, and people everywhere depend on them for lasting relief from headaches, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc.

CLEGHORN SLATED TO GO ANYHOW

FROM present indications, the major league baseball clubs will not present nearly so many changes in their lineups when the season opens three weeks from today, as far as the shifting of old regulars from one position to another is concerned, as appeared probable only a short while back. When the training period got under way, it looked as if all records would be broken for the number of athletes appearing on new infield jobs, but after three weeks of experimenting the managers appear to have arrived at the conclusion that a great number of the proposed shifts are not going to work out as well on the playing field as they gave promise of doing on paper, and accordingly they are sending a large percentage of the shifted pastimers back to their original posts.

Harry Heilmann

About the first sign of a change in plans developed in the case of Pie Traynor, moved from third base to shortstop in the Pirate scheme of defense. Signs cropped out last week that Manager Donie Bush was thinking of sending Tryanor back to third base, and the majority of Buccaneer followers expect to find Pie guarding the third sack, as of yore, when the curtain rises on another pennant scramble.

BUT the prospective sending of Traynor back to his old position is only one of a series of such shifts that major league pilots have made or are contemplating. Harry Heilmann was slated to play first base for Detroit, but Dale Alexander, Toronto recruit, is showing so much evidence of being a real hitter, just as he did in the minors, that Manager Harris may keep the youngster on the initial sack and send Heilmann back to the outfield.

Down in the Cardinal camp, too, early plans are likely to be changed. Even before Carey Selph was injured Sunday in a collision with Sammy Hale, of the Athletics, there were signs that the Redbird management had just about decided to put Frankie Frisch back on second base and start the season with Fred Haney at third. First, Johnny Hodapp's holdout and then his injury blocked the plan to shift him to first base for the Indians, and John McGraw declares that he has not yet finally decided to replace Andy Cohen at second base for the Giants with Andy Reese. The shifting of Mark Koenig to third for the Yanks is the only notable change that still stands.

THERE are at least two or three things easier for a veteran player than to give up baseball when the spring begins to send the old baseball blood coursing their veins. Tommy Leach gave evidence of this recently, and now we have a new exhibit in the case of Bill Doak, who has signed to pitch for the Cardinals after announcing his retirement when Brooklyn gave him his unconditional release.

Bill Doak

Doak, a native of Pittsburgh, is no longer a spring chicken, as he passed the 38-year mark in January, but many of his friends in this district believe he still has some good pitching left in his venerable arm.

THIS is Doak's second engagement with the Cards, as he hurled for that team from July 19, 1913, following the disbandment of the Central League in which he had pitched for Akron, until June 14, 1924, when he was traded to Brooklyn for Pitcher Lou Dickerman. Bill remained out of baseball during 1925 and 1926 to try his luck in Florida real estate, but he returned to the Robins in 1927 and worked for them again last year. With Doak back, the National League this season will continue to have three members of the fading tribe of spitball pitchers, two of them being on one club. The others are Burleigh Grimes, of the Pirates, and Clarence Mitchell, of the Cardinals.

THE crowning of Jackie Fields, of California, as world welterweight champion by the National Boxing Association, following his victory last night over Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, did not come as a surprise. Thompson's two-round knockout over Joe Dundee, deposed champion, made him at that time an outstanding contender for the championship.

The majority of boxing fans, however, will not concur with the National Boxing Association and Promoter Mullens in recognizing Fields as the world welterweight titlist. They will insist upon Jackie winning his honors in the ring against the recognized champion, and hardly will be satisfied with a king "appointed" to his throne.

REFERENCE above to the upsetting of Manager Rogers Peckinpaugh's plan to use Johnny Hodapp at first base for the Cleveland club this season brings to mind the fact that Louis Fonseca is now playing that position and playing it well. Fans are wondering whether Fonseca's old jinx will stay off him long enough to enable him to get going properly in the position.

Fonseca is truthfully termed by Joe Vila one of the most unfortunate players in the major leagues. It is difficult to recall any player approaching him in that respect since Walton Cruise drifted to the minors. An injury while he was with the Reds induced Pat Moran to let the Phillies have him in 1925.

NEW misfortunes kept him from getting into his proper stride there and he was dropped to Newark. His good showing there in 1926 led Cleveland to buy him for 1927, and last year he was the victim of another series of mishaps, the climax coming when he suffered a broken leg.

Burt Shotton

This year he was to have been carried only as a pinch-hitter and for emergency duty, but he is doing so well as a substitute first baseman that he may be kept there if he is lucky enough to escape injury. He played 56 games at the bag last year without making an error, and hit .327 into the bargain.

WHEN it comes to a discussion of improved big league ball teams this spring, don't overlook those Phillies. In seven of the last 10 seasons the Phils have finished last in the National League pennant race, and even in the years in which they did not wind up at the bottom—1922, 1924 and 1925—they landed no higher than seventh place. But this season they look to have a splendid chance of getting out of the cellar. There are just two doubtful points. One is whether the pitching staff will show up strongly enough to carry the improved team along, and the other is whether President William F. Baker can refrain from selling the best players on the club before the season is concluded.

THE Phils have not been cracking any records in the winning of exhibition games this spring, but it is clear that the club is much stronger, nevertheless. Don Hurst at first base, Fresco Thompson at second, Tommy Thevenow at shortstop and Pinkey Whitney at third, give the Quakers the best infield they have had in a long time and one that is by no means the poorest in the big leagues.

On top of that they have a strengthened outfield, with Lefty O'Doul, Chuck Klein and Denny Southern in the regular positions and

ROY MAHAFFEY SPARKLES IN BUC DEFEAT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHOENIX, March 26.—This up and coming town of Arizona is entertaining two big league ball teams today and the enterprising natives are all excited.

Remy Kramer.

Phoenix, besides many other accomplishments, is proud to be the home of George Grantham, many of whose friends will be out shouting for the Pirates this afternoon when the National Leaguers take on the Tigers of the American League in the first of six inter-league fights to be staged in the next three weeks.

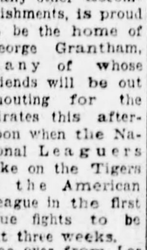
The Buccos came over from Los Angeles during the night. In Santa Ana yesterday afternoon, the Bushwhackers were forced to bow before the skill of the Portland Beavers. And to add flavor to the Beavers' victory, they enjoyed the spectacle of Roy Mahaffey's pitching. The quiet Southern boy, sent to Portland in the French deal, reeled off nine pretty innings while his team scored a 4-to-3 success.

BEAVERS GLOOMY

The Portland boys tried to forget their sorrow over the passing of Outfielder Denny Williams as they sported themselves on the diamond, but their camp was very gloomy. All the other players in the accident with Williams are about ready to play again, but they are still suffering from the severe shock of it all.

Dick Bartell was the biggest Pirate figure in the close game between the Buccos and their Pacific Coast League opponents. Little Richard drove out a homer over the centerfield fence to score two of the Pittsburgh tallies. But aside from this little lapse, Mahaffey exercised a fine mastery over his former buddies.

Lee Meadows worked four innings against the Beavers, it being Lee's longest sojourn on the slab since the training work started. He was touched up quite lively by the Western lads, yet it cannot be said that his appearance on the mound was a bust.



Ervin Brame.

When these minor leaguers begin to swat the ball, they are apt to make any pitcher look ordinary. Lee seemed to be in possession of his pitching faculties as he went to the club house. Ervin Brame finished the game in good order.

Manager Bush announced this morning that Remy Kremer and Burleigh Grimes would face the Jungaleers this afternoon. Pilot Donie will be out to trim his old-time team as often as possible in the training games, so that there should be plenty of excitement in these battles.

HARRIS IS BUILDER

The Tigers have not made a good impression in their invasion of the West. They were toppled five times by the colorful Cubs, but Bucky Harris is doing some experimenting and the behavior of his team at this early date should not be taken as an indication of his club's merit.

Harris is known as a builder and you need not be surprised if he works out a smooth combination in his first year at Detroit.

Barney Dreyfuss is with his club. The team owner did not go to Santa Ana yesterday, he being ill, but he was able to start homeward with his athletes.

Dreyfuss Denies New Training Plans

PHOENIX, March 26.—"No propositions have been submitted to us, and I hardly think the plan has been formulated," said Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, today, when interviewed on the report that the Pirates were to join with three other major league teams on a pretentious spring training schedule in Southern California next year.

The three clubs referred to are the Cubs, and the Yankees and Tigers of the American League. The report in Los Angeles had it that the Buccos and Tigers would train at Long Beach with the Yanks at Los Angeles and the Cubs staying at Catalina Island. An extensive exhibition card was to be arranged according to the rumor.

Dreyfuss further added that the Yankee owners already had signed up to remain at St. Petersburg, Fla., next year.

Meet Jackie Fields, New Welter Champion

FINE BOXER

Here is Jackie Fields, Jewish ring star, of California, who was crowned welterweight champion of the world by the National Boxing Association as a result of his victory over Young Jack Thompson, also of California, in Chicago last night. Fields is noted for his speed, boxing skill and punch.

GOOD HITTER

Fields has knocked out some good opponents in his rise to the top in the ring. He is a former amateur star and boxed in the Olympic games in 1924. His real name is Jacob Finkelstein, and he was born in Chicago. In beating Thompson he won over a man who holds a two-round knockout victory over Dundee.

RING GENERAL

The boosters of Jackie Fields, and they are many, compare him with such masters of ringcraft as Benny Leonard, which is high praise, indeed. He succeeds Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, as champion in the 27 states dominated by the National Boxing Association.

FORMER BUCS STAR FOR PORTLAND

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHOENIX, March 26.—One of the first of the Portland players to greet the Pirates was Mack Hillis, a buddie of last year, who was reported quite seriously hurt in the fatal auto accident of Saturday. Mack, fortunately, was the victim only of minor cuts and bruises. Two stitches were required to sew a wound in Hillis' head, but this was the most serious part of his experiences, aside from the shock felt by the death of Denny Williams.

"See how the others are—I'll be all right." Williams told his diamond pals just before he died. He expired on the way to the hospital.

WEAR MOURNING BANDS

The Portland players appeared on the field with mourning bands on their arm out of respect to the departed player. It was felt by the Pirates that the contest would be called off on account of the accident, but it seems the local officials wanted the game staged.

Portland players are due to open the season today in San Francisco with the Seals as opponents. Owing to the accident, they will have to start the race under a severe handicap.

Among the former Pirates on the Portland roster are Joe Bush and Roy Mahaffey. Bullet Joe is now an outfielder. The big fellow has plenty of power at the plate and he is exceptionally fast.

Spunky Dick Bartell is making a determined fight for a regular berth in the infield. His hitting, fielding and spirit of hustle may win him the desired job. Dick is driving the ball harder and farther than a year ago and, of course, the added experience should make him a better ballplayer.

UMPS SPECTATORS

Among the spectators at the contest yesterday were Henry (Hank) O'Day and John (Beans) Reardon, two members of the National League umpire staff. The picturesque Hank is in fine shape again after an illness.

"I feel great and am all ready to work any time President Haydler wants me," quoth O'Day. Hank, however, may not be asked to officiate unless an emergency arises.

KUSIC-LINGO ROUND OUT RING CARD

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The Motor Square Boxing Club yesterday, through its matchmaker, Jules Beck, completed its card for its reopening show next Monday night after many weeks of inactivity. The last bout to be closed was the eight-round semi-final, in which Terry Lingo, of Columbus, who recently evened up a defeat by Ray Newton, will meet Johnny Kusic, clever lightweight, of Youngstown, who boxes Fritz Anderson a windup in his home town tonight. Kusic will be making his second appearance here. He was a handy winner in his other start at the Garden.

Andy Martin, of Boston, and Midget Mike O'Dowd will battle in the 10-round main event Monday night. This is a bout for which the fans have been waiting ever since the Garden closed down shortly after the first of the year, following victories by O'Dowd over Jackie Rodgers and Martin over Johnny Datto which installed both as favorites.

In the six-rounder, Buck McTiernan will box Mickey Selmen, and, in two four-round bouts, Bob Krape

Traynor Returns To Third Base Post Today

PHOENX, March 26.—Manager Bush, of the Pirates announced this morning that Capt. Pie Traynor would be back at his third base post in part of today's game with the Tigers. Traynor has been out of action for a week with an ailing hip. It would not be surprising to the Buccos in general, if Bush sent Harold Joseph back to his old post permanently.

Sparky Adams is suffering with a sore leg and may rest during a part of today's game. His present understudy is Coburn Jones, a peppery Bittle Welshman.

A. M. A. TOURNEY IS EXTENDED

Because of the large field entered, it will be impossible for the officials in charge to complete the A. M. A. senior championship boxing tournament at Motor Square Garden tonight, as planned, and the event will run over into tomorrow night.

Preliminaries were fought last night in the featherweight, welterweight and middleweight classes. The other classes will be reduced tonight, when more than 20 bouts will be fought, and the semi-finals and finals will be reserved for tomorrow night, when there will be no reserved seats, a flat general admission price being charged.

One genuine knockout and four technical knockouts featured last night's battling. The summary:

126-pound class—Paul Balint, North Side A. C., won by technical knockout over Henry Hickman, colored, Superior A. C., in the second round; Sylvester Pastorenus, Pittsburgh Lyceum, won from Louis Trenese, Willow Club; John Shepiar, Hogan A. C., won from Raphael Marrelli, colored, Community, four rounds; Harold Taylor, Willow Club, won from James Kempper, colored, Superior A. C.; Joe Rokosa, Spartan Club, won from Frank Flack, Willow Club; Louis Santucci, Willow Club, won by technical knockout over Abie Cantora, Monaca, in first round; Lawrence Marsey, Willow Club, won from Rudolph Sanders, unattached.

147-pound class—Dick Pritchard, Pittsburgh Lyceum, won from Frank Kirasnic, Duquesne; Thad Yaroza, Monaca, won from John Lorenz, Steubenville Y; Joe Scalora, Willow Club, won by technical knockout over Joe Urin, Homestead Library, in the second round; Joe Brenz, colored, Superior A. C., knocked out William Zurich, Willow Club, in the third round; Ray Windbush, colored, Superior A. C., won from Chris Culy, Willow Club; Billy Gerlach, North Side A. C., won from Amson Greer, Duke O'Hara Club; Eddie T. Yaroz, Monaca, won from Dick Orchard, Willow Club; Milo Puporic, Duke O'Hara Club, won from Eric Sirke, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

160-pound class—Mike Chomaz, Willow Club, won by technical knockout over Karl Kascuit, Swissvale, in the second round; Bob McDowell, Willow Club, won from William Thomas, unattached; Joe Furgese, Pittsburgh Lyceum, won from Amos Dethard, colored, Superior A. C.; Albert Becker, Jarvis Club, won from John Ratchford, Pittsburgh Lyceum; Billy Wilso, Duke O'Hara Club, won from Harry Turner, colored, Superior A. C.

COAST LEAGUE OPENS TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—(AP.)—San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento and Oakland, get their first taste of 1929 Pacific Coast League baseball today when the eight clubs in the loop open the new season.

The Portland Beavers, badly disorganized as the result of an automobile accident last week, that resulted in the death of Denny Williams, outfielder, and the injuring of George Wuestling and Mack Hillis, infielders, start against the San Francisco Seals, 1928 champions, on the latters' lot.

The rebuilt Missions face the weakened Oakland club at Oakland. The strength of the Oaks was lessened considerably when Lyn Lary, shortstop, one of the important cogs in last year's outfit, was sold to the New York Yankees.

In Los Angeles, the Angels, much stronger than last year, are host to the Seattle Indians, and Hollywood goes to Sacramento to meet the Senators.

MEEKER, RED HURLER, DIES

ORLANDO, Fla., March 26.—(AP.)—Roy Meeker, 31, left handed pitcher of the Cincinnati National League Club, died suddenly in his hotel room here yesterday from a heart attack.

Meeker, whose home was at Kansas City, Kan., came to the Reds in 1927 from the Portland, (Oregon) club, but was farmed out to Columbus, an American Association club last year. Meeker worked in the morning at the camp returning to his room about noon. He died shortly afterward. Associates said he had complained of not feeling well in the morning.

The body will be sent to Kansas City, Kan., for burial.

BOUT HALTED IN EIGHTH BY RIOT

CHICAGO, March 26.—(AP.)—Jackie Fields, sheik-appearing Jewish fighter of Chicago, left-hooked his way to recognition as world welterweight champion by the N. B. A. last night. He decisively defeated the sinewy Negro from San Francisco, Young Jack Thompson, called the closest approach to Joe Gans, in a thrilling 10-round battle that came near ending in a panic among the spectators, in the eighth round.

As Fields and the Negro stood toe to toe throwing punches at each other in the eighth, a thunderous rumbling sound, growing in volume each second, suddenly started from the south end of the Coliseum. In a twinkling the crowd of 10,000 was in a riotous uproar, with hundreds dashing out of the exits and others storming toward the ring. A hundred or more, panic-stricken spectators climbed or crawled over the ringsiders and swarmed between ropes, filling the ring.

POLICE RESTORE ORDER

The battle had to be stopped until police and firemen restored order. Twelve to 15 persons were injured in the crush. Two were reported to have suffered broken legs. Newspaper correspondents at the ringside trying to report the battle lost their typewriters in the jam and telegraph wires were broken. After the police and cooler heads restored order, the battle was resumed with the boxers finishing the eighth round. In the excitement of the situation, however, nobody knew whether Fields was fighting the eighth or ninth.

A fight between a Negro and a white spectator in which a gun was drawn, was said to have started the stampede in the south end of the Coliseum. The spectators in the immediate vicinity of belligerents fled in disorder, to give the combatants room. This started an upsurge and the cry swept through the building that animals belonging to a circus quartered in an annex had broken out of their cages.

The crowd was brought under control remarkably quickly, how-

RILEY LOOKS TO TRI-STATE RECORD

By JESS CARVER

Freddie Riley, West Virginia University's fine miler, is slowly and surely cutting nearer and nearer to the tri-state record for the mile, and benefited by the out of door running he will do from now on, looms as an even bet to eventually accomplish this feat.

Fred Riley

Riley ran the mile in 4:38 against Pitt in the dual meet between the Panthers and Mountaineers at Morgantown three weeks ago. Last Saturday he sped across the line ahead of a fast field in 4:33, five seconds faster, leading Beetham, of Ohio State, and Hickey, New York University star and I. C. A. A. A. A. champion, by a stride.

The indoor season being over, Riley will desert the boards for the cinders and aim at Elser Hays' eight-year-old mark of 4:25. It is much easier to run out in the open than indoors, at least, better marks are made. I'd say Hays' record is in considerable danger.

A NEW IDEA?

In the lineup of the Cambridge crew which defeated Oxford in the annual classic on the dear old Thames (pronounced as though it was spelled correctly), the individual athletes were listed in this fashion:

No. 5—Mr. J. J. Heigh—Spluttermuch (Eton and Magdalena).

Wouldn't this be a swell idea for Yankee football lineups? Imagine reading something like this:

Left Tackle—Mr. Mike Gutz (Norwin High, Bellefonte Academy, Strip A. A.)

Of course, in the case of some athletes, who have seen a bit of the country, it would take up too much room. I knew of one chap in this district who's alma maters would take up no less than five lines.

ENGLISH MARKS FAIR

Speaking of the English, the boys turned in some fair times and distances in the annual dual meet between Oxford and Cambridge. Of course, one of the events was won by an American athlete, Gates, now studying brewing or some such industry at Oxford. He won the shot put.

Some of the outstanding marks included Gutteridge's (Cambridge) 1:57 1-5 in the half mile; Sartan's (Cambridge) 22 feet 8 inches in the broad jump; Green's (Cambridge) 4:22 4-5 in the mile and Mann's (Cambridge) 15 9-10 in the 120-yard high hurdles.

A. season will open soon and Bull will be gone.

Benny Bass Wins Over Forbes in 10 Rounds

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—(AP.)—Benny Bass, featherweight champion of Pennsylvania, slugged his way to a 10-round victory over Harry Forbes, of St. Louis, at the Arena last night. Bass weighed 128 pounds and Forbes 126.

They started off at a rapid rate and continued the pace through most of the 10 rounds. Neither showed any marks of battle at the finish, although each caught many stiff punches when they stood toe-to-toe and slugged away.

Twice Bass dropped his opponent momentarily, once in the fifth and again in the seventh, with wild swings, but Forbes was up without a count and apparently unhurt.

Buffalo Baseball Club in Crash

PALMETTO, Fla., March 26.—(AP.)—Five members of the Buffalo baseball team, training here, were injured early yesterday morning in a bus and truck collision on the Arcadia-Bradenton road five miles from Palmetto.

Frank J. Offerman, president of the club, was thrown through the windshield into the water and cut and bruised.

Bill Kelly, first baseman; Art Mills, pitcher, and Buck Elliott, second baseman, riding on top of the bus, were hurled 30 feet and bruised. Al Moore, outfielder, also was injured. Jimmy Hipch, club trainer, administered first aid.

SWIM MARK BROKEN

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 26.—(INS.)—George Kojac, Rutgers' Olympic swimming star, today holds a new world record of 44 4-5 seconds for the 75-yard back stroke event. He cut one second off his own world record in a race against time here last night.

PADDOCK SEEKS AMATEUR-PRO MIXED MEETS

NEW YORK, March 26.—(INS.)—Charley Paddock, once known as the "world's fastest human," has advanced some novel remedies to cure the ills of the track world. The Los Angeles star, who holds most of the world sprint records, thinks that adoption of his proposals would do away with charges of professionalism being made against amateurs, as has happened frequently during the past winter.

Paddock would have "open" track meets, in which both professionals and amateurs could compete. The pros would receive cash prizes and the amateurs would get medals. Only "Mediocre" athletes would be permitted to engage in these events. The professionals would make their terms with the promoters.

The star amateurs would compete in three or four championship meets a year, under Paddock's plan. Only those who have equaled or broken world records or participated in the Olympics, or have won national or intercollegiate championships would be eligible.

Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, to whom Paddock made the proposal, declared the plans were "untenable." He said the star athletes would want to compete in more than three or four meets a year. It was pointed out that under international law, those "mediocre" athletes who compete against professionals would not be eligible for the Olympic team should they become stars later. Numerous other objections to the plan were raised.

Ferris said, however, that Paddock's plans would be presented to Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., in Chicago next week. If Brundage and the executive committee of the A. A. U. favor the scheme, it may be presented at the national convention in St. Louis next November.

Duquesne Light Takes League Title

Duquesne Light defeated Philadelphia Company, 45 to 40, to capture its second Philadelphia Company League title in a row, last night. The contest went two extra periods before the game was won. The winning goal was tossed in the basket as the final whistle of the second extra period sounded. The lineup:

DUQ. LIGHT—45.		PHILA. CO.—40.
Frable	F.	Woods
Ritzel	F.	Hughes
Robertson	C.	Fallgren
Hartman	G.	Staiger
Babic	G.	McCambridge

Field goals—Frable 3, Ritzel 7, Robertson 3, Fisher 2, Hartman 2, Babic, Woods 7, Hughes 7, Fallgren, McCambridge. Foul goals—Duquesne Light 11 out of 20, Philadelphia Company 8 out of 17. Substitutions—Fisher, Hursen. Time of halves—20 minutes. Referee—Leo Carroll.

STATE GOLF DATES, SITES ARE SET

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The Pennsylvania major championships in golf this year will be played on two different courses. The Whitemarsh Country Club has been selected by the Pennsylvania State Golf Association, according to Spencer Jones, secretary treasurer, for the open title play to be held July 2 and 3, whereas the amateur tournament will be staged at Merion July 8, 9 and 10.

Both courses are, of course, near Philadelphia, Western Pennsylvania having had its play at Oakmont last year.

The playing of the tournaments on different courses is rather unusual, for, as a rule, they go hand in hand and are contested over the same layout.

GUNN TO RESIDE HERE

Watts Gunn, of Atlanta, golf protege of Bobby Jones, who bowed to the amateur king in the final of the National Amateur tournament at Oakmont four years ago, is to reside in Pittsburgh this summer and will be a contestant in West Penn amateur and open fixtures.

Gunn is to arrive in the immediate future to go into the local office of the Guarantee Trust Company. The golf club to which Watts will apply for membership is not known, but he is well acquainted with the Oakmont layout, and it is believed the Oakmont will get first call.

Gunn is one of the best amateurs in United States golf, and he will rule a favorite in the West Penn competitions.

COLLEGE DATES SET

The Intercollegiate Golf Association has announced the scene for its annual championship as the Hollywood Country Club at Deal, N. J. It will be played June 26 to 29.

J. B. Crookston, star Stanton Heights player, holds the state amateur title, and may defend it this year, but it is doubtful whether Tommy Armour, now of Detroit, will be on hand to defend his open crown.

GOLF DATES CONFLICT

NEW YORK, March 26.—(INS.)—Although the United States Golf Association announced yesterday that the intercollegiate championship would be held at the Hollywood Golf Club, Deal, N. J., from June 26 to 29 this year, it was expected today that the date would be changed to avoid conflict with the National Open at Winged Foot from June 27 to 29. Such collegiate stars as Maurice McCarthy, Jr., the champion, Phil Finlay, Gene Homans and Al Brodbeck would like to compete in both events.

Fight Results

At Chicago—Jackie Fields defeated Young Jack Thompson, 10 rounds; Al Greenfield defeated Louie Avery, 5 rounds; Haakon Hanson and Mike Sauer, drew, 5 rounds; Harry Schuman and Jack Kearns, drew, 4 rounds; Johnny Sherrod defeated King Levinsky, 5 rounds; Jimmy Mollett defeated Andy Sollitle, 5 rounds; Spug Myers defeated Danny Delmont, 5 rounds.

At Erie, Pa.—Tug Phillips defeated Eddie Reed, 10 rounds; Ray Collins defeated Matty Oldach, 6 rounds; Bobby Clary defeated Leo Mozdy, 6 rounds; Carl Scalise knocked out (technical) Salvi Dolch, 2 rounds.

At Washington, Pa.—Lee Sala defeated Leo Kyburski, 8 rounds; Mickey Selmen defeated Allen Beatty, 8 rounds; Ken Hargraves defeated Johnny Smackey, 6 rounds; Nate Litfin defeated Scotty Graham, 4 rounds; Andy Radd knocked out (technical) Gunboat Smith, 4 rounds.

At New Castle, Pa.—Midget Wolgast defeated Frisco Grande, 10 rounds; George Rohanna knocked out (technical) George Kerston, 2 rounds; Romeo Pacelli and Young Kaiser drew, 6 rounds; Bobby Burns defeated Tom O'Leary, 4 rounds; Mickey Donato defeated Young Stemple, 4 rounds.

At New York—Bruce Flowers defeated Joey Kaufman, 10 rounds; Floyd Hybert knocked out (technical) Joey Brady, 5 rounds; Dan Billick defeated Ernie Rosini, 6 rounds.

At Buffalo — Stanislaus Loyaza knocked out (technical) Pete Petrolle, 5 rounds.

At Wheeling, W. Va.—Tom Crawley defeated Jack Dugan, 10 rounds; Jackie Herman defeated Young Chapple, 6 rounds; Petey Roberts defeated Sammy Paris, 4 rounds; Charley Baxter knocked out Frank Bernas, 1 round.

At Memphis, Tenn.—Buster Mallini defeated Mickey Fedor, 8 rounds.

At Kansas City—Babe Hunt defeated Tiny Roebuck, 10 rounds.

At Little Rock, Ark.—Red Herring and Jimmy Evans drew, 10 rounds.

At Rochester, N. Y.—Johnny Dunn defeated Mike Marcella, 6 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Benny Bass defeated Harry Forbes, 10 rounds; Baby Joe Gans defeated Young Ketchell, 10 rounds; Vincent Forgione knocked out (technical) Babe McGorgary, 6 rounds.

FIELDS BEATS THOMPSON

ever, almost as soon as the stampede started.

GETS DIAMOND BELT

Fields, proclaimed welterweight champion of the National Boxing Association, was presented with Promoter Jim Jullens $5,000 diamond-studded belt, emblematic of the title. The presentation was made by Paul Prehp, president of the N. B. A. and chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

Thompson, although always willing and piling in to whip over the right cross that gave him a two-round knockout victory over Joe Dundee, the dethroned titleholder, here last summer, was unable to overcome the early advantage that Fields' smashing left hooks inflicted. Fields who went West to gain pugilistic recognition, took the offensive from the start and had Thompson on the verge of a knockout in the first two rounds.

Fields won because he was a better boxer, the aggressor, and the better all-round fighter. He was the complete master of the situation except perhaps in the seventh round when Thompson carried the fight to him and won the honors.

DECISION UNANIMOUS

The decision of the two judges and Referee Ed Purdy was unanimous.

The Chicago boy took the offensive from the start, brushing aside the body punches Thompson threw into his mid-section, and lashing out with both fists in a furious attack. He had Thompsons knees buckling and back pedalling, on the verge of a knockout as early as the first two rounds.

Fields was trying for a knockout until the last, leaving no room for doubt as to his superiority over the San Francisco Negro. They both came in under the welterweight limit of 147 pounds. When they scaled in the afternoon Thompson weighed 145 pounds with Fields scaling 145½.

Dempsey - Fugazy Get "Cut" of Schmeling

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—The new team of Jack Dempsey and Humbert J. Fugazy, dedicated to fistic promotion, added itself to the list of those who hold one claim or another on the services of Max Schemeling, German heavyweight, now visiting in his homeland.

The new combination signed a contract with Arthur Buelow, German manager, who brought Max to America only to have the fighter refuse to continue under his direction. Dempsey and Fugazy have hired Schmeling's services for a match with any opponent, anywhere outdoors, sometime in June.

Reds Release Six Rookie Players

CINCINNATI, March 26.—(AP.)—Six youngsters practicing at the Cincinnati Reds Orlando (Fla.) training camp have been told by Manager Jack Hendricks that they would not be retained this year.

Harlan Pyle and Joe Smith, pitchers, and Vic Shield, first baseman, will be placed with the Peoria (Ill.) Three-Eye League club this season. Peoria is one of Cincinnati's baseball farms.

Luke Johnson, former Northwestern shortstop and football star, was given an unconditional release. Jack Hill, University of California outfielder, will be sent to the minors, probably Peoria. Ray Harrington, University of Illinois twirler, will be farmed out.

CARRICK SWIM STAR SETS NEW MARK

Klein of Carrick High plunged 68 feet yesterday to establish a new league record and win the crown for that event in the annual high school swimming championship meet in progress at the Fifth Avenue High pool.

The final events of the meet are on tap for this afternoon. Events run off yesterday included the junior and senior high diving events. Yesterday's summary:

Junior high plunge—Won by McAbee, Gladstone, distance, 56 feet 6 inches; Rhodes, Carrick, second; Ranitis, Langley, third; Fulton, Ralston, fourth.

Junior high diving—Won by Beacon, Schenley; Capozolli, Westinghouse, second; Faust, Oliver, third; Meldon, Perry, fourth.

Senior high plunge—Won by Klein, Carrick, distance, 68 feet; Jarvis, Perry, and Knash, Langley, tied for second, 65 feet; Nebo, Schenley, third.

Senior high diving—Won by Carik, South; Weise, Oliver, second; Schmeller, Carrick, third; Jesienoski, Langley, fourth.

NURMI TO RUN MAY 4

ALL-STARS ON TOP

Boots Klinzing's All-Star quintet defeated Duquesne Lafayettes, County League titleholders, 41-39, last night. It was a benefit contest for West Prieffer, injured Lafayette player. The lineup:

ALL-STARS—41.		LAFAYETTE—39.
C. Klinzing	F.	Minnick
Siegel	F.	Dreier
Jober	C.	Gubby

MASTERS

SMOKE TALKS

by the DUTCH MASTERS

You have heard the old saying that no man can eat quail on toast every day for thirty days? Well, you can smoke Dutch Masters three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. And that's a real test of a cigar's "smokeability."

A toast to a man well deserving of fame—
I know not his birthday or even his name—
But join me, all smokers, wherever you are—
Here's health to the chap who first made a cigar!

We often wonder whether it really is the best of good form for one gentleman to hold a light to the other's cigar. Personally, we hate to hurry over that first, fragrant, soul-satisfying puff. We'd much rather be handed the match box and be allowed to light our own.

Before dictating that letter to Jones giving him a piece of your mind, smoke a good Dutch Masters over it. Then, if you still feel the same way about it, go ahead. You were probably right about the matter and not just plain grouchy.

WENNER ELECTED

CAMBRIDGE, March 26.—(AP.)—Howard Wenner, of Catasauqua, Pa., has been elected captain of next year's Harvard varsity basketball team. He led the Crimson freshmen quintet two years ago and earned his letter in last year's Yale game. He played in every game at left forward.

SANDLOT CLUBS ORGANIZE AS SEASON NEARS

By TOM BIRKS

The result of many meetings held by the leading sandlot teams Sunday afternoon seems to indicate that none of last year's contestants is going to be weakened when the umpire calls "play ball" around the first week in May.

The wonderful weather during the past few days has certainly filled all of the back lots, alleys and playing fields with aspirants to pitching and batting honors in the district.

The J. L. Thomas club had a meeting, and Manager Al Zappa reports all of last season's players will be back with the club. A smoker is being arranged and the proceeds should give the club a good start. Eddie Ritter, the peppery catcher, lost quite a little weight during the football season, and again expects to get the call behind the bat.

Coach Richardson and Manager John Dunsky held a meeting for the Pleasant Valley Club Sunday afternoon. With Kenny leaving the club, it is expected Pat O'Shea will be playing third base for the Smilers this season. And there is a chance Bobby Beitel, the former Beaver Triangles' star pitcher, will be wearing the Smilers' livery this year.

W. O. W., last year's Class A elimination champions, also got away to a good start with a real meeting. Jedinak feels the Rox outfit is due to repeat with Gus Otey and all the boys still on the job. Pop Geers had a meeting at his home with nine of last season's players attending. There was a chance that an outside club would help run the Stowe entry in the City League, but following Sunday's session, there is a chance that Bill Geer and Dave Wickline will handle the Civics themselves.

The North Side Civics held a meeting at the club rooms in Sturgeon street. Sweeney expects the North Siders to be stronger than last year when the team went into the playoff for the first half championship.

will meet Bob Concrete and Al Iovino will oppose Georgie Tomosky.

PROFIO-GANS AGAIN?

When Dominick Profio is ready to box again, which will be about the middle of April, he may be signed for a third meeting with California Joe Gans at McKeesport. Gans outboxed him in their first bout and Profio won by a knockout in the second after being floored himself.

Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, meets Joey Medill, of Chicago, in a 12-rounder in Cleveland tonight. It is a return bout, Medill having beaten Wallace in Chicago a few months ago, since which time Wallace has stopped Jackie Pilkington and beaten Bruce Flowers, among others. The preliminary card includes: Frankie Chatteron vs. Steve McDonald, 8 rounds, and Roey Rosales vs. Arvin Spence, Joey Goodman vs. Paul Allen and Henry Firpo vs. Bobby Green.

The Maryland Boxing Commission is in a ticklish spot, confronted with the task of stringing along with the National Boxing Association in disinheriting Joe Dundee as welterweight champion or tagging along with the Baltimorean and withdrawing from the National body. The chances are it will abide by the Association ruling.

When Benny Bass fought Harry Forbes in Philadelphia last night he was appearing in his ninth bout in 11 weeks, something of a record for a topliner in these times.

BIG PAY FOR STARS

Jimmy McLarnin and Ray Miller received slightly more than $22,000 each for their tame 10-round battle in Madison Square Garden last Friday night, representing 25 per cent for each of the record net indoor gate of $90,560.

Have to hand it to Allie Wolff, the Penn State boxing star, who was undefeated in 28 bouts during his career in the intercollegiate ranks, including his cleanup of the 160-pound class in the championship tournament at Penn State over the last week-end. It was his second winning of the middleweight title.

Johnny Chiodo and Andy Stahura have been matched for one of the six-round preliminaries to the Ike McFowler-Yale Okun bout at Crystal Beach, Johnstown, Wednesday night of next week. Young Zabish and Slambang Harry Taylor will meet in another battle.

GIZZY VS. SMALLWOOD

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, is planning a double windup show for Thursday night of next week. Young Gizzy may meet Chet Smallwood in one of the bouts.

Pinky Kauffman, of Hartford, Conn., who knocked out King Tut, of Minneapolis, in two rounds at Philadelphia last week, has been rematched with the Mid-West battler for the same city next Monday night.

Boston plans open-air shows at popular prices this summer. Two of them will involve champions, Sammy Mandell meeting Honey Boy Finnegan and Joe Dundee opposing Al Mello.

The Motor Square Club is dickering for an opponent to meet Jack Wells, the Wellsburg, W. Va., heavyweight, who recently defeated Sandy Seifert. The show is planned for April 8. For April 15, Jack Zivic may be signed to box Rudy Ceder in a battle of sluggers.

LaGREY MEETS KELLY

Joey LaGrey boxes Spider Kelly, Coast knockout star, in a 10-round bout in New York tonight, while his stablemate, Art de Champlain, boxes Joe Rocco in the eight-round semi-final. Young Rudy boxes Frankie Stellmack at Wellsville, O., with Jack McCarthy meeting Freddie Edwards and Poison Pizzone boxing Joe Roberti in the preliminaries. Al Iovino and Georgie Tomosky are booked for Steubenville on the same card with Clair Repole against Al Williams and Tony Azzara against Young Sweeney. Roleaux Saugero meets Walter Palmer in a 12-round heavyweight bout in Dayton, O. Wilson Yarbo and Bert Colima clash at Los Angeles.

Joe Genet, of Akron, and Homer Ronan, of Newark, O., will box the eight-round windup of a show at Kenton, O., Friday night. Joe O'Malley, of Columbus, and Vincent Hambright meet in a six-round bout at Cincinnati Saturday night and Joey Feldman and Billy DeJamis are booked for Finlay, O., next Tuesday night.

DAVIES, WOLGAST MATCHED

Willie Davies and Midget Wolgast have been matched to box the main bout at the New Castle Jolly Bowl next Monday night. It will be their fifth meeting and has been long in the making.

STUHLDREHER MAY GO TO CORNELL

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—The solution of the Big Cornell football mystery may turn out to be the selection of Harry Stuhldreher, head man of Notre Dame's famous "Four Horsemen," to succeed Gilmour Dobie as head coach and chase away the gridiron gloom above Cayuga's waters.

It has all been a dark secret so far that Dobie, after five disastrous seasons and under some pressure, was prepared to resign—a secret, that is, to everyone but those who not only seem to accept the Dour Scot's retirement at Cornell as a fact, but who also appear to know the exact date on which official announcement will be made, if, as they expect, such announcement is made tomorrow, it will no more than confirm their previous understanding.

At least it has been no secret that Cornell's alumni were showing signs of dissatisfaction with the way the football situation was drifting under the veteran's direction. They may not have been quite as openly critical as those Ohio State partisans who sought the scalp of Dr. John W. Wilce—and got it—but they have nevertheless been insistent that something be done.

GOLFERS OPEN NORTH-SOUTH TOURNEY

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26.—(INS.)—The Tenty-seventh Annual North and South Open Golf Championship gets under way here today with more than 100 golfers, including the members of the American Ryder Cup team and a host of brilliant amateurs, seeking the title now held by Billy Burke.

Johnny Farrell, national open champion, served notice yesterday that he will make a strong bid for the prize when he turned in a card of 68 for 18 holes. Farrell, teamed with Glenna Collett, woman's national champion, defeated Horton Smith and Miss Helen Hicks, 18-year-old New York star, by 11 points in a special match staged to raise funds for the Ryder Cup team.

Smith shot a 71. Tommy Armour, former national open champion, and Walter Hagen, British open champion, each had a practice round of 70.

RANGERS, LEAFS MEET TONIGHT

TORONTO, Ont., March 26.—(INS.)—With one victory to their credit, the New York Rangers will tackle the Toronto Maple Leafs here tonight in the second game of the semi-finals of the National Hockey League play-offs. The first team to win two games will meet the Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup finals for the world championship.

Long's Sport Comment

Cy Williams in reserve as pinch hitter, and the catching should be attended to satisfactorily by Walter Lerian and Virgin Davis.

ALL that the Quakers need to lift them out of the basement quarters that they have occupied steadily for the last three years, and to enable them to finish ahead of Boston or Brooklyn, or both, is the right kind of pitching. Perhaps Benge, Sweetland, Ferguson, Willoughby, McGraw, Baecht, Roy and the others will be able to deliver this, but the prospect looks none too encouraging.

One good dependable hurler would mean a great deal to the Phillies. If death had not taken Frank Ulrich, and if he had been able to join the club this year in his best form, he probably would have represented the difference between an eighth-place and sixth-place or seventh-place team. Even as it is the Phils may escape the cellar, provided, as already stated, that President Baker doesn't sell half the club before June 15.

Odie Cleghorn

EVEN before the news came that Odie Cleghorn had mailed his resignation as manager to the owners, or officials, of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club, it had been generally understood that there would be a change in the managership of the Pirates next season. Cleghorn himself had appeared to sense that he would not be retained as pilot for the 1929-30 campaign, judging from the manner in which he let down in his usual serious hockey manner toward the close of the season recently ended. In fact, it was understood at the beginning of the last season that Cleghorn would not have been retained for the 1928-29 race but for the fact that the club officials were unable to obtain the services of Dick Carroll, whom they were seeking. Cleghorn has been here four years and is the only manager the local club has had since it entered the professional league for the 1925-26 season. An entire new deal for next winter no doubt will be for the best. Meanwhile, it may be possible for the club to obtain some material in exchange for Cleghorn, as it is claimed he signed the usual player's contract and therefore is subject to reserve and trade even though he has resigned the managership.

THE Grim Reaper has been unusually active in the baseball ranks since the arrival of 1929, but the death of Pitcher Roy Meeker, of the Cincinnati club, in Orlando, Fla., yesterday was probably the most shocking of the lot, on account of its sudden nature. Not often in the history of the baseball has an active player died during a spring training trip.

Meeker's death adds another to an unusually long list for the year that is not yet three months old. Among the others who passed in 1929, where John Conway Toole, president of the International League; Frank Ulrich, pitcher for the Philadelphia National League club; James R. Price, secretary of the Boston Red Sox, and Sherwood Magee, National League umpire. Meeker was the second Cincinnati pitcher to die between seasons in less than five years. On October 21, 1925, Marvin Goodwin, Red hurler, died in Galveston, Tex., from injuries suffered in an airplane crash a few days earlier.

Yankees Pick Yanks to Win Pennant

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26.—(INS.)—Get out our American League register and mark the clubs off as follows:

1.—Yankees.
2.—Athletics.
3.—Detroit.
4.—St. Louis.
5.—Washington.
6.—Cleveland.
7.—Boston.
8.—Chicago.

If the Yankees know anything, then that's the way the teams will finish when the curtain rings down next October and the hip-hip-hooray begins for a new World Series.

It's a sort of consensus election with every one of last year's veterans having his say—and there was a terrific unanimity of opinion, too. The boys, in making their vote, seemed agreed that the Tigers, Browns and Athletics would be the real troublemakers.

And while the consensus made the Athletics favorites for second place, it was a close vote—and the players all agreed that the four leading clubs would be bunched through the stretch.

Four Teams Advance In Greensburg Play

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 26.—Four teams advanced to the semi-finals in the first annual Westmoreland county independent basketball tournament held here last night.

Scottdale defeated Mt. Pleasant, 28-13, after the latter had battled the strong south county quintet even in the first quarter.

Keystone surprised and defeated the Latrobe Scholastics 28-12, the latter team having been conceded to be one of the strongest in the tourney.

The Jeannette Semlers and the crack Ocean Park clubs furnished the fireworks in the third game of the evening, but the Rubber City passers doubled the score after being even during the first three quarters, the final count being 50-25 in favor of the Semlers.

Another crack club to live up to expectations was the Penn-Ace five of Jeannette which set back New Kensington Knights of Columbus in a fast game, 30-24.

Scottdale, Keystone and Penn-Ace will clash here Thursday night in the semi-finals.

Friedman to Lead Geneva College Five

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 26.—Len Friedman, of New Castle, was elected captain of the 1930 Geneva College basketball team at a banquet at the Beaver Valley Country Club here last night. The lettermen of this year's squad are ex-Captain Howard Emerick, Harold Bruce, Sam McKinney, Lindsey Montgomery, Alured Ransom, Anthony Paulsey, Claire Merriman, Captain-elect Leonard Friedman and Manager Cecil Baird.

Friedman is a New Castle boy and a junior, having one more year of competition. He led the Geneva floor team in scoring the past season and was particularly apt in handling the ball.

CHINESE DOCTORS

It is said that Chinese doctors are paid to keep their patients well—to watch over the delicate system of nerves, arteries, muscles, bones and tissues—to foresee and forestall sickness.

There are "Chinese doctors" in the telephone industry—more than 4000 men and women in this Pennsylvania organization alone—who give all or a portion of their time to keep your telephone service "well."

Their fingers are constantly on the pulse of the telephone mechanism. They probe the switchboards and circuits, wires and cables. They search for the first symptoms of trouble.

"Preventive Maintenance" we call their work. Which means "getting there ahead of the trouble."

Telephone trouble must be discovered and corrected—whenever humanly possible—before it can affect your service. It is not enough to wait for trouble to come and then correct it.

To this end, our "Chinese doctors" spend hours and hours—many of them while the city sleeps—eternally testing—checking—adjusting . . . so that the service shall be "at all times adequate, dependable and satisfactory to the user."

STOCKS SMASH AS RATE HITS 20 PER CENT

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—A further tightening in credit conditions, which sent the call money rate to 20 per cent and the time money rate to 8½ per cent for all maturities, brought about another drastic reaction in today's stock market. The declines in scores of issues ran from 3 to nearly 35 points, with more than a hundred issues plunging into new low ground for the year.

The market opened irregular and started to rally when it became apparent that overnight margin calls had failed to cause any sharp initial breaks. The rally was quickly checked, however, when call money renewed at 12 per cent, the highest opening charge since January 2. Prices slipped steadily for the rest of the morning, but the selling assumed gigantic proportions after mid-day when money brokers bid 15 per cent for call money, and the rate was immediately jacked up to that figure, and then to 20 per cent. This exceeds the 14 per cent rate yesterday, and is the highest charge since the post-war deflation crisis of 1920.

MONEY SCARCE

Call money was scarce even at the higher figure, time money was 8¼ bid for all maturities, with little money available below 8½ per cent. The scarcity of money indicates the heavy withdrawal of "out-of-town funds, and the reluctance of local bankers to place money into the market when they are seeking to co-operate with the Federal Reserve Board in curtailing the volume of speculative credit.

Trading was in unusually heavy volume, with indications that the day's sales would set a new high record for the year, if not for all time. Total sales crossed the 3,000,000 share mark shortly after midday, and the ticker then nearly 40 minutes behind the market.

At their low prices today, many of the high priced specialties were selling 30 to 70 points below the year's high levels, some of which were established only last week. Adams Express broke 21 points after having dropped 49¼ yesterday, the low price of 530 contrasting with the year's high of 600. Green Cananea Copper, which sold as high as 197½ last week, tumbled 10 points to 156. Anaconda Copper sold down 7¼ points to 147½, as against a recent high of 174.

LOSSES LARGE

Brooklyn Edison tumbled 34½ points; Johns Manville 13½, A. M. Byers 12 and International Telephone 10½. More than a score others including Baldwin, Kennecott, Allied Chemical, Warner Pictures, National Cash Register, Kroger Stores, Wright Aeronautical and Rossia Insurance sold down 6 to nearl 10 points.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, March 26.—Liberal export business in Canadian wheat, together with higher Liverpool quotations than looked for, led to an early upturn today in wheat prices here. Labor troubles at Argentine ports and absence of moisture in Kansas tended also to lift wheat values. Opening at ¾c to ⅞c advance, Chicago wheat later showed firmness. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firmer, with corn starting unchanged at ⅛c higher, and subsequently holding near initial figures.

Word that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been taken for shipment to Europe did a good deal today to encourage buying of wheat future deliveries in Chicago. Especially as there were indications that Argentine exports might be interfered with by strikes on the part of stevedores. There were also advices that Europe was expected to continue to buy actively and Oriental trade to be well maintained.

Crop reports today regarding domestic wheat in the southwest, where growth was most advanced, were of a continued mixed character, some fields very promising, others thin and late. The situation was summed up, however, as favorable in the main, although some loss from blowing has taken place. According to current trade dispatches, lack of rain was largely offset by the fact that as a rule the subsoil appeared to be soaked to within an inch of the surface.

DEATH PENALTY FOES TO MEET

HARRISBURG, March 26.—(AP.)—Many prominent students of crime and criminals will attend a public hearing at the capitol on April 2 on the Ditter bill to abolish capital punishment. Raymond T. Bye, of the University of Pennsylvania, widely known criminologist, will head the list of speakers advocating passage of the measure. Other speakers for abolition will be Chaplain P. N. Osborne, of Rockview Penitentiary; Thomas M. Finn, commissioner of conciliation, United States Department of Labor; Warden Lawes, of Sing Sing Prison, New York, and Albert H. Votaw, secretary of the Pennsylvania Prison Society.

Coyne Judgement Voided by Court

Federal Judge Nelson McVicar today signed an order setting aside a judgment of $1,000 with interest against State Senator James J. Coyne, who had been bondsman for Eugene Calliari, arrested for violating the prohibition laws. The order was signed with the consent of the District Attorney.

The petition explained that Calliari, who failed to appear for trial, had been injured in a coal mine and was in Mercy Hospital. He later surrendered himself to the United States marshal and put up new bond.

Coast to Coast Air Mail Time Reduced

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Brown announced today, that air mail time between New York and San Francisco will be reduced twelve hours or more with the inauguration within thirty days of additional service which will eliminate the overnight layover on incoming mail at both terminals.

The completion of a lighted airway between Salt Lake City and San Francisco will enable air mail to leave both New York and San Francisco at night and arrive at the two terminals in the morning.

GREAT NECK, N. Y., March 26.—(AP.)—The body of Russell H. Dunham, 37, a New York cotton broker, was found last night in his gas-filled home in an exclusive section of Great Neck. Police said he had committed suicide and a medical examiner said he had been dead for several hours.

Two notes, one to his wife, from whom he had been estranged for a week, and another to the policeman on the beat, were found beside his wife's picture which he had placed on the kitchen stove before turning on the gas jets.

The note to the policeman asked him to notify Mrs. Dunham, who left with their two sons last Tuesday, police said, after a quarrel, at a telephone number in Baltimore, Md., where she was said to be with her mother.

How One Middle-West City Is Forging Ahead Rapidly.

—By B. C. FORBES—

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24.—"Do you see that young woman over there?" asked Lou Holland, executive manager of Kansas City's Chamber of Commerce, who presided over a large gathering of business men it was my privilege to address. "She has shown what can be done in this city. She began making her own dresses, designed them so attractively that friends asked her where she bought them, and then coaxed her to make some for them. She did. Then she took on a few helpers. Today she employs 500 or more helpers, occupies whole floors of a large building, goes frequently to Europe for materials and is a shining example of self-won success. She has done it all without losing one iota of her womanly graciousness; she is extremely popular. Her name? Mrs. Donnelly."

SHE was fortunate in being located in a city that possesses distinct advantage for manufacturers. The cost of living and of doing business here has not skyrocketed as it has elsewhere since the war. Read this, from a Washington dispatch in the Kansas City Journal-Post:

"Analysis of figures just issued by the Bureau of Labor statistics indicates it costs less to live in Kansas City than in any other city of similar size in the United States. From June, 1920, to December, 1926, the cost of living in Kansas City decreased 26.3 per cent. This left the cost 11.2 per cent above December, 1917. No other large city makes a better showing.

"The following percentages show how other cities compare with Kansas City's decrease of 26.3 per cent:

"Atlanta, 21.2 per cent; Baltimore, 18.9; Birmingham, 19.5; Chicago, 19.3; Cincinnati, 17.6; Cleveland, 20.4; Denver, 22.6; Detroit, 24.8; Houston, 21.9; Indianapolis, 21.1; Jacksonville, 21.9; Los Angeles, 15.2; Memphis, 19.7; Minneapolis, 19.7; Mobile, 20; New Orleans, 15.8; New York, 19.6; Norfolk, 21.6; Pittsburgh, 16.6; Philadelphia, 18.3; Portland, Me., 19.7; Portland, Ore., 24; San Francisco, 17.5; St. Louis, 19.1; Washington, 20.4.

"Kansas City's increase from 1917 to 1828, 11.3 per cent, was from 4 to 16 per cent less than the increase in other cities of similar size."

HERE'S a pointer for other cities: Kansas City has just finished a most exhaustive stock-taking. Its Chamber of Commerce now knows definitely how many concerns of every kind there are locally, the number of employes, the size of the payroll, where the raw material is obtained and how much, where the products are marketed; also, the total local consumption of various lines of goods. It has gathered information, too, on the city's and the neighborhood's production of raw materials, such as tobacco, oil, coton, etc., and of the consumption of the finished products th refrom.

A thorough study is now being made of all this information so that it can be discovered just what kind of enterprises should come and locate here, what lines are already well supplied, and so forth.

"If we spend 15 millions on tobacco and grow plenty of the raw material, why should we manufacture locally only an infinitesimal part of it?" asked Mr. Holland. His answer was, "We shouldn't—and we won't for much longer."

KANSAS CITY is getting ready to do a big business by water transportation when the river development work is completed about the end of next year, and it is making much more actual progress than most cities towards becoming an aircraft center—both for the building of planes and their use. One local company ranks third among the nation's plane builders. Last year it built nearly 400 commercial biplanes and is completing a plant, which, the officials say, will enable them to build about 1,500 this year.

TRANSPORTATION by inland water and by air is much in the mind of the Middle West. Big developments are really coming.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP.)—Curb market stocks again dipped sharply today, as the call money rate was stepped up to 17 per cent for the first time since 1920, and funds were scarce even at that figure. Ford of Canada, which dropped 40 points yesterday, sank 26 points further at midday.

There was a show of firmness for a time in the morning, but when the call money renewal rate on the "big board" was announced at 12 per cent, bullish operations were suspended, and as the rate touched 15 per cent at midday, stocks were dumped onto the market in a deluge. Selling of curb stocks was particularly heavy by traders who needed funds to protect their margins on "big board" stocks.

Firestone Tire quickly dropped 4 points and Auburn Auto 3. Utility shares generally sagged 2 to 5 points in a short time. Goldman Sachs sold down 3 points. Wright Aero new stock broke in sympathy with the drop in the old stock on the "big board." Aviation stocks generally gave way, Fairchild and Fokker both turning heavy.

Oil stocks held up fairly well under the storm of selling, although a few members of this group dropped sharply. Vacuum lost 9 points. In the mines, Newmont was again conspicuously weak, sagging more than 6 points.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

GOOD BUSINESS REPORTED BY EXPERTS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WE ARE having exceptionally good business and there are no signs of any interruption in volume at the present time. This is the essence of the March report of the Conference of Statisticians in Industry, which operates under the auspices of the National Industrial Conference Board. The statement is the fourth to be issued by the conference, which was organized last year to extend statistical analysis and provide an organized interpretation of business trends. Some of the most able statistical experts in the country have been obtained to carry on the work.

A high rate of activity prevails in the automotive, iron and steel machine tool and farm machinery industries as well as in textiles and in electrical manufactures according to the report. It is significant that two of these industries, steel and electrical manufacture, constitute an important part of Pittsburgh's activity.

RESIDENTIAL building construction, alone of the basic industries, shows no improvement, containing the decline of several months, and the leather tanning industry is operating at relatively low levels.

The pace of industrial activity is set by the automobile industry, according to the report. Motor car production in February broke all monthly records and this record output evidently is being absorbed by a strong consumer demand. New car registrations in January were 58.5 per cent higher than in the same month a year ago, 27 per cent higher than in February, 1927, and 4 per cent higher than in the corresponding month of the peak year, 1926.

IN DEALING specifically with the steel industry the report indicates that further expansion is rather unlikely and that the present high rate of mill activity is a combination of an unusual seasonable bulge influenced by a combination of several exceptional circumstances.

"A rather heavy bunching of orders for railway freight cars during the past two months and a very active demand from machine tool builders and manufacturers of agricultural machinery have combined with the demand from the automobile industry to raise the rate of production of pig iron and steel to extremely high levels," says the report.

"DURING February the rate of production of both pig iron and steel ingots either set or came near to setting all time records, despite continued declines in one of the most important steel consuming industries, building construction. The daily output of pig iron in February, amounting to 114,833 tons, was the highest on record, except for the figure of 115,207 tons set during March, 1925. The daily output of steel ingots in February was the largest ever reported, exceeding the previous record in October, 1928, by 4.7 per cent.

"During the first two months of this year, orders for railroad freight cars have amounted to 70 per cent of their 1928 total. In view, however, of the fact that freight car orders are usually heaviest at this time of the year, the current figures cannot be taken as indicative of the trend for the rest of the year.

"UNFILLED orders of the United States Steel Corporation at the end of February hardly point to any further expansion in iron and steel this spring. There was a rise of less than 1 per cent in orders during the month as compared with a rise of nearly 3 per cent during February a year ago. Neither in January nor February, this year, were orders as large as those in the corresponding months a year ago. Indeed, they were considerably lower, February by 254,000 tons and January by 166,000 tons, compared with the corresponding months of the previous year."

The report also mentions the significant fact that by the end of February prices for finished steel had remained unchanged for the twelfth consecutive week and prices for pig iron had remained unchanged for the fifth consecutive week.

NATIONAL DEPT. STORES DOUBLE EARNINGS

The annual statement of National Department Stores, Inc., the first country-wide system of its kind, formed in 1923, and operating department stores in 11 principal cities, was made public today. The report is regarded as of more than mere term significance in that there has been an intensive application over the last five years of the central control principle of store merchandising on a national scale.

The corporation shows, with net sales of $71,404,075 in the fiscal year ended January 31, 1929, net profits of $2,180,028, after all charges and taxes, including depreciation and amortization. This was equivalent to $2.29 per share earned on the 550,000 shares of no par common stock outstanding during the year, and compares with net profits of $1,578,581, equal after preferred dividends, to $1.07 per share on the same number of common shares outstanding in the preceding year.

REDUCES DEBT

Not only did the corporation more than double its per share earnings on the common stock last year, on a lower volume of sales resulting from important and beneficial changes in merchandising methods, but it was also able to reduce its liabilities on bonds, mortgages and other properties and other long-term indebtedness by $817,173 and to reduce by redemption its first preferred stock by $339,600 and its second preferred stock by $72,800. Since the end of the fiscal period covered by the report (January 31, 1929) it has redeemed or acquired for redemption an additional $460,700 par value of preferred stock so that since January 31, 1928, the company has redeemed a total of $867,100 of first and second preferred stocks. The company has no notes payable outstanding.

After dividends paid and accrued, there was carried to surplus $1,143,718, against $680,715 in the preceding year. Total earned surplus now stands at the record figure of $7,095,825, which compares with $5,952,107 at the end of the previous fiscal year.

All the corporation's valuable leaseholds and good-will are carried at the nominal figure of $1.

PRESIDENTS REPORT

President Victor W. Sincere in his report says:

"As forecast in our statement issued one year ago, it was during the past year and is now our intention to improve our turnover and profits, based on advanced methods in retailing. The results are evidenced by the increased turnover and an increased profit showing.

"Our financial position is very much improved; the ratio of current assets to current liabilities being slightly more than four to one.

"Our inventories, containing all that is necessary for our purpose, are at the lowest point since our organization. Our reserves of every class are considered ample.

"Our personnel, both in our New York executive offices and in our stores, has been greatly strengthened and improved.

"During the year we have increased the efficiency of our centralized control and buying of merchandise, which materially aids in profitable operation. The current year should see this increasingly effective, and your Board of Directors view with optimism the profitable results thereof."

Bugs Baer Says

BARBARA'S HOME TOWN

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S summer White House will be near Frederick, Md.

"Bugs" Baer sang the duet with Stonewall Jackson.

That's only 40 miles from Washington. Still, it's a start.

After Herbert gets more sure of his job he will go further away.

Frederick is where Barbara Fritchie sang the duet with Stonewall Jackson.

Stonewall was making a friendly little call in Maryland at the time.

He intended to go over the Chautauqua circuit through Pennsylvania and New York.

For some reason, the Mayor was not on the City Hall steps to greet Stonewall.

Stonewall came marching up the main street. The reception committee was also on a main street. But in another town further north.

Barbara heard the bands playing and stuck her head out of a garret window.

She had her hair done up in red, white and blue curlpapers.

One of Stonewall's boys took aim at Barbara. He wasn't mad at the old girl. All he wanted to do was to run up his score.

Barbara said, "Is that you, Stoney?"

Stonewall replied, "Hello, Baby, old girl. Better pull in your neck. They're looking for lumber."

Barbara didn't like this reference to wooden heads. Some historians claim that Barbara and Stonewall had been childhood sweethearts.

Anyway, they were always clowning together. The real truth of the matter was that her childhood sweetheart was the man who tried to shoot her.

Red, white and blue curlpapers would make any childhood sweetheart mad.

Barbara started to recite, "Shoot if you must, this old gray—"

That was the only time Stonewall was ever defeated.

"Tune out," he said.

So Stonewall's army marched away with all on board.

SEEKING a divorce on grounds of cruelty, a man testified that his wife would go away and leave him for periods of 10 days and two weeks.

It may be difficult to see how such action on the part of a wife constitutes cruelty.

But imagine the mental condition of a husband who never knew when his wife was coming home.

Consider the torture, the doubt, the fear, the hoping against hope!

* * *

The verdict should certainly be mental cruelty in the first degree.

Doc Ruff, the dentist, says this is a true story—

Two young lady tourists went to the Riding Academy to engage horses.

"What kind of saddles do you ride?"

"What kind of saddles are there?"

"English saddles and Mexican saddles."

"What is the difference?"

"English saddles are plain. Mexican saddles have horns."

"Oh, I don't think we'll ride in traffic."

Early Beginning of Work For Public Is Good News

With work to be started within ten days on street, sewer and park improvements under city supervision, and contracts to be let on county improvements within a month, projects totaling more than $1,100,000 will be under way. The city jobs are to cost $129,346, while the county work is estimated at $1,000,000. That will be good news to hundreds of workers. And its effect will be felt in many lines of business.

Other contracts for city work will be announced this week, according to Edward G. Lang, director of public works. Mr. Lang and his department deserve praise for being prepared to begin the improvement program thus early in the year. The department gets its share of censure from the legislative branch when improvements are delayed and it is only fair that it be commended when it is forehanded.

The city contracts include various general paving contracts as well as repaving a number of important thoroughfares, including Fifth avenue extension, from Penn to Hamilton avenue, and West Liberty avenue, block pavement, which last summer was surfaced with asphalt part of the distance from Liberty Tubes to Dormont, and now to be completed. This is the main artery from the south portal of the tubes and the improvement is one that will be appreciated by the thousands who use it daily.

In the county contracts soon to be awarded will be another southern outlet from the tubes. It is announced the work will include three branches of the Sawmill Run boulevard, one from Warrington avenue to Woodruff street, one from West Liberty avenue to Library road, and another from the latter branch to Bausman street.

This boulevard is one that has been proposed for years and its completion will be the fulfillment of a vision. It will serve as a tube outlet in two directions besides forming a belt line link.

Another announcement concerning county roads that indicates progress is that new markers of types approved by American Association of State Highway Officials, and uniform with those already in use elsewhere, will be put in force. They will constitute Allegheny's contribution to a plan for standardized, nation-wide marking of roads.

Invention Developed Here Speeds Communication

Before long we will be sending letters, not a word at a time through code, but complete, as written, to points around the world that are equipped to receive them. It will take a minute or less to send them and a few additional minutes to prepare them for delivery after they are received.

This is indicated by the success of an experiment at the Westinghouse Research Laboratory, East Pittsburgh. The process is that of transmission of pictures by radio. The original copy of the letter is the picture and it is recorded at the receiving end as a photographic copy, which requires development. Photographs also can be transmitted.

The apparatus, developed in the laboratory by Dr. V. Zworykin, is said to be so far perfected that commercial use of it will be possible in the near future.

Many of us likely receive this news with not half the interest we would manifest in the announcement that Paul Waner had left the holdout ranks. It is natural, perhaps. We are no longer amazed by startling scientific discoveries as much as we used to be. We have reached that state where we consider everything possible, and that really is much better than considering things impossible of accomplishment.

Nevertheless, it is an amazing development. It likely will be years before we can receive full benefit from this invention, but we all feel sure that it will come. When it does come it will be another evidence of the world's indebtedness to science in which Pittsburgh will obtain reflected glory.

Eternal Religious War!

When Will Men Learn to Mind Their Own Business—in Religion?

Complications in Albania, where Ahmed Zogu has promoted himself from president of an imaginary republic to king of a more or less imaginary kingdom.

Albania interests Mussolini, and there is talk of marrying Ahmed Zogu, who wears a handsome uniform with many medals, to an Italian princess.

Mohammedans in Albania fear Zogu would turn Christian if he married an Italian princess. Therefore Albanian Moslems and Christians fight. One Catholic priest was killed in a clash recently.

Religious war is the worst war, the most stupid war, the absolutely UNNECESSARY war. It has sacrificed millions of lives in the past, setting nation against nation, causing the massacre of millions by the bayonet, the sword, by burning, torture and horrors unthinkable.

And still religious wars and hatreds continue.

Great Britain, a small nation thousands of miles away, governs with a handful of her own men 300,000,000 Asiatics. What makes Britain safe is the fact that there are dozens of religions in India, hating each other, so that they have no time to unite in hating Great Britain.

The world needs some kind of peace league to end religious wars, some pact by which religions would "renounce war" as a method of settling their differences.

Various religions, each believing that it represents "the Prince of Peace," savagely hate each other.

What the Prince of Peace thinks of THEM, those that foment hatred, will be known perhaps in another world.

Tales That Are Told

Ruined His Chance

YESTERDAY everything had been happy. Tonight they sat at extreme ends of the settee, in unbroken silence.

Harold could not fathom the cause. Had he not written a poem in her honor?

"Mr. Holt," said the girl, at length, "do you know that the feet of the Statue of Liberty, in New York harbor, measure sixteen feet five inches?"

"So I have heard."

"The waist is thirty-five feet round," she continued. "The nose is four feet six inches long; the mouth is a yard across; the thickness of the head is ten feet. Did you know these facts?"

"Y-yes."

"Then will you explain," she demanded, "why you state in your poem that I remind you of the Statue of Liberty?"

These Dangerous Hobbies

ONE morning Morton happened to glance over the garden wall, and he almost fainted as a result of what was taking place.

"Look here," he shouted to his neighbor, "what are you burying in that hole?"

"Oh," came the cheerful reply, "I'm just replanting some of my seeds."

"Seeds!" yelled Morton, boiling over with wrath and indignation. "It looks more like one of my hens!"

"It is," grinned his neighbor, who was an amateur gardener, "and the seeds are inside."

Cause for Alarm

THE mild little man, inclined to deafness, had just finished lunch at a smart restaurant. He was preparing to leave when he noticed the orchestra was about to start playing again. At the same moment an angry voice bellowed in his ear:—

"Sir, remove that hat at once!"

He turned and faced the angry man on his left.

"Pardon me," he said meekly, "are they playing the National Anthem?"

"No, you idiot," roared the other—"it's MY hat!"

Well Done, Isaac!

THE teacher had been explaining to her pupils the different meanings of the words "to," "too," and "two," and finally, to find out if the children had grasped the idea, she decided to give a test.

"Now, children, as quickly as you can, I want you to give me a sentence containing all three spellings."

Hardly were the words out of her mouth before up went a hand.

"Well, Isaac?" said the teacher, and the boy answered, glibly, "Two cents is too much to spend."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a kind of a tramp arrested in New York for breaking a big mirror in a hotel lobby with a brick.

The judge says to him, "You're a queer bird. Don't you know it's against the law to break other people's mirrors?"

"Sure, but I didn't have any of my own to bust, Judge.'

"Well, then, maybe you didn't know that breaking a mirror means bad luck for seven years?"

"Yes, Judge, I knowed it. That's why I busted the thing. I didn't know any cheaper way of getting my bad luck limited to seven years."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THE Dinosaurs are no more. This would have been a society item of appalling significance in the Miocene Age, for the Dinosaurs were one of the Leading Families some millions of years ago. They were enormous reptiles and for untold generations they lorded it over the primeval swamps. But times and temperatures changed and the pampered Dinosaurs didn't keep up with the march of events. So Evolution wiped them off the the map and gave their places to less impressive but more useful beasties like Belgian Hares and Guinea Pigs.

That is what happened to the lazy Dinosaurs. That is what always happens to lazy creatures who outlive their usefulness. And unless all signs fail, that's what will presently happen to a certain tribe of lazy lizards now hampering our social order—namely the Idle Wives of America.

America at present is producing the busiest males and the idlest females on record. An American man is busy from the day he runs errands for the corner grocer at a dollar a week to the moment when he gives his last gasp with a million or so to his credit. Be he carpenter or capitalist he earns his way every second of his time. But his wife earns her way until hubby breaks into the $5,000 a year class, after which the lily of the fields has nothing on her.

Forthwith she farms out every possible chore and spends her time flitting from beauty parlor to bridge table, from tea room to matinee, from style show to movie. Or, if detained at home, she spends long hours gabbling over the phone, doing her nails, washing her hair or reading tripe. Often she adds to her sense of self-importance by making social service "surveys" to the exasperation of all professional workers, or reading Little Papers at the club, getting all smoked up about the election. Outside of this, her contribution to human activity is exactly nil.

Yet nothing would surprise or enrage one of these ladies more than to be told that she is an idler. She is convinced that she is the busiest being on earth and can, at any time, produce an attack of nervous prostration to prove it.

The Dinosaur passed because it couldn't face change and competition. The Idle American Wife will pass for exactly the same reason. She will not be able to cash in on grandma's record much longer. Other women are qualifying as people. They are making good in offices and homes. They are meeting successfully every test which men meet and retaining their feminine charms while doing so. And American husbands are perceiving this fact and making the inevitable comparison between the Live Wire in the office and the Wash Out at home.

He's an easy-going, sentimental slob — the American husband — but even the most good-natured worms will turn. And it is a safe bet that he will shortly do what Evolution did to the Dinosaurs — refuse to house and feed a lot of useless bric-a-brac.

SWEDENBORG

By Garrett P. Serviss

MY late friend Frank W. Very, astronomer and thinker, left as his most voluminous contribution to human reflection an "Epitome of Swedenborg's Science," just now published, and I have been perusing it. I am not a Swedenborgian or a "mystic," but I am curious about that remarkable personage and greatly interested in seeing what so informed a mind as Very's, in these hard-headed scientific times, can make of the ideas of Swedenborg, of whom Emerson, at once skeptic and seer, wrote:

"A colossal soul, he lies vast abroad on his times, uncomprehended by them, and requires a long focal distance to be seen."

Whatever else we may think of him, it must be acknowledged that Swedenborg was an intellectual marvel, one of the greatest of his age. He followed Newton by about 40 years. He had the scientific instinct, but strangely mingled with spiritual insight, so that he was able, in all seriousness, to affirm that he could, and did, at least at times, live at once in the world of spirits and the world of material embodiment. To this he owed his "visions." In this way he was, as he believed, brought into communion with spirits inhabiting other planets.

His most famous doctrine is that of "correspondences," by which he meant that everything in the material world has a corresponding entity in the spiritual world. Just now, when the whole scientific world is agog over new theories and discoveries which seem to carry into realms where matter, as we have always understood it, vanishes into a pure abstraction, called energy, even the most material minded scientist must feel some interest in the singular correspondence which appears between these speculations concerning the relation between the "real" and the "unreal," and Swedenborg's teaching of the influx of a "conatus," which he defines as energy flowing in from an inexhaustible spiritual source. One is reminded of the new famous "cosmic rays."

The idea of mysticism has too much overspread Swedenborg's reputation to allow the real practicality of his doctrines to be generally perceived. The mere word "spirit" or "spiritual" is a red rag to materialists and they charge upon it with lowered horns, not comprehending that it is in reality no more mystic than some of their own speculative ideas, like that of the ether, or of the more recent "space-time." To Swedenborg there was no mysticism at all involved in his belief that the universe is formed and sustained by the continual influx of creative and sustentative energy from a "Divine Omnipotency." When have scientists ever been able to escape from the insistent conclusion lying at the end of all their researches that back of every physical law lies an incomprehensible original force? It is mere difference of names.

The breadth of Swedenborg's mind is shown by his quiet acceptance of the spiritual in constant association with the material. For him there was, and could be, no difference between, and no separation of religion and science. By some strange distortion of mentality, millions of people have come today to feel a kind of shame in admitting that they have any religious sentiments whatever. Swedenborg is an example to them of the fact that science necessarily grows out of religion. For religion looks toward the great first cause, and science, as well as it can on its stumbling road, does no other.

Bible Passages

The Wicked

(Psalm 10)

WHY standest thou afar off, O Lord? why hidest thou thyself in times of trouble?

The wicked in his pride doth persecute the poor: let them be taken in the devices that they have imagined.

For the wicked boasteth of his heart's desire, and blesseth the covetous, whom the Lord abhorreth.

The wicked, through the pride of his countenance, will not seek after God: God is not 'n all his thoughts.

His ways are always grievous; thy judgments are far above out of his sight: as for all his enemies, he puffeth at them.

He hath said in his heart, I shall not be moved: for I shall never be in adversity.

His mouth is full of cursing and deceit and fraud: under his tongue is mischief and vanity.

He sitteth in the lurking places of the villages: in the secret places doth he murder the innocent: his eyes are privily set against the poor.

He lieth in wait secretly as a lion in his den: he lieth in wait to catch the poor: he doth catch the poor, when he draweth him into his net.

He croucheth, and humbleth himself, that the poor may fall by his strong ones.

He hath said in his heart, God hath forgotten: he hideth his face; he will never see it.

Arise, O Lord; O God, lift up thine hand: forget not the humble.

Wherefore doth the wicked contemn God? he hath said in his heart, Thou wilt not require it.

Thou hast seen it; for thou beholdest mischief and spite, to requite it with thy hand: the poor committeth himself unto thee; thou art the helper of the fatherless.

Break thou the arm of the wicked and the evil man: seek out his wickedness till thou find none.

The Lord is King for ever and ever: the heathen are perished out of his land.

Lord, thou hast heard the desire of the humble: thou wilt prepare their heart, thou wilt cause thine ear to hear:

To judge the fatherless and the oppressed, that the man of the earth may no more oppress.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Tree and Man

HOW strange it seems a tree will grow
From some dark, cloistered place
Up, up because light wills it so,
To greet the sun's loved face!

It thrusts aside the clods that crush,
The weight of barren stones,
It climbs above rank underbrush
Up, up to sunlit zones!

At first so weak a thing, so small,
Yet with what dower of strength
To urge it up, erect and tall,
To sunsweet heights at length!

Much like a tree man seems, sometimes,
As, thrusting clods aside,
Up, up to fairer realms h climbs,
To vistas new and wide.

This truth is good indeed to know:
That love may potent be
To lift a man and make him grow
As light can lift a tree.

Play Sure and Stay Poor

By Herbert Kaufman

DON'T be afraid of losing your place. If you can't get a new one, you won't hold the old one.

Two-thirds of the Dobbins jogging along in job-shafts are Esaus, swapping hopes and potentialities for a regular nose-bag.

The essential difference between leaders and followers is a matter of spunk. Most folks mark themselves cheap, and fearfully reduce the terms of ambition, to insure a quick sale of their services.

They stick to the bargain basements of opportunity, and consequently never encounter the quality hunters.

Hark back to school days, and recall how you held your own with classmates.

Then sift memory and trace the mental processes that landed you in a rut, while dozens of boys, without an early aptitude for anything, are now wearing medals.

Lots of 'em were of humbler parentage—developed against illiterate backgrounds—had no family connections or inspiring guidance.

But something in 'em, that wouldn't tolerate permanent inferiority, wound the mainsprings of character and made 'em tick.

They set out to "get it" and also ran into blind alleys, but unlike you, turned from the by-ways to the highways of action, and went on and up.

They refused to play weak hands—tossed "deuce" chances into the discard—endured temporary inconveniences, suffered unemployment and unenjoyment—and waited for the "ace" breaks included in all life decks.

Frank Vanderlip never had a dollar, except from a mechanic's wage envelope, until after thirty.

Which didn't hinder him from thinking and believing he could patch the gaps in his education, and rise through journalism and private-secretaryship, to a sub-cabinet office, and, thence, presidency of the National City Bank.

Incidentally, he didn't attempt to "keep up with the Joneses." It took all his time and savings to keep up with the procession. And before long, he was leading it, with a Wall Street baton.

Carl Laemmle was forty when he threw off a floor-walker's yoke and decided to be independent, with $4,000. Universal Pictures are the fruit of that "sink or swim" adventure.

And William Fox, handicapped with a widowed mother, one useless arm and the merest rudiments of the three R's, manifestly had no prior rights over yours to ownership of the greatest movie chain and production organization in corporation or individual captivity.

He traded up from a cloth-shrinker's sponge. And Heaven knows, Providence couldn't furnish a more ridiculous instrument of fortune.

And if these careers don't ease self-pity-aches, consider Joseph Pulitzer, carrying beer in Faust's restaurant—but carrying on until, like Monte Cristo, the "World" was his.

Luck? Hell—pluck!

In the words of Steve Brodie: "You'll never be a high diver if you don't take a chance."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 26.—Only two professional humorists to my notion suggest their calling—Will Rogers and Irvin Cobb. The rest in repose seem on the verge of crying out loud. But Cobb and Rogers have the anxious air of getting ready to cut the plate with a fast one.

The solemn mien and manners of the mime have always been stressed and are rarely exaggerations. Ring Lardner, upon those infrequent occasions when he attempts to smile, gives a neat imitation of a startled screech own. There is no record of his giving way to a hearty fit of laughter.

George Ade would certainly not be indexed as cheerful looking. He, too, has a wry stingy smile—the sort the banker indulges when he magnanimously decides to give you three days of grace. Bugs Baer would not look out of place marching with professional pallbearers in Paris.

H. C. Witwer and Sam Hellman have the perpetual expression of having just tasted an ailing clam. One of Broadway's cleverest wits—the late Rennold Wolf—had the sharp and unhumorous poise that belongs to the eagle. He was the last man you would suspect could convulse an audience with a quip.

An endless procession of names might be piled up to prove humorists in their physical aspects are about as hilarious as hangnails. The jovial moon-faced fellow with the booming voice and ready laugh fits the picture, but as a rule is a terrible headache.

And this merely substantiates the overworked theme, but two of the saddest fellows I ever met were Slivers and Bluch, the clowns. I could rock with laughter at their drolleries before meeting them, but afterward I was never able to laugh at them again.

While cartoonists and strip men express a greater liveliness and zest for fun there are any number who to the casual observer might be easily mistaken for sedate types of business men. Stage comedians, however, seem to fit in with their comic calling "on and off."

A rich New Yorker has paid—at least he was billed—$36,000 to a dentist for a difficult bit of removable bridge work. This is reputed the highest price for a job of this sort. However, bridge work, costing from $2,000 to $4,000 is not unusual. With $36,000 bridge work I'd just skip around town laughing with my mouth open all day.

There are few areas in New York where home life is so vivid and pleasant as in the Bronx. Aloofness among neighbors so noticeable in other sections is not known. The big apartment houses are like one big family. Mothers gossip through dumb waiter shafts. Mrs. Ginsberg knows what Mrs. Schmalz is preparing for dinner, and children play all day in the areaways in a happy fraternity. Parents correct neighbors' children without offense. At night while wives listen to the radio and sew, husbands gather in kitchens in shirt-sleeved ease to play the favorite game of the Bronx—pinochle.

Nor is the Bronx much interested in the gay goings on in town. It supports very little "night life," nor are there slumming dives such as are found in Harlem and almost every other section. Driving through the Bronx at midnight one finds almost all apartment houses dark. The Bronx seems intent upon getting on in the world and moving to The Drive. And it does.

Even an idea hesitates to strike a man when he is down.

A man has the right to control his wife—and a left to defend himself if she resents.

So long as women use the telephones as much as they do now, no one can say that conversation is a lost art.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

"MY WIFE is so jealous of me that I can hardly look at another woman without making her angry."

This complaint was made by a married man of forty-one.

A friend replied: "I would feel complimented if my wife should be jealous of me."

These two opinions furnish something to think about.

There are different kinds of jealousies among wives.

Some are so afraid of losing their husbands.

Others suffer from hurt pride, they don't want other women to think their husbands find them perhaps more interesting than their wives.

And a few are so proud of their husbands that they want to see them succeed in an almost unbelievable way, and they know that scandal does not help.

In most cases jealousy is complimentary to a man.

It is an exception when a wife feels that she cannot trust him.

The one who has most peace of mind is the one who sees no wrong, no matter what he does.

When a husband with such a wife lives up to her ideals of him it brings a wonderful degree of peace and comfort and sustaining strength.
